

From The Heart . . .

Thirteen tractor trailers loaded with 250 tons of hay rolled out of Garrett County last Friday morning, bound for drought-stricken areas of Maryland where farmers' crops have been wiped out. This amount of hay represents approximately 12,500 bales. The non-farmer can better grasp how much hay this really is when he realizes that a single bale can feed a dairy cow for two days.

This hay is not being sold to these stricken farms, but is being donated, and we believe that the persons responsible for this selfless act deserve much praise and admiration. This hay donation represents not only money out of the pockets of those making the contribution, but it is also a lot of sweat and back-straining work that is required to produce the hay.

Approximately 35 Garrett Countians have been involved in this gift, either as hay producers, or volunteers who have helped bale and load the hay and drivers who made the transport. We cannot express here how proud we are of these folks, whose actions have come straight from the heart.

In particular, we would mention the Marlin Lawson family of Friendsville, who have not only spearheaded this hay drive, but have personally donated huge amounts of hay, plus the use of six trailers and three of the six tractors, plus fuel, to transport the hay. This is real giving, because nothing has been asked, nor expected, in return for their efforts.

One of the great mysteries that surrounds Christianity and various other religions is why our creator allows bad things to happen. We are convinced that part of the answer lies in the fact that, without bad, there can be no good. When pain and hardship are experienced by some, there always seems to be a response of relief and assistance from others. It is out of tragedy and disaster that mankind's truly good qualities are most evident. What a dull life this would be if we had no way to compare such things.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am a proud owner of property in both Frederick County and Garrett County (my association with Garrett County goes back to the 1940's). On August 8, early morning radio in Frederick County (WFMD) made me aware that Garrett County farmers were donating hay to our much needed drought area of Frederick County (if I am not mistaken, the largest dairy county in Maryland and area). Unless you can see the acreage in Frederick County, you could not believe it. When walking across my yard in Frederick County all you can hear is crunch, crunch, crunch, and as I drive through farm land I am brought to tears again as I see cattle grazing on burned out pastures. Your (Garrett County) hay was to arrive in Frederick around 9:00 a.m. As I was coming to "the lake" that morning, at 8:45 a.m. in front of "Fredericktowne Mall" on U.S. 40 West, I passed three trucks loaded with hay. I blinked my lights, waved, honked and cried. I was so proud of the "American Way" of being a part of Garrett County my goose bumps had goose bumps. I have felt for many years, when it comes to state recognition, Garrett was considered a "step child." But when it comes down to the bottom line, we were one of the first to help a neighbor in DISTRESS.

Way to go, Garrett County Farmers.

Sincerely,
Betty G. Breed

To the Editor:

The Garrett County Commissioners have been extremely critical of the management of the Health Department, vociferously proclaiming how expensive assuring the community's public health has become. Imagine... they allocate all of two percent... that's right... 2%... of their budget to public health. At the same time, however, they have new proposals which would provide an additional costly burden for the taxpayers.

Apparently responding to charges that the Health Department is "stealing" paying patients from the private sector by "subsidizing" them, the Commissioners are proposing to limit access to Health Department services to only the poorest sector of the population. This is akin to "shooting themselves in the foot." One might ask why the commissioners, concerned as they claim to be about sound fiscal management, would propose to exclude the only clients who provide any income to the Department? (Imagine that the county salaries them for such sound business advice!) It would appear much more fair and rational to adjust the sliding scale of fees of the Department upwards, ensuring that those who have the ability to pay the market rates will not be subsidized, and thereby generating more income for the Health Department as a "by-product." The commissioners' proposal would also result in an increase in taxes, since that would be the only way they could maintain the revenue needed to operate the Department. It is ironic that, while many low income patients have difficulty obtaining medical care because they are poor, in a sort of reverse discrimination, the commissioners would deny middle income families care because they can afford to help pay for it.

The new proposal also denies taxpayers access to their Health Department. Shouldn't everyone have the opportunity to benefit from their taxes?

I pride myself that my patients come to me because I have something unique and valuable to offer them, and not because it is mandated by local officials. Of greatest concern to me is that the "income ceiling" proposal noted above would deny an individual the ability to select his or her own physician—a basic freedom most Americans cherish. Dr. Pope is one of the most caring physicians I have ever met and the Health Department reflects this by providing a type of care and educational services that are not found in the general community. It remains vital that an individual retain this basic right to choose his health care providers, whether they are from the public or private sectors.

As an infectious disease specialist, I was appalled at the lack of understanding reflected in the commissioners' comments that the Health Department was "interfering" or competing with the private sector by providing immunizations—when this is the very foundation of public health and is their most basic service. This is certainly "penny wise and pound foolish."

To the Editor:

I have just finished reading a three column advertisement appearing in another weekly publication, which was placed by Mr. Clifford Friend.

Mr. Friend is a pretty hysterical fellow. In his advertisement, he used an excerpt from the new bill regarding the killing of black bears as evidence that Senator Bambacus and Delegate Edwards are pandering to wildlife bureaucrats. As far as I am concerned, his efforts have backfired. After reading the excerpted part of the bill, I was convinced that Bambacus and Edwards were bending over backwards to consider the rights of individuals to protect themselves, their families and their property, while at the same time respecting the environmentalist's view that the earth is a delicately balanced mechanism in which all life plays a valid part.

I just wanted Mr. Friend to know that before reading his advertisement, I hadn't seriously considered voting in this election. Now that I've seen it, I intend to vote for Senator Bambacus and Delegate Edwards.

Sorry, Friend, you wasted your money.

Our Turn

Me, Thee, and the VCR
by Susan Alvarez

It's here. It's with us. We'd better learn to deal with . . . Videotitis. Videotitis is a direct result of owning a video recorder and may manifest itself in several ways:

1) Rerun and pause syndrome: After being spoiled by the ability to pause a movie at your convenience, or rewind an exciting part, you will find that it transfers over into real life situations. You will find yourself searching for a "pause" button when the kids start fighting or a "rewind" button when someone says, "Gee, haven't you lost a lot of weight?"

2) Lawyer-style pleading: This involves preparing a detailed, flawless case that will convince your children that they really will enjoy watching an old Clark Gable movie. Unfortunately, it also involves listening to their equally flawless plea that you will enjoy "Tommy the Mangler Slices Through the Neighborhood."

3) Blank tapectomy: This involves the removal of all blank tapes from view in order to prevent the taping of hours of such shows as "Marsatron vs. Megabots."

4) Stiff neck: This occurs after spending hours looking around in the video store trying to decide which movie to take home.

5) Will-She-Pick-It anxiety: This happens when you know exactly which movie you want to see and you walk into the video store to find a lady staring intently at the same movie, trying to decide if she wants to take it out.

6) "No excuses" bedtime: Ha! Ha! Finally, a remedy for the old "Can we stay up and finish watching this show?" has been solved with "I'll tape it and you can watch it tomorrow."

7) Replay hysteria: This is a result of listening to the tape of "Tra-La-La Land" replayed by your child for the 5,648th time that week. It could possibly lead a frenzied parent to deviously erase the entire tape and proclaim innocently to the child, "I don't know what happened to your tape of 'Tra-La-La Land.' Maybe something's wrong with the VCR."

8) Grounds for divorce: This can occur when you accidentally erase your coach-husband's video of his team's last game to tape the Friday episode of "Love is Sappy."

Sheriff's Dept. Reports Arrests, Theft Incident

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department this week reported two arrests and a breaking and entering theft which occurred this week.

Josephine S. Miller, 47, Bloomington, was arrested on a theft charge in Bloomington last Monday.

The department is investigating a breaking and entering theft which occurred between July 18 and 23 at Oakland Machine Inc., Oakland.

According to reports, the rear door of the machine shop was forced open, and a large drill was removed. Total loss reached $2,400.

Winchester, Va. Woman Injured In Mishap Sunday

A Winchester, Va., woman was injured Sunday in a single-vehicle accident on U.S. Route 48, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police at McHenry.

Police said Deborah S. May, 20, was operating a 1980 Datsun when she fell asleep at the wheel. The vehicle struck the guardrail on the right side, then crossed the road and overturned in the median.

Tfc. G.R. Chaney investigated the mishap, and reported that charges are pending.

May was taken to West Virginia University Medical Center, Morgantown, W.Va., by the Northern Rescue Squad, where officials were unable to confirm whether she was treated and released.

Robert A. Yutzky, 26, Springs, Pa., was injured Friday in a three-wheeler race at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. Police said Yutzky's vehicle overturned, causing him to be ejected.

Tfc. R.C. Resh investigated. Yutzky was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, by the Southern Rescue Squad, where he was admitted and later discharged.

A single-vehicle accident occurred Sunday on High Street in Oakland.

According to police reports, Daniel S. LaFon Jr., 25, Marlton, N.J., was operating a 1985 Ford Bronco II when he failed to stop at a stop sign, and continued through the intersection and into a field, striking an embankment.

Tfc. R.C. Georg charged LaFon with driving while intoxicated and failing to stop at a stop sign.

Robin Johnson, 15, Oakland, was treated and released at Garrett Memorial Hospital after she sustained minor facial burns in a stove fire on Friday.

Pre-Exposure Rabies Vaccine Being Offered

Pre-exposure rabies vaccine will again be offered to high-risk people in the Garrett County area, according to a release from the Garrett County Health Department. Those people considered high-risk are: hunters, trappers, veterinarians, taxidermists, animal handlers and cave explorers.

The course of treatment is three 0.1 ml of human diploid cell vaccine (HDCV) administered intradermally, given on days, 0, 7, and 21 or 28. When bitten by a rabid animal, a person who has undergone pre-exposure prophylaxis should receive two doses of HDCV, one immediately and one three days later.

Persons bitten by a rabid animal and have not had pre-exposure vaccine must receive Rabies Immune Globulin, the amount depending on body weight. Half of the dose is given around the site of the bite and the rest given intramuscularly in the buttocks. Combined with the Globulin, HDCV is given in five doses on day 0, 3, 7, 14 and 28.

In order to maintain immunity against rabies a booster dose every two years is recommended, or a blood test to determine an adequate titre. Those people who received rabies vaccine in 1984 should receive a booster dose this year.

Drug Prevention Grants Announced By Gov. Hughes

Speaking before over 100 children and parents on Monday at the Governor's Tribute to Drug Free Youth event in Annapolis, Governor Harry Hughes announced that $190,000 in community grants have been awarded to fund 22 programs around the state, including one in Garrett County, aimed at combatting drug and alcohol abuse among children.

The winning projects, chosen from 43 proposals submitted from various parts of the state, continue implementation of the Community Grants Program started by Hughes in 1985 as part of his initiatives to protect children and youth in Maryland.

Among the grants is a $7,520 award to the Mental Health Community Rehabilitation and Addictions Service of Garrett County.

Hughes, who called for the children to help make "the Free State known as the Drug-Free State," made the announcement at a reception he and Mrs. Hughes held at the Government folk singer.

Nineteen of the successful grants will target efforts that provide increased education, awareness, and prevention programs in 15 counties, one of which is Garrett County's program. The other three grants will provide help for statewide programs.

Hughes noted that a recent study from the Maryland Drug Abuse and Alcoholism Control Administration's reported estimates of a 30 percent increase of drug use among adolescents between 1981 and 1985.

"Our young people need our help," Hughes said. "These grants will serve young people where it can really count — before chemical dependency even begins."

In his remarks to the children, Hughes praised them "for saying no to drugs and yes to life" and for being "role models for other children."

Accident Town Council, Mayor Take Action

The Accident Mayor and Town Council discussed several issues at their monthly meeting last week.

A speed limit of 25 miles per hour will be posted the entire length of South Street because of the increased density development in this area, including the Accident Community Park East and Community Action's uses for the old elementary school complex.

Town officials have been working as liaison with both the State Highway Administration and the Garrett County Commissioners and Roads Department in an effort to improve the conditions along Accident-Bittinger Road to the new elementary school. The County Roads Department is planning to make improvements to the paving and also to realign the sharp curve at the old State Highway Administration garage.

The town will replace an old six-inch drain pipe along South Street from the intersection of Accident-Bittinger Road and Wood Street. A larger 12-inch culvert will be installed to carry storm-water runoff.

Work is progressing to clear additional land in the Accident Community Park West. The barn structure has been torn down on the former Baumann lot adjacent to Town View Village and the lot cleared by the town. The barn foundation will next be removed and the lot leveled for a volleyball court.

Work has also begun to clear and mark the sledding trail planned for use this winter.

Accident Post 208 Wins Opener In State Tournament, Loses Next One

Accident Post 208, the Mountain District American Legion Baseball League championship team, coasted to a 7-4 victory over Caroline Post 29 in an opening game of the Maryland State Legion Tournament at Municipal Stadium in Hagerstown.

Last night, however, Coach Phil Caruso's team was crushed by Punktown, 13-2, and must win every remaining contest to stay alive in the double elimination tournament. Specific details of the contest were unavailable at press time, however a parent of one of the Accident Post players said that the local team's pitchers seemed to have an "off night", but that the team "was not discouraged." Accident is slated to face a Howard County Legion team this afternoon.

Steve Sweitzer led Post 208's offensive performance against Caroline Post 29 on Tuesday, recording a triple, a double, and a single, while Steve Sites and Dwayne Hedrick paced the defensive effort on the mound, giving up only two hits.

Sweitzer also scored twice and made a diving catch in right field, as Post 208 rolled to its 11th straight win and 18th of the season against just four losses.

Sites and Hedrick, both left-handers who led Petersburg High School to a state championship this past spring, fanned a total of 12 batters. Sites tossed a no-hitter through six innings while striking out eight and then yielded to Hedrick in the seventh because of arm stiffness. Hedrick pitched the final three innings and struck out four batters.

Both teams went scoreless until the top of the fourth when Accident erupted for three runs. Former Northern High School standout Steve Zumpano rapped a single and stole second with one out. Sites then drew a walk and Darryl Dupert, of Central Preston High, singled to score Zumpano. Todd Spaid followed with a single to score Sites. A squeeze play resulted in Dupert's being tagged out at home, but Sweitzer then belted a single to plate Spaid.

Accident upped the lead to 4-0 in the fifth after Sites led off with a single and came home on a Dupert double.

Sweitzer's triple to right in the seventh, followed by an RBI single by Hedrick, gave Post 208 a 9-0 margin.

Two insurance runs were added by Accident in the top of the ninth as Sweitzer doubled, Jon Remedakis followed with an RBI double that bounced off the 490-foot wall in center field, and Sites came up to send Remedakis home with a double. Post 208 recorded eight steals in the game, increasing their season total to 83.

The only Caroline hits were singles by Bob Feyl and Tim Biddle.

Post 29 earned the opportunity to play in the state tourney by capturing the Eastern Shore district championship.

Oakland Slips Back Into Second Place In Pen-Mar League Standings

After an impressive sweep of league leader Tri-Towns weekend before last and thus moving into a tie for first place in the Pen-Mar Baseball League, Oakland dropped both ends of a doubleheader this past Sunday to slip back into second place.

Oakland edged Elkins on Saturday, 10-8, in a make-up contest in Oakland before being blasted by Buckhannon on Sunday at Garrett Community College, 10-3 and 13-8. The losses dropped the Oaks to 16-8, while Tri-Towns improved to 17-6.

Against Elkins it took a two-run homer by Mike Gustave in the bottom of the fifth inning, his eighth of the season, to secure the win.

Elkins had an 8-7 advantage going into the bottom of the fifth.

Starter Mike Brady received credit for the win, his seventh of the season against only one defeat. He received relief help from Brent Beachy in the final inning.

Lawrence Nesselrodt, Phil Carr, and Wayne Brown each had two hits for Oakland, while Kent Freeman, a standout player at Garrett Community College, paced Elkins with a triple and two singles. Mike Ross added a two-run triple, losing pitcher Jim Phillips finished with three singles, and Brian Wagner added two singles.

Buckhannon bombed Oakland, with a total of 30 hits on Sunday, 14 in the opener and 16 in the nightcap, while the Oaks finished with a total of 15 hits.

Buckhannon's Rod Kimble knocked home three runs on three hits in the opener, while John Fabbriatore drove in two with a double and two singles and Tim McNemar added a pair of singles.

Mike Mathews and Nesselrodt led Oakland with a double and a single each, with Mathews recorded two RBIs.

Todd Lane went the distance for the win over John Helmick. A two-run homer and a two-run double by Jim Gainer highlighted the second game for Buckhannon, while Kimble continued to hammer the ball, adding two more hits and three RBIs. Lane and Darren Marsh each hit a two-run double and a single, while Mike Hinkle and McNemar added two hits each.

Gustave wrapped his ninth home run of the season for Oakland, a two-run shot. Carr had two hits and two RBIs, Nessel-rodt and Mathews each doubled. Ed Frazell took the loss on the mound.

Although a playoff spot is assured for Oakland, it is now extremely unlikely that the team can move back into first place. The top four teams in the league at the conclusion of the regular season qualify for the playoffs.

The Oaks will face Mt. Savage this Sunday in a 2 p.m. doubleheader.

Plans Finalized For 24th Annual Golf Tournament

Plans have been finalized for the 24th Annual Western Maryland Amateur Open Golf Championship, to be held this weekend at the Oakland Country Club.

Tournament play will begin Friday, August 15, and organizers are expecting a field of 150 to enter. All players will compete in the first 36 holes of the 54-hole event, with the field being cut to include only the top golfers for Sunday's round.

Larry Spotloe, of Philippi, W. Va., is the defending champion. Previous winners also include Donnie Hammond, now a high ranking PGA pro who won this year's Bob Hope Desert Classic and is listed among the top money winners on the tour.

As an added incentive, Shaffer Ford Sales of Oakland, will award a new 1986 automobile to the first golfer scoring a hole-in-one on the par three ninth hole.

Ruffed Grouse Society Chapter Slates Banquet

The second annual Sportsman's Banquet, sponsored by the Allegheny Mountain Chapter of the Ruffed Grouse Society will be held Friday evening, August 22, at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake.

Tickets for the buffet include chances on door prizes such as framed collectors wildlife prints by nationally acclaimed artists and firearms, as well as numerous smaller items.

The banquet will also include both a write-in and live auction of various outdoors and wildlife-related articles, such as home decorating accessories, gift certificates, hunting equipment, firearms and art prints. Featured at the auction this year is a seven-week-old registered German shorthaired pointer pup from AKC field champion/champion bloodlines.

The Ruffed Grouse Society is a non-profit conservation organization dedicated to maintenance and improvement of forest wildlife. The Coraopolis, Pa., based organization, of which the Allegheny Mountain Chapter is a member, provides funds for college and university research programs to determine methods of increasing ruffed grouse populations through habitat manipulation. These studies have demonstrated that what's good for grouse is good for non-game birds and deer as well.

The Society employs wildlife and forest biologists as regional representatives who conduct, free of charge, workshops for both private and corporate landowners who wish to manage their holding for both wildlife and timber production. To date, only one such project is occurring in this area. Last year C.W. "Sonny" Newhall, Oakland, opened his property to inspection by interested landowners, as well as representatives of Maryland's Department of Natural Resources.

Mid-Atlantic States regional representative Bill Hunyadi, formerly a wildlife biologist with the Missouri DNR, will conduct the banquet festivities August 22 and will meet with anyone interested in the goals of the Ruffed Grouse Society. Tickets ($30 individual/$45 couple) must be purchased in advance from ticket chairman Paul Stair, Rt. 2, Box 650, Ridgeley, W.Va., 26753, and include a tax-deductible one-year membership to RGS.

Further information can be obtained locally by calling C.W. Newhall at (301) 334-2686.

Oakland All-Stars To Play In Championship Game At Tri-Towns

Going for the championship of the 1986 Tri-Towns Little League World Series this evening will be the Oakland All-Star team sponsored by Team One of Oakland.

The local players, who had earlier won the Maryland District I Little League championship and competed in the state tournament, are now 4-0 in the Tri-Towns event and will face either LaVale or Keyser today at 5 p.m. Oakland is the only undefeated team in the event, having topped both Keyser and LaVale earlier. If the Oakland players win today, they will capture the championship. If they lose, they will play again on Friday since the tournament is double-elimination.

Brett Rice was the star of the contest against LaVale on Friday as he recorded a one-hit, 2-1 victory on the mound. Rice fanned 13 batters, while Bobbie Evans led Oakland's hitting with two singles.

Oakland coasted to an 18-2 win on Saturday over Barton as B.J. Shaffer went the distance, striking out 13 batters on the way. Rice and James Bateman collected nine hits between them, as Rice had three doubles and two singles and Bateman smacked two home runs and a pair of singles. Richie DeWitt also homered for Oakland.

Keyser was the next victim for Oakland, as the two undefeated teams met Tuesday and Oakland came away with a 5-3 win. Rice picked up his second one-hitter of the tournament and again struck out 13 batters. Bateman led the offensive effort with a two-run homer and David Kurtz added a pair of singles.

Oakland has now won nine of 11 post-season games, their only losses coming at the hands of Brunswick, the team which went on to win the Maryland State Little League championship and is now competing in the Eastern Regionals. Brett Rice has pitched for six of those wins, Bateman, two, and Shaffer, one.

Team One is managed by Jay Rice, assisted by Rich Skipper, Van Evans, George Giotfelty, Rick DeWitt, and Dave Upole.

Rice noted that there is an effort underway now to raise money for the purchase of team jackets. Persons wishing to make a donation should contact him at 334-3368.

DHMH Offers Free Booklets On Safety Seats

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene's Project KISS (Kids in Safety Seats) has announced the availability of a Consumer Guide on child passenger safety seats, plus a pamphlet entitled "A Law of Love."

"The law says that all children under three must ride in car safety seats and that children ages three and four must use safety seats or the car's safety belt," said Lorraine Bernstein, director of Project KISS.

"Most parents and grandparents want to comply, but many have questions."

According to Ms. Bernstein, the Consumer Guide, free of charge, explains the differences between infant-only, toddler-only and convertible safety seats. It also indicates special features, such as whether a tether strap or shield is required. A price list gives the average retail price of available car seats.

"It costs about a dollar a month to make every car ride a safe one for young children," said Lorraine Bernstein. The primary objective of Project KISS is to alert parents, grandparents and other drivers to the Child Passenger Protection Law, which went into effect January 1, 1984.

The "Law of Love" pamphlet was designed to protect Maryland's young children from their leading cause of death—automobile accidents. "In fact, young children are killed and injured more often by car accidents than from any other cause," said Bernstein.

To receive a copy of the Consumer Guide or "The Law of Love," contact: Project KISS, Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, 500 W. Preston Street, Fourth Floor, Baltimore, Md., 21201, or call 301-223-1376.

Butler has announced his candidacy for the Garrett County Board of Education, District 2. The candidate is a life-long resident of Garrett County and he and his wife, Edie, are the parents of two children, Danny and David.

Butler has attended only Garrett County schools and graduated from Northern High School in 1975. He currently owns and operates Butler's Carpet. He says through his business he has had the opportunity to meet many of the local people.

The candidate feels that his knowledge of Garrett County schools from a student's viewpoint will help him to make educated decisions concerning the schools.

Butler believes in a common sense approach to education and that students should have a strong basic education which would have an emphasis on reading and math. He also feels that Board of Education members should visit all the schools regularly to get input from staff and students so that the board members can better understand the needs of the schools.

The candidate encourages parents to attend public sessions of the board meetings because he believes parents should participate in their children's education.

Friendsville Town Council Issues Noted

Keith Roberts of the Natural Lands Trust was present at the monthly meeting of the Friendsville Town Council last week to offer a sincere apology for a misleading article which appeared recently in The Republican. Roberts assured the council that it would not happen again, and in the future no names or information will be given without clarification or permission.

Another item of discussion was the increasing problem concerning dogs at large around the town. The council noted that all dogs must be confined, and gave notice that the proper authorities will be contacted by August 30 to have all dogs picked up that are running loose. From that date forward, the authorities will be contacted as needed, and unconfined dogs will not be tolerated.

OAKLAND

Masstock's Plans Prompt Response From Congress

Three legislative bills before the U.S. Congress would limit foreign investment in U.S. agriculture if passed. The introduction of these bills was in response to plans by the Irish company, Masstock International, to build numerous dairy operations in Georgia.

One bill, according to the National Milk Producers Federation, addresses foreign-owned dairies which are financed with industrial development bonds. The bill would prohibit such dairies from marketing their milk as a Class I product under the milk marketing order.

A second bill would deny the tax exemption for bonds used to finance the acquisition of farm property by foreign persons, NMPF said. A third bill would provide that certain groups or persons who are not U.S. citizens would be ineligible to receive financial assistance under price support programs.

The first bill was introduced by Tony Coelho, chairman of the House Subcommittee on Livestock, Dairy and Poultry. The other bills were introduced by Senators Robert Kasten (R-WI) and William Proxmire (D-WI).

Pedal Power Tractor Pull Set For Saturday

A Pedal Power Tractor Pull will be held for the first time this year at the Garrett County Fair at 7 p.m. on Saturday. Boys and girls will enjoy the excitement and competition of their own tractor pull, as they find out how much power they have to pedal the tractor down the track.

Tractors will be provided, and there will be an Allis-Chalmers, a John Deere, a Farmall and maybe even a Massey Ferguson for the contestants to choose from. Each child who signs up may compete in his or her own age group up to 10-years old.

Ladies can also get in the act by entering classes for ages 11 through 20, 20 through 30, and 31 on up.

A 50-cent entry fee will be charged for each contestant.

Conservation Reserve Program Opened August 4

The County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Offices are accepting applications for the Conservation Reserve Program from August 4 through August 15. "Bids for 1987 program contracts may be submitted during this period," Olin S. Davis Jr., Chairperson of the Maryland State ASC Committee, said.

USD's Conservation Reserve Program retires highly erodible land from crop production for 10 years and requires it to be planted to trees or other permanent vegetative cover.

Davis said the sign-up period will be the third opportunity for farmers to volunteer highly erodible cropland for entry into the new conservation program.

Farmers who contract to convert fragile cropland to permanent vegetative cover will receive annual rental payments of up to $50,000 per year, and one-half of the expenses of planting trees or seeding grass on the acres placed in the program. "Only the most highly erodible cropland will be retired under the Conservation Reserve Program," Davis said.

The acres are classified as highly erodible because the land is eroding by at least three times the tolerance level or is not generally well suited for use as cropland.

Davis said farmers who are endeavoring to meet USDA's conservation compliance rules may want to consider applying for the program. "If the land is eligible, the conservation practices could be a part of the approved conservation plan required by the Food Security Act of 1985."

The ASCS official said farmers who intend to apply for the Conservation Reserve Program should do so as soon as possible because the program is only assured funding for those who enter by the end of 1987.

U.S. Layer And Egg Production Up Some

Laying flocks in the 10 major egg production states produced 4.66 billion eggs during June 1986, up two percent from a year ago. Production included 4.09 billion table or commercial type eggs and 566 million hatching eggs. The number of layers producing table and hatching eggs during June averaged 227 million, two percent above a year ago.

During the three month period, March through May 1986, the 20 monthly states produced 43.5 percent of the U.S. egg production. All layers on July 1 for the 20 states, totaled 225 million, one percent above a year earlier. The 225.4 million layers consisted of 5.6 million for table or commercial type eggs and 29.8 million for hatching eggs. Rate of lay on July 1 for all layers averaged 68.3 eggs per 100 layers, compared with 68.1 a year earlier.

Egg-type chicks hatched during June totaled 57.4 million, an increase of 11 percent from June 1985. Eggs in incubators totaled 31.8 million on July 1, up 10 percent from a year ago. Domestic placements of egg-type pullet chicks to hatchery supply flocks by leading primary breeders totaled 284 thousand during June 1986, an

DON'T LET WINTER TAKE YOUR HEATING BILLS FOR A RIDE.

When temperatures take the plunge this winter, your heating bills needn't climb. Not if you're on Columbia's Budget Payment Plan.

The plan averages your bills into 12 equal payments, so there are no peaks and valleys because of the weather. Instead, the monthly amount stays the same... higher than you now pay in the summer, but a lot lower in the winter.

Rather than ups and downs, your gas bills stay on a smooth, even track all year 'round.

It's easy to be a Budget Payment customer, too. All you do is pay the "Budget Amount" on your August bill, and you'll be billed that amount every month. Your meter will continue to be read as usual, and each month's bill will continue to show the amount of gas you used. A review in March determines if your budget amount needs to be adjusted because of weather.

Another good idea, sign on for Checkfree! too. It automatically makes your gas payment from your checking account each month, so you save time, postage and check charges.

Join the Columbia Budget Payment Plan. You'll take the ups and downs out of your heating bills... and leave the high cost of winter behind.

ON TALKING TO YOURSELF

When a person speaks, he hears his own voice. It travels both by air conduction and by bone conduction. Vocal cords make one's body vibrate. If one were to block off outside sounds, one could quickly discern between what is heard by air conduction and what is heard by bone conduction. However, when other people hear someone speak, some of the low-frequency components of the vocal cord vibrations are lost. This happens even though the individual can hear them himself. As a result of this dual conduction, one's own speech sounds much more powerful and dynamic to one's self than it does to others. Most people are unhappy with their recorded voice because it sounds so thin. However, this is how it is heard by others.

To achieve happiness in life, one must listen "beyond one's self." For those who experience hearing difficulty this is a problem. At ALLEGANY HEARING & SPEECH ASSOCIATES we offer hearing instruments that can help you achieve a hearing relationship with those around you. To learn more about how our facility and staff can serve you and bring sound and happiness to your everyday living, we invite you to call ALLEGANY HEARING & SPEECH ASSOCIATES. ## Annual 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale Relies On Community Support

by Bernice Kepple

Every 4-H and FFA member who raised a market animal as a project is sure to be looking forward to, but dreading the annual livestock sale which will take place Saturday night beginning at 7:30, at the Garrett County Fair.

The sale is a learning experience for most, profitable for some, and a little bit sad for all the youth who have spent hours and hours feeding, brushing, trimming, and training the steers, lambs, or hogs in preparation for the sale.

Community support is an important aspect of this annual livestock sale. Businesses and individuals who bid and buy these animals are presented a poster with a picture of the animal and owner which they may hang to advertise their support of the 4-H/FFA program and the livestock sale.

Former 4-H and FFA members who went through the program are among those staunch supporters. Andrew Fike, a former 4-H member who raised eight steers over the years, supports the livestock sale by buying a steer each year. "I wouldn't want to miss Saturday night at the fair," he says.

Andrew is the third generation of his family to support the program. His grandfather, Fred E. Beachy, has been a buyer for as long as the sale has existed; and his father, Rogers Fike, has been a buyer for years and years. Andrew says that it feels good to help these 4-H and FFA kids. "I went through the program for eight years and the community supported me," Andrew said. "Now it's my turn to offer some support."

Last year, Andrew was the high bidder on two steers. He donated one of those steers to Brenda's Body Shop; the other was donated to the Garrett County Livestock Association. That donation was a real boon to the association, which had been thinking of ways to make the sale safer for the sellers, the buyers, and the spectators.

The steer was resold at the end of the sale, and that money was used by the association to purchase portable gates which will be used for the first time this year to guide the steers from the barns to the sale ring to prevent runaways and injuries.

Milk Production Up

The number of milk cows on Maryland farms during June was up two percent compared to a year ago but the same as a month ago. Milk produced per cow decreased 25 pounds from May but was still up three percent from last year. Historically, a slight seasonal decrease has been the normal in production from May to June.

Total milk production for the month of June was 148 million pounds in Maryland, up six percent compared to June 1985. Producers fed an average of 15.5 lbs. of grain per day per cow in June, up one percent from a year ago. The average cost of grain and other concentrates fed was $8.00/cwt., down one percent from June 1985.

FARMERS HELPING FARMERS — A 13-truck convoy, organized by Marlin Lawson of Friendsville, carried approximately 250 tons of hay to Frederick on Friday. Some of the hay was taken directly to farms in need, and the rest was put into storage to be available to other farmers who are determined by the USDA to be in urgent need. Identifiable in the above picture are Marlin Lawson, second from the left, and Leroy Friend, leaning on the truck, a McHenry farmer who donated hay. See front-page story.

COMPARE THIS WITH GARRETT COUNTY CORN! — USDA Assistant Secretary Wilmer Mizell and Rep. Helen Delich Bentley (R-Md., 2nd) check an ear of drought-stressed corn on the John McGinis farm in White Hall, Baltimore County. It was one of many stops in recent weeks by USDA teams checking on drought conditions throughout the southeast. Photo by William D. Wittman, courtesy of Maryland Farmer.

Hay Haulers Exempt From I.D.

Marker Requirement On Trucks

Any trucker involved in the transport and delivery of hay in connection with the Emergency Hay Relief Program is temporarily exempt from displaying the normal required identification marker or temporary operating permit, it was recently announced.

In a letter to the Captain of the Maryland State Police, Truck Enforcement Division, Howard C. Fitzgerald, director of the Motor Vehicle Fuel Tax Division of the Comptroller's office writes, "Any vehicle subject to the provisions of Article 81, Sections, 423, 422, and 412 (B) and who is engaged in hauling hay through the state of Maryland may be exempted from the display of an I.D. marker or possession of a 25-day temporary operating permit until September 1."

In a telephone interview with MDA officials Fitzgerald explained the advantages of this special exemption. "All trucks of certain descriptions are required to buy I.D. markers for the side of their trucks every year or they must secure a temporary permit," he said.

WAIT A MINUTE! — This steer seems to know what lies ahead if he allows himself to be weighed on the new scales purchased last year by the Garrett County Livestock Association. The 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale, sponsored by the association, will be held on Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the Garrett County Fair, with 41 steers, 36 market lambs, and seven market hogs to be sold. All area businesses and individuals are invited to attend and bid on these 4-H and FFA animals.

"What this special action does is exempt those truckers who don't normally come into Maryland to accommodate the Emergency Hay Relief Program. It will allow the hauling of hay to those states where relief is so desperately needed."

For further information on the special I.D. exemption, contact Robert Walker, State Drought Coordinator at (301) 841-5880.

Timely Rains Keep Maryland Crops Growing

Scattered showers over the state have managed to keep crops growing but more timely rains are needed to produce even average yields, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. In spite of the rains, topsoil moisture remained in short supply while subsoil moisture, while improving slightly, remained in very short supply. Farmers were able to get in their field 6.2 days last week.

Field corn remained in mostly poor to fair condition on August 10, in spite of the rains. Eighty-nine percent of the corn crop has now silked compared with 96 percent silked last year and an average of 93 percent. Corn in the dough stage stood at 58 percent on August 10, while last year it was at 64 percent with a normal of 57 percent. Dented corn stood at 35 percent compared to 22 percent last year and a five year average of 20 percent. Corn is now being harvested for silage with six percent of the crop cut. Last year 14 percent of the corn silage had been harvested by August 10.

The soybean crop remains in mostly fair condition with 50 percent of the crop bloomed and 28 percent with pods set. Last year the bloom and pod set were 64 and 28 percent respectively while the five year averages are 57 percent bloomed and 26 percent podded.

Pastures have improved to mostly fair to good condition as a result of recent rains providing new growth.

Peaches and apples remain in good condition. The peach crop is now 60 percent harvested, compared with a year ago percentage harvested of 77 percent and an average of 51 percent. Apple harvest is now 19 percent complete.

WEATHER

Weather for the week ended August 8 was mostly one degree above normal with a few stations showing normal with others showing two to three degrees above normal. High temperatures were mostly in the mid 80's to low 90's. Low temperatures for the week were mostly in the low to mid 60's. Precipitation as scattered showers, averaged 1.17 inches, ranging from 0.05 inches at Hagerstown to 2.50 inches at Wye Education and Research Center.

According to the Palmer Drought Severity Index, rains received in the upper southern and northern eastern shore divisions kept the index at a stand still but improved the index for New Castle County, Delaware. Light rains in other areas with temperatures higher than normal set the index further back in those regions for the weeks ending August 2.

The amount of rainfall necessary to end the drought, as of August 2, ranges from 13 to 18 inches on the Eastern Shore. Divisions west of the bay need 12 to 14 inches of rainfall as of August 2 to end the drought except extreme western Maryland where five inches would end drought conditions.

Governor Hughes Names Drought Coordinators

Robert L. Walker, executive assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture has been named by Governor Harry Hughes as the State Drought Disaster Coordinator.

In this capacity Walker will coordinate the efforts of all state departments and agencies and will serve as a liaison with the USDA, the governor's office and other parties seeking assistance and ways to help Maryland farmers cope with the effects of the drought.

Within the Department of Employment and Training, Human Resources, and Economic and Community Development, departmental coordinators have been named who will be working closely with Walker to move swiftly in identifying programs and resources in their agencies which could be of help to drought depressed farmers.

"Governor Hughes has been most responsive and very cooperative in dealing with the state's worst drought in 100 years," said Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr. "Time is of the essence when dealing with an emergency situation of this proportion. The governor is to be commended for his prompt attention and foresight in this matter."

Named as the MDA departmental coordinator for the drought emergency is Tony Evans. According to MDA Deputy Secretary Dr. Hugh Binks, Evans will be responsible for centralizing all departmental communications as it relates to the drought. He also serves as a member of the governor's State Drought Task Force.

Lamb And Wool Producers To Vote On Promotion Program Extension

Lamb and wool producers will have an opportunity during an August 18-29 referendum to vote on whether they want the American Sheep Producers Council, Inc., to continue its market promotion and improvement program on their behalf.

According to Milton Hertz, acting administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's ASCS, the agreement to be voted on is similar to one approved in 1982, except it would authorize deductions of up to six cents per pound on shorn wool and 30 cents per hundredweight on unshorn lambs marketed in 1986. Deductions from producer incentive payments for 1982 were four cents and 20 cents respectively, Hertz said.

He also said the new agreement would permit USDA to withhold part of any wool incentive payments that might be made to producers on 1987-1990 marketings to finance the council's promotion activities.

Hetz stated that deductions would be used by the council to finance advertising and sales promotion programs for wool and lamb and programs to develop and disseminate information on product quality, production management and marketing improvement for wool and sheep.

Harry W. Hummel, chairperson of the Garrett County ASC Committee, said that the Garrett County ASCS office will distribute copies of the agreement and ballots to sheep producers August 18. Producers may cast their ballots by mailing or delivering them in person to the county ASCS office by the close of the referendum, August 29, Hummel says.

Anyone who has owned sheep six months old or older for at least 30 consecutive days during 1985 may vote. The agreement requires approval by two-thirds of the total volume of producers, or two-thirds of the total volume of production represented in the referendum.

The National Wool Act of 1954 provides the authority for deductions and for promotion activities. Sheep producers have approved the program in each of the eight referendums held since 1954. In the most recent referendum, in 1982, 72.6 percent of the producers approved the program.

Those who need a ballot or who have any questions should visit the county ASCS office in Room 355 of the Garrett County Court House, or call the office at 334-1901.

U.S. Cattle, Calf Numbers Decreasing

All cattle and calves on hand in the United States on July 1 are estimated at 112.2 million head, down four percent from July 1 a year ago. This is the lowest July 1 inventory since mid-year estimates began in 1973. Of the total, there were 45.0 million cows and heifers that had calved, down three percent from last year.

Heifers weighing 500 pounds and more totaled 17.5 million, down four percent from 1985. Beef cow replacements were down two percent, and milk cow replacements were down six percent.

Steers and bulls weighing over 500 pounds were down four percent from 1985. Calves under 500 pounds at 32.2 million were also down four percent from 1985's number. The 1986 calf

U.S. Farm Labor Trends Reported

The number of U.S. farm operators and unpaid family workers declined about 5.5 percent during the year ending in April 1986, continuing the long-term drop in farm employment. Between 1950 and 1985, annual average employment tumbled from about 10 million people to slightly under five million.

Also, farm family employment (operator and unpaid workers) declined more than hired employment, as hired workers were substituted for family workers. In 1980, hired workers comprised about 23 percent of total farm employment. By 1985, the proportion had increased to 35 percent.

Labor requirements in agriculture have decreased over the long term. Productivity per worker has increased because of mechanization and improvements in other farm production technologies, such as higher yielding crops. Also, less family labor is needed today because there are fewer farms.

However, the amount of hired labor used on some farms has climbed as family labor has declined, and increases in average farm size have raised the need for hired labor. Farm expenditures for hired and contract labor, adjusted for inflation, increased only 2 percent between 1974 and 1982.

Sullivan Withdraws From Senate Race, Endorses Chavez

Republican U.S. Senate candidate Richard Sullivan announced Monday at a news conference in Annapolis that he is withdrawing from the GOP primary race and is backing the candidacy of former White House aide Linda Chavez, the current frontrunner for the Republican nomination.

Sullivan explained that his decision was prompted by Maryland's relatively late primary election and his belief that the Republican frontrunner needs more time to concentrate on the general election.

"The most important thing (for the GOP) is that we stand together in the fall," said Sullivan. "So I have reached an important decision: I am withdrawing my candidacy for the Republican nomination to the United States Senate. In doing so, I would like to say that I wholeheartedly endorse the candidacy of Linda Chavez for this office."

Sullivan also stated that he would like to still play a role in this year's election by becoming a candidate for the State Party chairman to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Dr. Allan Levey which was also announced at the news conference.

Levey's resignation as State Central Committee Chairman will take effect on September 6 and the Central Committee must elect someone to fill the remainder of Levey's term which expires in December.

Linda Chavez, who was also in attendance, expressed thanks for Sullivan's support and stressed its importance in achieving unity for the GOP this fall.

"Traditionally Republicans have been noted for being able to put aside differences and join together to achieve victories for our party," said Chavez. "I think what we have done today stands as one of the best examples of that tradition." Chavez also pledged her support for Sullivan's bid to become State GOP Chairman.

"If Dick is elected to replace Dr. Levey, and he will have my personal support in his effort, his proven success as a fundraiser for both charity organizations and the state party will give the Maryland GOP the muscle it needs to keep the Senate seat in Republican hands this year," Chavez said.

Mathias Applauds Senate Action

On Cable Bill

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) has welcomed Senate passage of a bill to allow cable stations to rebroadcast low-power television stations without paying compulsory license copyright fees.

"When Congress revised the copyright law in 1976," Mathias explained, "low-power television was not yet in use to any significant degree." As a result, only two categories were included in regulations made governing re-transmission of broadcast systems on cable stations: distant signals, and must-carry signals. Current law would require cable stations to pay fees for carrying low-power television broadcasts as if they were distant signals. "This minor change in the copyright law will assure that low-power stations can be carried on local cable systems without incurring distant signal copyright royalty liability," Mathias said.

Mathias, who sponsored the bill in the Senate, added that the measure, which has been passed by the House of Representatives, is supported by the low-power television and cable industries as well as the Copyright Office.

In addition, under a Mathias-sponsored amendment to the bill, cable systems will no longer be required to give the Copyright Office notice prior to a change or establishment of ownership. "The elimination of these requirements is in no way controversial," Mathias said, noting that neither copyright owners, the Copyright Royalty Tribunal, nor the general public make use of this information. "This amendment was requested by the Copyright Office. It will assist the office in promoting administrative efficiency and alleviate the burden on the Copyright Office's Licensing Division of maintaining records that are not utilized by the Office or the public." The amendment is supported by the Motion Picture Association of America, Broadcast Music Inc., the National Association of Broadcasters, and the cable industry. Mathias is Chairman of the Subcommittee on Patents, Copyrights and Trademarks.

"The Odd Couple" Cast Rehearsing

Rehearsals are currently underway for the Neil Simon comedy hit "The Odd Couple" to be presented by Up Front Theatre of Cumberland at Alpine Lake Resort on August 22, 23, 29 and 30 in dinner/theatre. The cast for that production will be familiar to area audiences as veterans of plays at Alpine Lake and in Cumberland.

Directing the show and playing the role of sloppy sportswriter Oscar Madison is Gary Clites. He has appeared at Alpine Lake as Pseudolus in this summer's "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," and as Belshazzar in "The Fantasticks." Clites' previous credits include Daddy Warbucks in "Annie," Charlie Brown in "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," and productions of "The Mousetrap," "Happy Birthday, Wanda June," and "Fiddler on the Roof."

Lou Van Hollen has been cast as the hyper hypochondriac Felix Unger, who falls apart when his wife leaves him. Van Hollen appeared most recently as President Roosevelt in "Annie." His credits include direction of "South Pacific" and "A Thousand Clowns," and appearances as King Arthur in "Camelot" and Harold Hill in "The Music Man."

Felix and Oscar's poker playing buddies will also be played by veterans of area theatre.

The role of compulsive gambler Speed will be played by Tom Valentine, a veteran of over 35 area stage productions. Valentine appeared at Alpine Lake as Hysterium in "Forum," and as Tom in "The Glass Menagerie." He played Hucklebee in "The Fantasticks," Ali Hakim in "Oklahoma," and was in "Annie," "The Music Man," and "The Singiest Man in Town."

Brett DiMaio will play Murray the cop. DiMaio appeared at Alpine as Miles Glorious in "Forum," and as the gentleman caller in "The Glass Menagerie." He played El Gallo in "The Fantasticks," and appeared in "Annie," "Guys and Dolls," and "Arsenic and Old Lace."

The role of henpecked husband Vinnie will be played by Mike Swauger, who appeared as a protean in "Forum." He played several roles in "Annie," and was a member of the chorus in "Hello, Dolly."

Felix and Oscar's flighty upstairs neighbors, the Pigeon sisters, will be portrayed by Tricia McFarland (as Gwendolyn) and Diane McCoy (as Cecily). McFarland appeared as a courtesan in "Forum," and in productions of "Working," "Li'l Abner," and "Help." McCoy also appeared in "Forum," as well as in three other plays.

Reservations are now being taken for the dinner/theatre presentation of "The Odd Couple" scheduled at Alpine Lake the last two weekends in August. For reservations, or information, persons may call Alpine Lake Resort at (304) 789-2481.

A SMILE OF VICTORY crosses the face of Samatha Porter as she comes to the end of a tough climb. Ms. Porter was one of the seven students who participated in the Outward Bound Program held in Garrett County recently. Rock climbing was only one of the courses offered in the 24-day land program.

Outward Bound Students Complete 24-Day Course In Garrett County

Through the years, Outward Bound has been the term sailors commonly used to signal the beginning of a voyage, when the ship left its home for the unknown. Now Outward Bound is the program for students 16-20 years old and stresses adventure-based and environmental education. Seven Maryland students and two instructors recently completed a 24-day program in Garrett County.

The students participating in the courses are racially, economically and culturally mixed groups.

Outward Bound began in England during World War II as a program to train young people to better cope with challenge and stress. Today there are Outward Bound schools around the world, including five in the United States. Each school strives through its courses to build confidence, self-reliance and compassion.

Maryland is the site of the newest Outward Bound program. The Baltimore-Chesapeake Bay Outward Bound is the first urban-based program in the world. It was developed through the cooperative efforts of the Hurricane Island Outward Bound School, Baltimore Parks and People Foundation and the Department of Natural Resources (Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service).

Locally, The Savage River State Forest was the main site for the 24-day land courses. While backpacking through the forest, students learned various skills including: map and compass, first aid, search and rescue, bouldering, basic rock climbing and camp cooking. Other sites used for course elements included: the Appalachian Trail for final expedition, the Potomac River for canoeing and Rocks State Park for advanced climbing.

While here, the students constructed an overlook, located along the snowmobile trail on Meadow Mountain at the site of the Old Bittering Fire Tower. This was part of a community service project which included clearing the land and constructing an overlook. Luke Bowman, maintenance assistant, provided carpentry skills and supervised the construction of the deck.

According to Steve Hamilton, assistant forest manager at Savage River, the view is one of the most beautiful in Garrett County. He also assisted with

BUILDING THE OVERLOOK — Seven Outward Bound students and their instructors recently completed the construction of an overlook at Meadow Mountain as part of their community service project in conjunction with the Baltimore-Chesapeake Bay Outward Bound Program. The Outward Bound School is one of five in the United States and one of many around the world and is designed to build self-reliance, confidence and

Mathias Wants Open Debate On Aid To Angola

Senators Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md) and Patrick J. Leahy (D-Vt) have introduced an amendment to the Department of Defense Authorization bill which calls for President Reagan to submit his covert aid policies in Angola to congressional debate.

"Under the Constitution, Congress has the power to declare war & appropriate funds for defense and foreign policy," Mathias said. "Certainly, under these terms, the supply of military material in Angola, apparently including Stinger missiles, amounts to a major shift in American foreign policy - one in which Congress should be directly involved."

The Reagan Administration supports continuing military assistance to UNITA, an anti-government faction led by Jonas Savimbi. By labeling such aid as "covert," the Administration is attempting to "exclude Congress from a full and direct role in an important matter," he pointed out.

"The United States has only recently switched from a role of active mediation in Angola and the region's disputes to that of an indirect participant on one side," Mathias said. "We have done so, incredibly without congressional debate, without any public attention, by the increasingly popular device of 'covert aid.'"

Recalling U.S. intervention in Angola during the 1970's, Mathias cautioned against repeating a policy with "little preparation and less commitment." He also said support for UNITA could be interpreted as tacit support for the South African government. "How can we expect the South Africans to respect our determined opposition to apartheid as long as we are cooperating with them on what they perceive as a critical military matter?" Mathias asked.

The Mathias amendment obligates the President to declare aid for military operations "the openly acknowledged policy of the United States Government." Military assistance also would be contingent on a joint resolution by Congress affirming its support for such action.

"The United States, the most powerful and economically influential nation on earth, has a lot more to offer small, developing nations such as Angola than Stinger missiles," Mathias stressed. "In complex, Third World conflicts such as this, we have tremendous diplomatic and economic assets to use without turning to military force - overtly or covertly."

"Whatever we decide to do, we certainly ought to talk about it - very soon," he concluded.

Motor Vehicle Theft Prevention Week Proclaimed

The Maryland State Police has designated August 11 through 15 as Motor Vehicle Theft Prevention Week. While continuing efforts to apprehend those involved in vehicle thefts, the State Police intends to alert the public to this growing problem.

In 1985, 20,265 motor vehicles were stolen in the State of Maryland, resulting in a property loss of nine million dollars. This is a 17 percent increase in vehicle thefts from 1984.

Studies have shown that August is the month when most vehicle thefts occur. The majority of motor vehicle thefts occur over the weekend between the hours of 4 p.m. and 1 a.m.

No motor vehicle owner is immune from this type of theft, the MSP says. Vehicle thefts can occur anywhere, including shopping center lots, convenience store lots, residential parking areas and truck stops.

Stolen vehicles are used in a variety of crimes, are often involved in serious accidents and inflict hardship on the victims.

During the next week, the State Police will attempt to heighten public awareness to the problem of motor vehicle theft, as well as provide theft prevention tips. Troopers will be distributing "Gotcha" flyers on unattended vehicles that have the keys left in them and will be available to answer questions on additional theft prevention measures.

Approximately 300 In Attendance At Broadwater Union

The 77th Broadwater Reunion was held August 3 at the Grantsville Community Park, with approximately 300 friends and relatives in attendance.

The invocation was given by Owen Lancaster. Howard Broadwater gave a sermonette and a short history of the Broadwater family.

Howard Broadwater and Wayne Bittinger are planning on updating the Broadwater Book. Howard asked all the descendants of the Broadwater family to keep a record of their families to be compiled together at a later date for an addition to the book.

The music was provided by the Study Mills Band. Entertainment for the children was provided by Mr. and Mrs. George Garlitz, Mr. and Mrs. Greg Tirado and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Broadwater. Judy and Russell Broadwater, secretaries, registered the guests. Freda Broadwater, treasurer, was in charge of the gifts.

Marvin Broadwater, president, awarded gifts to Savilla Broadwater, 89, oldest lady; Albert Sowers, 96, oldest man; Daniel Garlitz, two months, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Garlitz, the youngest; married the longest, 64 years, Mr. and Mrs. James Miller; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Broadwater, most recently married, nine months; Norma Petenbrink, Ahoskie, N.C., largest family, nine children present; Alana Hamilton, Lawton, Oklahoma, farthest distance. Joey Broadwater drew the winning number for the grand prize, which was won by Thelma Bittinger.

The same officers were retained for next year. The 1987 reunion will be held August 2 at the same location.

DECD To Hold Hearing On State Livability Code

The Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development will hold three public hearings in August to review and seek public comments on a proposed State Minimum Livability Code. Development of such a code is a key part of Governor Harry Hughes' Housing Initiatives passed by the 1986 Maryland General Assembly.

The State Minimum Livability Code will set minimum property maintenance standards for rental housing in Maryland. A draft of the code is being developed and published in the Maryland Register on November 1. After review by the Administrative, Executive and Legislative Review Committee and the standing fiscal committees of the General Assembly, the final form of the code will be published by the Maryland Register by April 1, 1987, and will become law on January 1, 1989.

DECD's Division of Local Government Assistance is currently developing a draft of the State Minimum Livability Code in conjunction with the Maryland Association of Counties and the Maryland Municipal League. One of the hearings on this draft of the proposed code is scheduled for Wednesday, August 27, at 7-9:30 at the Theatre Building, Auditorium, Hagerstown Junior College, 751 Robinwood Drive, Hagerstown.

The public is invited to comment. For further information on the State Minimum Livability Code, or on the public meetings, persons may contact Gary Thorpe, director, Local Government Assistance, 45 Calvert Street, Annapolis, MD 21401, or call, (301) 269-2951.

Resort Selects Top Employees

Two residents of the Terra Alta area were recently named as employees of the month by Alpine Lake Resort.

The two were Ronald Hull for July and Marilyn McClendon for August.

J. Richard Miller, general manager, announced that each will receive a bonus cash award of $100 for their efforts in winning the monthly award.

Each supervisor can nominate a person or persons in his department that he believes is an outstanding employee. The nominations are then voted on by the six managers.

In his remarks to the winners, Miller thanked them for "their loyalty, hard work and their excellent work records in their service to the resort."

Area Quakers Plan To Resume Meetings Aug. 31

Area members of the Religious Society of Friends/Quakers have announced their schedule for worship services.

Beginning August 31, worship services of the new Allegany Mountains Preparative meetings will be held on first day of each week in the Osborne Center on Loop Road in Frostburg. First Day School (with covered dish brunch) is scheduled for 10 a.m., followed by the Love and Peace Sing-In at 11 a.m. The unprogrammed worship for meditative silence and testimony is scheduled to extend from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

According to archivists at the Maryland Historical Society in Baltimore, and according to a 1966 publication by the State of Maryland Hall of Records Commission in Annapolis, Quakerism was introduced to Marylanders in 1655 by one Elizabeth Harris. Because of her fervor, such early and prominent Marylanders as William Fuller, John Edmondson, a Maryland Secretary of State and two colonial commissioners were among the first Marylanders to become "convinced Friends" (Quakers). Ever since John Hopkins, another early Quaker, founded the highly acclaimed University, Quakers have been instrumental in educating some of Maryland's most prominent individuals.

During colonial Maryland, Quakers were the most rapidly growing of religious groups. That was primarily because of the high degree of religious tolerance practiced by early Marylanders. Charles Calvert, son of the Second Lord Baltimore, contributed to the growth of Quaker ranks in Maryland when he invited all persecuted Virginia Quakers to relocate in Maryland.

The first records of Quakers west of the Alleghenies date back to 1776. Today, there continues to be thriving, long-established Monthly meetings for worship in such regional locales as Winchester, Va.; Bedford, Pa.; and Morgantown, W. Va. While groups of Friends (i.e. Quakers) have long worshipped within private homes in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties, no Allowed, Indulged, Preparative or Monthly Meetings officially exist here now. It is to this concern that the new Allegany Mountains Preparative Meetings of The Religious Society of Friends/Quakers resumes worship in Frostburg on August 31.

Plans are for involvement into the "Allegany Mountain Monthly Meeting" within the next year. In the meantime, these Preparative Meetings will be under the spiritual care of the Alexandria Monthly Meeting of the Baltimore Yearly Meeting.

Governor Hughes Launches Drug Abuse Initiative

Governor Harry Hughes has allocated 5 State Troopers and several million dollars to a major new State initiative aimed at combating drug abuse and enhancing drug prevention and treatment programs throughout Maryland.

The Governor said the program will include five new State Police tactical teams to respond to the needs of community leaders and barracks commanders in dealing with problems at the local level.

In addition to funding for increased enforcement, he allocated an additional $1.2 million, on an emergency basis, to key programs in the Health Department's Drug Abuse Administration.

"I believe that drug abuse is the number one problem facing society today, and it is imperative that we step-up our efforts to provide a Maryland solution to this crisis," Hughes said. "I am convinced, however, that any solution to the drug crisis must involve stepped-up enforcement, coupled with increased prevention and treatment efforts."

He noted that a review of State Police efforts against drug abuse found a need for an enhanced program and additional manpower to deal with investigations involving drug pushers who infiltrate schools, playgrounds and other community settings.

"Increased enforcement will place additional demands on our prevention and treatment programs and we must be prepared to meet those demands," Hughes said.

The Governor was critical of federal efforts which have placed greater emphasis on enforcement while reducing funding for treatment and prevention. He said the result has been overcrowding in many programs and additional burdens for State and local treatment facilities.

He said his drug abuse initiative will include:

- $500,000 for expansion of adolescent chemical dependency treatment programs in central Maryland through the provision of more residential and group home beds,

- $200,000 to expand the newly-funded cocaine dependency unit from 12 to 36 beds, beginning in January of 1987,

- $150,000 to provide intensive treatment and services for PCP abusers in Prince George's County, where the problem of PCP abuse has reached epidemic proportions.

- $150,000 to expand the number of State-funded drug free outpatient slots by 225 throughout Maryland,

- $100,000 to provide AIDS-related educational and prevention information to intravenous (IV) drug abusers in the Baltimore and Washington metropolitan areas, and
- $100,000 to expand drug abuse prevention service.

Governor Hughes stressed community involvement as an important element in reducing the spread of drug abuse among young people. He said his wife,

NOW OPEN AT DEEP CREEK LAKE is the Midlake Market, which was formerly Wynlyn's Shop & Shop. The market features fresh steamed crabs, homemade sandwiches, fresh seafood all summer, liquor, groceries and full-service Amoco gasoline. The store, owned by William Vandemark, is open from 6:30 a.m. to midnight seven days a week. The shop's phone number is 387-5652.

Patricia, has been touring local drug education and treatment programs over the past several years, and he noted that his administration began an innovative program of grants to community groups that sponsor such programs. In December, a reception was held at Government House to honor the Maryland Federation of Parents for Drug-Free Youth (MFP) and other organizations and individuals who are working to eliminate drug and alcohol abuse among Maryland's young people.

Last Friday, the Governor told the University of Maryland Task Force on Drug Policies, Enforcement and Education that they had "a responsibility and an important opportunity to confront the illegal drug problem that is plaguing our society and our children." He urged the task force to work toward a "drug-free university."

Following the launching of the new statewide drug abuse initiative, Hughes was scheduled to address State Police recruits about their role in drug abuse prevention and enforcement efforts.

Current State Police efforts against drugs include the Special Services Division, which cooperates with federal authorities in major drug investigations; the Interdiction Program, a cooperative effort along the Eastern Seaboard to halt the transport of drugs on interstate highways; participation in community drug prevention programs, such as "Live Free," which was launched last November by Governor Hughes; and assignment of special investigators by barracks commanders to deal with local drug abuse problems.

Senate Passes Mathias Proposal For Dedication

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. has hailed Senate passage of a proposal to dedicate the Cumberland terminus of the C&O Canal National Historical Park to the late Senator J. Glenn Beall Sr., of Maryland, who introduced the first piece of legislation to preserve and restore the canal.

"By designating the Cumberland terminus in Senator Beall's memory, the Senate has pushed Congress one step closer to recognizing Senator Beall for the pivotal role he played in establishing the C&O Canal as a historical park," Mathias said. "It is my hope that this designation itself will enhance the historical significance of the canal."

Mathias said that while visitors may now see the remains of the northwestern end of the canal in Cumberland, "where road, rail, and river corridors meet," there is no indication of the bustling commercial crossroads it once was. "Congressional designation of the terminus as a memorial to Senator Beall would provide the impetus for developing the site as an open, inviting, interpretive park with low-key permanent exhibits, landscaping and walkways, mini-plazas and benches to draw people to the river and the canal area," he said. "Durable displays could be used to depict the 19th century scene, describe the canal's history and significance and highlight Senator Beall's role in creating the Park."

"Beall's efforts to preserve the canal testified to his own appreciation of western Maryland's heritage and its continuing national significance," Mathias continued. Beall, who served ten years in the House of Representatives representing Western Maryland and twelve years in the Senate, was born and raised in the Cumberland area.

The proposal has been endorsed by the C&O Canal National Historical Park Commission, and is pending in the House of Representatives' Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.

Mathias Praises Committee Action On National Freeway

Senator Charles McC. Mathias Jr. (R-Md.) has hailed the Senate Appropriations Committee for approving $40 million to begin construction of the remaining 18 miles of the National Freeway.

Mathias gave special thanks to Senator Mark Andrews (R-N.D.), chairman of the Appropriations Subcommittee on Transportation "for paving the way for completion of this important route for shippers to the Midwest."

The National Freeway was conceived in the early 1970s to cut through the Appalachian Mountains and link the networks of highways on either side of the peaks. The 18-mile gap is located east of Cumberland.

Mathias noted that total cost of construction of the 18-mile gap will be approximately $200 million and that additional funds are expected to be raised from the Appalachian Regional Commission, other federal highway programs and from the Maryland Department of Transportation. He said the Freeway is expected to be completed by 1991.

"The completion of this freeway will be a significant shot in the arm for the ailing economy of the Appalachian region, as well as a boon for Baltimore where there will be an infusion of business at the port," said

Mathias.

He added that the National Freeway will also benefit "the farmers of the Ohio Valley, and shippers and consumers throughout the East and Midwest."

Fort Necessity Activities Noted

Fort Necessity National Battlefield will be scheduling additional activities and programs for visitors now through September 1.

Each Saturday and Sunday at 2 p.m. a talk will be presented at the Jumonville Glen Site. At 3 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday a talk will be given at the Braddock Grave Site on U.S. 40.

Additionally, every day, weather permitting, a ranger will be on duty at the Fort area from 9 to 5 p.m. with a talk at 6 p.m. These presentations may cover a wide spectrum of the stories of Fort Necessity.

Other special talks and presentations from plant talks, to colonial medicine, to Conestoga Wagons may be presented at various times and will be posted at the Park Visitor Center.

In addition to these special activities, the Visitor Center and Mount Washington Tavern will be open from 10:30-5 daily, with tours and slide presentations available.

Administered by the National Park Service, Fort Necessity National Battlefield is located 11 miles east of Uniontown, Pa., on U.S. 40, the National Pike.

THE CONDOLENCE CALL

The condolence call is distinct from attendance at the viewing or funeral. It is a personal home visit made to a bereaved individual or family by relatives, friends, neighbors, associates, acquaintances soon after they have learned of the death. However, the individual who fails to go early to the bereaved home need not assume that he may not go later. Condolence calls may be made at any time, before the funeral or after, during the first weeks of grief.

The condolence call has several purposes. It expresses sympathy and offers help in a difficult time. The bereaved should know that they are not alone in their grief, that there are people who care about and understand their sorrow. It also helps maintain ties between that person and the society. This not only demonstrates community support, it can help the mourner from slipping too deeply into grief.

Sachs Announces Settlement With Minolta Corp.

Maryland Attorney General Stephen W. Sachs announced today that a settlement of the Minolta antitrust lawsuit against the Minolta Corporation has been reached, providing more than $100,000 in restitution for nearly 1,000 Maryland purchasers of the Minolta Maxxum 7000 and AF-Tele cameras.

Woodland Hills and Le Baltimore federal court in February 1985, Sachs announced that Minolta Corporation, a U.S. based subsidiary of Minolta Camera Co. Ltd., a Japanese firm, settling the camera-maker's case against federal and state antitrust laws by fixing the minimum price for the cameras. Sachs said that the settlement will be published in newspapers across the state later this year. Sachs urged any consumer who purchased one of the cameras to contact the Antitrust Division of his office to obtain the necessary notice of the settlement and the claim form. The office's address is 7 North Calvert Street, Munsey Building, 6th Floor, Baltimore, Maryland 21202.

Sachs said that the State's settlement with Minolta "is a good example of state antitrust enforcement that directly benefits the consumer."

"This suit also benefits retail businesses in Maryland by reinforcing their right to price their products as they see fit without fear of retaliatory actions by their suppliers." The settlement contains a Consent Decree prohibiting Minolta from terminating its dealers because of their pricing policies for a three year period. Approval of the decree and settlement will be sought from federal Judge Walter E. Black Jr.

Originally named as defendants along with Minolta in the suit were 36 Minolta dealers in Maryland, who allegedly agreed with Minolta to fix the minimum prices for the cameras. As a result of the settlement, the claims against these retailers will be dismissed, Brockmeyer said.

Sachs' office has spearheaded a co-operative effort with the New York Attorney General's Office to institute a nationwide settlement of the antitrust charges against Minolta that involves a potential restitution by the firm of approximately $7 million to consumers around the country. States that decide to participate in the settlement on behalf of consumers residing within their borders will process their claims in federal court here in Baltimore, Sachs said. Attorneys from the Maryland Attorney General's Office will act as liaison counsel and co-ordinate the resolution of claims filed by these other states, he added.

Within weeks of the filing of the antitrust lawsuit by Maryland, as well as a separate suit filed by the New York Attorney General, Minolta abandoned the alleged price-fixing policies and reinstated those retailers who had previously been terminated for failing to adhere to the company's minimum prices for the cameras, according to Assistant Attorneys General Michael F. Brockmeyer, Chief of the Antitrust Division in Sachs' Office, James R. Wootton and Craig J. Hornig, who handled the case on behalf of Maryland.

Among those retailers reinstated was W. Bell & Company of Rockville, which had filed a separate antitrust suit against the camera-maker at the same time that Maryland and New York filed their suits, Brock-

Maryland purchasers of the Minolta Maxxum 7000 and AF-Tele cameras through March 21, 1986, will need to file a claim form with the Maryland Attorney General's Office in order to obtain restitution, Sachs said.

After obtaining preliminary court approval of the settlement, notice of its terms and a claim form will be sent by mail to those purchasers identified by Minolta and its retailers from their records. Another notice will also be published in newspapers across the state later this year. ### Everett, Nelson want bite of the Big Apple

By Cindy Adams

Chad Everett wants to stuff a little New York City into his Indiana-born bones. The actor — best known for his seven-year portrayal of Dr. Joe Gannon on "Medical Center" — is Broadway bound. I know my audience is there," Everett, 39, says. Chad also wants to take an ad in the trades, praising his wife of 20 years, Shelby Grant Everett. "She wrote her first movie and she's producing it," the actor explains. "What can I tell you? I'm sleeping with the producer!"

Country crooner Ricky Skaggs recently had a close call. And I don't mean from Ma Bell. ## ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

My sister and I can't agree on this one. I say John Schneider played Bo Duke on "The Dukes of Hazzard," but she insists it was Tim Woppat. Help! — M.W., Butte, Mont.

John Schneider

You win, M.W. Schneider portrayed good ol' Bo for the entire run of the series (1979-85). Wopat played Luke Duke, Bo's cousin. Now go argue about something else!

What can you tell me about newscaster Peter Jennings? Do you have an address to which his fans can write? — A.S. Edison, N.J.

The host of "ABC World News Tonight" was born in Canada and he began his career in broadcast journalism in 1959 at CFJR radio in Ontario. Prior to joining ABC News in 1964, he worked as co-anchor of Canada's first national news program on a commercial network. Jennings is one of the most respected newscasters in the business. His career spans most of the major news events in history — from Kennedy's assassination to the royal wedding of Princess Diana and Prince Charles to the recent four-day Liberty Weekend celebration. In addition to his work on "World News Tonight," Jennings has hosted several ABC documentaries and specials.

Jennings is married to former ABC News correspondent Kate Marton. The couple have two children, Elizabeth and Christopher. You can address your letters to him c/o ABC, 1330 Avenue of the Americas, New York, NY 10105.

This week's best bet: Bette Davis trivia test

By Marc Minnelli

The person who wants to make it has to sweat. Bette Davis once said, "There are no short cuts. And you've got to have the guts to be hated." Davis — two-time Oscar winner ("Dangerous," 1935; "Jezebel," 1938), mother, wife, legendary actress — knows what she's talking about. She's been hated the actress was once labeled "Box Office Poison."

she's sweated (she fought with Warner Bros. for better roles continually) and now, at age 78, after suffering a double mastectomy and stroke, the gutsy woman has survived.

This week, NBC rebroadcasts "Little Gloria... Happy at Last," the 1962 TV movie in which Davis stars with Angela Lansbury. The movie airs Monday, Aug. 18 and Tuesday, Aug. 19.

Bette Davis in "The Little Foxes" (1941)

In honor of the rebroadcast, we're offering a Bette Davis trivia quiz. Grab your pencils — and fasten your seat belts!

1. Davis has stated that she wishes "The Little Foxes" (1941) had been filmed in color. Why?

2. In the tepid melodrama "Cabin in the Cotton" (1932), Davis camps it up when she utters, "Ah! I love to kiss ya, but Ah jes' —"

Complete the sentence.

3. Yes — Davis was even a diva! What ditty did Davis warble in the 1943 patriotic musical "Thank Your Lucky Stars"?

4. In the historical epic "The Virgin Queen" (1955), the role of lady-in-waiting Beth Truymort was played by one of today's hottest stars. Name her.

5. It is Davis's greatest role, a role that was originally written for Gertrude Lawrence. When Lawrence was fired, the role was offered to Claudette Colbert, who had to back out because of a skiing accident. Name the role and movie.

BONUS: In the 1962 camp classic "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?" Davis plays the title role, an aging movie queen who has a habit of making unappetizing din-dins for her aging movie queen-sister Blanche. In the film, several film clips are shown in which Baby Jane reportedly starred. But the clips are actually real footage from two of Davis's own films. Name them.

ANSWERS: 1. In the film's classic scene, tempestuous southern belle Jezebel, disguised a ball by wearing a red gown. 2. Washed mah hair. 3. They're Either Too Young or Too Old. 4. "Dynasty" queen Joan Collins. 5. Margo Channing in "All About Eve." BONUS: The clips are from the 1935 films "Parachute Jumper" and "Ex-Lady."

Stroud continues to 'Hammer' out career

By Gillian George

For more than 20 years, Don Stroud has specialized in playing rough, tough characters. By his own admission, he was mostly cast as a murderer, rapist and all-round psychopath.

Don Stroud

But the burly 46-year-old actor says he felt vulnerable when he switched on a morning news program one rainy day in December, 1984.

All of a sudden, he recalls, "the announcer started talking about Stacy Keach, who was the star of the best TV series I have ever been on. Then this guy says that Stacy has been busted for smuggling cocaine into England."

I made a few phone calls and then it finally sunk in. Mike Hammer was as good as dead and I was out of a job.

Stroud adds: "Apart from feeling bad for my friend Stacy, I was hit particularly hard because I liked my character so much."

The actor plays police captain Pat Chambers on "Mike Hammer." The series returns (as "The New Mike Hammer") to CBS this fall. After years of being cast as the "bad guy," Chambers is a sympathetic role. Hawaiian-born Stroud relishes it.

Stroud's career transformation began in 1978 when he was cast as a drummer in "The Buddy Holly Story." Prior to that film, the actor says casting directors seemed to visualize him in only one way — a naturally rowdy character.

He began his career as Troy Donahue's surfing double in the ABC series "Hawaiian Eye" (1959-63). When that series folded, Stroud was assured that he was a shoo-in for stardom if he moved to Los Angeles. The then-21-year-old Stroud scraped together the airfare and family and headed for the big time.

Unfortunately, when he arrived in California, no one wanted to give Stroud the time of day — and he ended up parking cars for a living. Today, however, the actor says things couldn't be better. With Keach's release from prison and the return of "Mike Hammer," Stroud and clan are back at work.

Sci-fi success is not alien to Cameron

By Frank Lovece

During the first public screening of "Aliens," director James Cameron knew he had a monster on his hands — and, for once, it wasn't a 10-foot creature with 10-inch teeth. "It was at the Egyptian Theatre in Hollywood," he recalls. "The place was packed with this rowdy crowd — all 1,300 seats were filled — and thank goodness, they went crazy. There was this huge crowd response, and I would be a liar if I said I didn't love it. It was exactly what we had worked for. You just never know." Cameron adds, "if you're going to get that reaction or not."

tragic substitute for intelligent policy.

That was intentional," says the soft-spoken Cameron. "It's not the primary reason for the film, but it was a subtextual thing I wanted to explore." Cameron, a Canadian citizen who lives in Southern California, branched that theme once before. He wrote the first four versions of the "Rambo" script before Sylvester Stallone went John Wayne with it.

The 32-year-old Cameron, who has directed only two movies before "Aliens" ("Piranha II" and "The Terminator"), had served his apprenticeship in producer Roger Corman's low-budget film factory. His background in the arts was as an illustrator and art director; one early ambition, in fact, was to be a Marvel Comics writer-artist.

The creation of a believable world is one of "Aliens" s most gratifying pleasures. Speculation rooms are cluttered and loud; star Sigourney Weaver deliberately looks unimpressed. "I wish I could take credit for all that," Cameron chuckles, "but I'm just carrying on a healthy design tradition. Ridley Scott did basically the same thing in "Alien." It's a reply to the almost too-clean look of most science-fiction films. And really, the director concludes, if you can somehow give the audience a sense of what it's like to really be there, then you've brought them into the picture. So many moviemakers miss the point that within a fantastic background you still have to believe in people."

Producer had designs on 'Women' for years

By Ian Harner

HOLLYWOOD — Linda Bloodworth-Thomson proves that while comedians are often unfunny offstage, comedy writers don't need an audience to keep the punch lines coming.

Linda Bloodworth-Thomson

I met with Bloodworth-Thomson to talk about her upcoming CBS sitcom "Designing Women," which features four quick-witted women trading one-liners in a Southern city. She's aware that the premise sounds suspiciously like NBC's "The Golden Girls."

But as far as Bloodworth-Thomson is concerned, comparisons aren't warranted. Only one of the four gilded ladies has a passable Southern accent, they're all mature, 30-plus, and she says, "Miami is not a Southern city. It's New York once removed."

"Designing Women," she first says Bloodworth-Thomson proposed three years ago, soon after her short-lived CBS comedy trailblazer, "Filly Rich," went off the air. The sitcom was a hit when it debuted in 1982 and Bloodworth-Thomson was determined to write something new for two of its performers, Delta Burke and Dixie Carter. And she did before getting sidetracked.

When Robert Wagner's ABC series "Lime Street" fell victim to the network's third-place jitters last season — Bloodworth-Thomson was the show's creator-producer — she decided to offer CBS "Designing Women."

I made a few changes and wrote a pilot episode specifically for Delta, Dixie, Annie Potts and Jean Smart," she says.

I had no idea if any of the ladies were available, but I've never let that sort of thing worry me. I'm a crazy optimist. I always assume that if I want something enough, it will happen.

At first, however, it didn't happen. Burke couldn't make the pilot and for several months it looked as if the actress wouldn't be available for the series either.

But Bloodworth-Thomson's "Seinfeld" optimism worked. Burke's conflicting project evaporated and "Designing Women" was off and running.

All I know about Golden Girls when I wrote this script was that it had knocked "Lime Street" off the air," Bloodworth-Thomson says, "but I don't think anyone's going to really believe that until they see our show."

Whitney Houston

Your facts are a little bit mixed up, S.H. Houston was never supposed to appear on "GL," but she did do a guest-starring stint on "As the World Turns" in 1984. The singer teamed with Jermaine Jackson and performed "Nobody Loves Me Like You Do."

I've been a fan of Mary Kay Adams ever since she joined "The Guiding Light" in 1984 as India Spaulding. Can you give me a few facts about her? — T.B. Henderson, N.C.

Adams' role on "GL" was her first recurring television role. While still in college, she earned the Carol Burnett Award in 1983 for her theatrical performances. The actrix, who appeared in several New England theater productions prior to joining the CBS soap, has also worked with the American Shakespeare Repertory Theater in New York City.

I miss Thana Penghis, who left the role of Tony DiMera on "Days of Our Lives" last year. Can you tell me what he's been doing and whether or not he'll ever return to the soap? — L.B. Johnston, Pa.

Penghis appeared in an episode of "Hotel" just prior to his exit from the NBC soap. He left "DOOL" to pursue other acting challenges, but rumor has it that he might return to the soap someday.

we are his

Some years ago I had a private secretary who guarded and protected my schedule almost too severely and too faithfully. She gave most people the third-degree of questioning when they came to my office without an appointment.

But every day one little person got passed her without so much as a question. When this little girl finished kindergarten downstairs she would dash upstairs, run past the secretary who waited her on in, and she'd come crashing into my office always as welcomed as a fresh breath of spring.

Why? She was my daughter! It was not a matter of WHAT she had done nor what she wanted with me that gave her immediate access to me. It was WHO SHE WAS.

And when we approach God, it is not in terms of what we know or don't know, nor what we have done or not done, but rather, WHO we are. More accurately, WHOSE we are.

We are His. "We are the children of God, and if children, then heirs, heirs of God and fellow heirs with Christ" (Rom. 8:16-17).

OUR WORST SUBJECT

Background Scripture: Daniel 1
Devotional Reading: Daniel 5:1-8

Forgive me for repeating that old story of the little boy who brought home his report card with an "E" in discipline. Challenged by his father, he explained blithely that "Oh, discipline is my worst subject."

For lots of us, "discipline is our worst subject," and many of us are even less successful with self-discipline. In this self-indulgent age in which we live, it may seem that discipline is one of the least desirable arts. After all, who needs it?

ESTEEM AND DISCIPLINE

And the answer that may surprise some all of us: "As one who has been counseling for more than 30 years, I have found that one of the most frequent problems is a lack of self-esteem. Furthermore, one of the main reasons that many people lack an adequate level of self-esteem is that they have never succeeded in learning to discipline themselves. While they may revel in being "free" from the strictures of self-discipline, they suffer greatly from the realization that

The Candlewyck Inn

The Candlewyck Inn, on State Route 220 south in downtown Keyser, W. Va., is a Victorian-era mansion-turned-restaurant owned by Lew and Autumn Engle. Decorated by the Engles with fine antiques, handcrafted bars and formal table settings, The Candlewyck offers a turn-of-the-century atmosphere which is both sophisticated and romantic.

The upstairs dining room is calm, quiet and peaceful by day, and shines with a romantic glow at night. The corner turret of the Victorian home has been turned into a charming gazebo of lattice-work structure with ivy climbing around the door. This gazebo, which is reserved several times every Friday and Saturday night, has set the scene for marriage proposals, anniversary celebrations, and other important events.

A private dining room seats 10 to 12 and is available for dinner meetings or private parties.

Chef Fred Engle has had eight years of experience in New York and uses meats and seafood purchased daily to ensure choice quality. A full selection of deli sandwiches is offered, along with side orders such as onion rings dipped in the chef's own homemade batter. Appetizers prepare the diner for any one of the tempting offerings like filet mignon, surf and turf, rib eye steak, T-bone steak, shrimp scampi, Maryland crab cakes, linguini with clam sauce, chicken cordon bleu, and much more.

The Candlewyck Inn is open Tuesday through Thursday from 11 a.m. until 9 p.m.; Friday from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Saturday, from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m.; and Sunday, when it also offers full liquor service, from noon until 6 p.m.

The bar is open every night until midnight, Tuesday through Saturday.

Duke Everhart is featured every other Friday night playing 1960's and 70's rock on the guitar.

Let the Candlewyck Inn, located only 31 miles from Oakland and Deep Creek Lake, be the spot for your next important business luncheon or romantic engagement. MasterCard and Visa are accepted.

Rickert Concerned About Oversized License Brackets

Of growing concern to Maryland Motor Vehicle Administration officials are the oversized license brackets which obstruct the information imprinted on the tags.

W. Marshall Rickert, MVA Administrator, has requested law agencies in Maryland to enforce Section 13-411 of the Maryland Motor Vehicle Law which states in part "each registration plate shall be clearly legible."

Auto dealers have been advised to check brackets and make sure all information on the plate is clearly visible. "The need to see all of the information clearly is important in life/safety and law enforcement situations," Rickert stated. "Law enforcement officers are empowered to issue citations which carry fines of up to thirty dollars for such a violation. We at MVA encourage all citizens to make sure their tags are clearly visible."

Mathias Seeks Simpler Absentee Ballot Process

A bill that would ensure United States citizens and military personnel living abroad easier and quicker access to absentee ballots for federal elections was the subject of a hearing held last week by Senator Charles McC. Mathias Jr. (R-Md.).

"The Federal Voting Assistance Act of 1955 and the Overseas Citizens Voting Rights Act of 1975 have made significant strides in enfranchising overseas voters," Mathias said. "But, in spite of these gains, delays in receiving absentee ballots are a recurring problem for overseas voters."

Because citizens overseas often do not receive absentee ballots from their home voting jurisdictions in time to return them by election day, this bill will authorize federal write-in ballots to be provided at embassies and military installations.

Testifying were Eugene McDaniell (President of the American Defense Foundation), Mr. C.R. Jackson (Vice President, Government Affairs, Non-Commissioned Officers Association), Robert Carter (Chairman, Republicans Abroad), Thomas Fina (Executive Director, Democratic Party Committee Abroad), and Henry Valentino (Director, Federal Voting Assistance Program). All endorsed the bill.

Mathias commended Senator John W. Warner for introducing the legislation, noting that in many cases it takes over 45 days to complete the current absentee ballot process.

Hospice Board Elects Officers, Plans Training

The Board of Directors of Hospice of Garrett County met recently and among the agenda items was the election of officers.

All officers were re-elected for another year and board members will be set up so they will be elected one-third every year for a three year term.

Current officers and board members are: Rev. Verne Leininger, president; J. Haig Jackson, vice-president; Alice Vitez, secretary; and Richard Peake Jr., treasurer. Board of Director members are: Helen Bittinger, Norma Bolding, Clinton Englander, Janey Haneline, Willetta Mateer, Ida Maust, Lynn Newman, Sue Pagenhardt, Sally Schwing.

Father Martin Feild was introduced as the Director of Educational Training and the Ministerial Representative.

Hospice lapel pins with the Garrett County Hospice logo were distributed to members present.

Wayne R. Johnson, executive director, reported to the board on the status of the State Licensure Bill being prepared by the Hospice Network of Maryland, donations by Lehrs Distributors, Oakland area Ministerium, yard and bake sale, Weekend Get-Away changes being sold, speaking engagements completed and those scheduled.

Richard Green, Assistant State Attorney for Garrett County spoke to the volunteers of Hospice in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board Room on July 24 after a covered dish dinner. The main topic of Green's presentation was the Living Will, enacted July 1, 1985, by the Maryland General Assembly. Other topics discussed were powers of attorney, checking accounts, wills, and how they pertained to Hospice personnel and also individually.

There will be a new class for training Hospice Volunteer Caregivers beginning Sept. 11, 6:30 p.m., at Garrett Community College. Anyone interested may call either Hospice at 334-6111, 895-3111 or Garrett Community College 334-8266. Caregivers are especially needed in the Bloomington and Kitzmiller areas.

Johnson said the training is open to anyone as personal information, but it is hoped those taking it would volunteer some time to Hospice either as a caregiver or an auxiliary member. There is a $10.00 registration fee.

Teachers Meeting In Salisbury

The annual Summer Leadership Training Institute conducted by the Maryland State Teachers Association (MSTA) is taking place this week at the Salisbury State College.

Contract negotiations and teacher rights, as well as other aspects of local association activities, will be discussed by teachers from throughout the state, with some 250 expected to attend.

Representing The Garrett County Teachers Association are Irene Sigel, president and Vicki Novak Carlson, Steering Committee member.

Leadership functions, communications, lobbying skills, and professional concerns are included in the five-day program. The theme of the conference is "MSTA: Working for Quality Education through Political Action," and all workshops are expected to touch on the importance of electing pro-education candidates this fall.

The Leadership Training Institute, says MSTA President Beverly L. Corelle, is designed to help members and their colleagues organize their local associations for maximum effectiveness in dealing with the concerns and problems facing teachers and education.

Participants, says Corelle, are learning about programs for their local associations that would allow teachers to take control of their profession, and also are taking an in-depth look at internal and external communication techniques.

"The mission of the Leadership Training Institute," Corelle concludes, "is to develop skills in leadership, organizing, and program implementation for the members of MSTA, education, and the students we teach."

Wylie To Lead Birdwatching On Backbone Mtn.

While warm weather is still with us, fall winds and cool nights have already arrived in the far North, setting off the annual southern migrations among the birds.

West Virginia University's William L. Wylie, a longtime observer of birds in the region, will travel into the mountains to view the migrations each Saturday and Sunday morning in September. The public is invited to join him on these outings, which will be held on Backbone Mountain in Garrett County, a few miles east of the West Virginia-Maryland border along U.S. 50.

Hawks, bald eagles, ospreys, March harriers, ravens and song birds are among the varieties spotted by the 80 or more people who joined Wylie there for birdwatching weekends last year, he says.

Wylie, who is an associate professor of forestry at WVU, will be waiting at 9 a.m. each morning the event is scheduled, at a spot along Table Rock Road, two miles east of Red House. He will be within 200 yards of the intersection of Table Rock and U.S. 50.

Watchers should bring a chair, something to eat and drink, and pair of binoculars.

MCEA Endorses Del. Edwards As 1-A Candidate

The Maryland Classified Employees Association has endorsed recently Delegate George C. Edwards for the reelection to the Maryland House of Delegates from the 1-A legislative district.

Delegate Edwards has served in the General Assembly for four years. During this time, he has served on the Appropriations Committee and has been a consistent supporter of legislation to improve public employee benefits, according to an MCEA spokesman.

In arriving at its decision, the local endorsement committees of MCEA took into account the voting record of candidates, how well the candidates responded to public employee concerns and, in some instances, a questionnaire and interview.

"In making our endorsements, we relied heavily upon the judgment of our endorsement teams," commented Joseph Adler, executive director of MCEA.

He noted that members of MCEA will actively work for endorsed candidates.

NOT EVERY CHILD WILL PLAY THE PIANO

But every child deserves a chance to find out whether he'll want to. And the only way he gets that chance is if you give it to him. Not just physically give him a piano, but also attach a value to music that will make him want to learn. That's the tricky part, but if you accomplish it, you open a whole new creative world for your child.

The piano presents one of the dilemmas of being a parent. How do you give a child the opportunity to learn to play without being stuck if he decides not to? Keyboard World understands the problem, because we think we understand children pretty well. And we know we understand how expensive it is to build a truly fine piano.

SO, WHAT'S THE SOLUTION?

KEYBOARD WORLD'S ...

PIANO REFUND

PIANO REFUND

If your child doesn't take to the piano, we'll take back the piano. On the first anniversary of your date of purchase, Keyboard World will refund 80% of your base purchase price if requested.

EXAMPLE: AN $1800<sup>00</sup> Purchase =

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 109

OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, AUGUST 21, 1986

PER COPY 30c

New Records Set By 4-H FFA Livestock Sale

The livestock sale for 4-H/FFA baby beefs, lambs, and hogs, held Saturday night at the Garrett County Fair, grossed total sales of $65,912.35 with $55,382.50 coming from the baby beef sale, $7,613.05 coming from the sale of market lambs, and $2,716.80 coming from the sale of market hogs.

This year's sale set a number of "firsts." For the first time, beef sales averaged over $1 per pound, with the average for the 4-H baby beefs (including donated beefs resold at the end of the sale) being $1.06 per pound.

The lamb and hog averages were possible firsts, also, with seven hogs (including resales) averaging $1.63 per pound, and 42 market lambs (including resales) bringing a $1.64 per pound average.

For the first time ever, the total price paid for two grade lambs was higher than the total paid for the grand champion, and one hog totaled more than the total price of the grand champion.

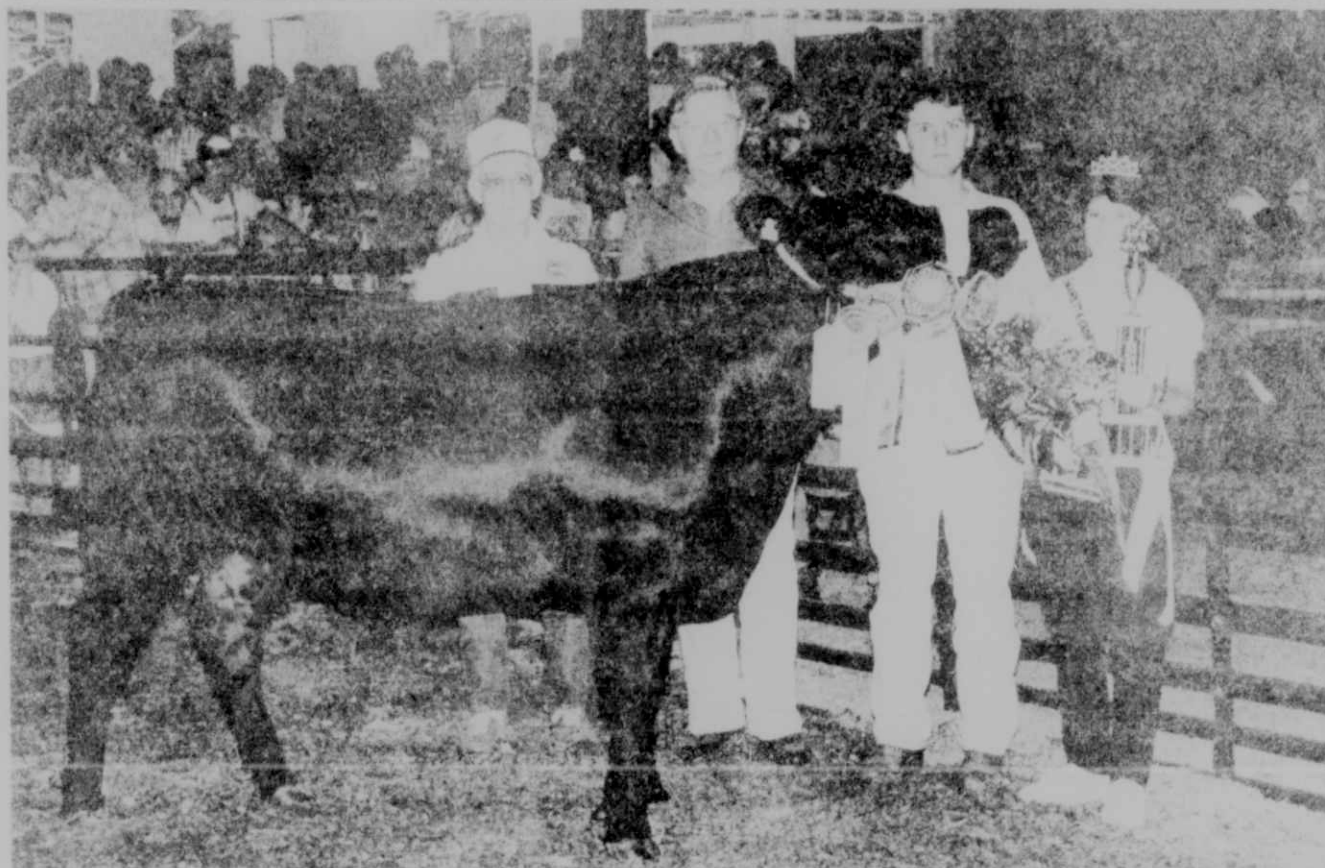

The price of the grand champion steer reached $3 per pound for the second time, the first time being in 1978.

The grand champion steer was sold by Johnny Evans, son of Richard and Delores Evans. His 1,230-pound Exotic Cross steer was purchased by Garrett National Bank for $3 per pound. The bank donated the steer to the Accident and Kitzmiller Fire Departments.

The reserve grand champion beef was sold by Michael Harvey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Harvey. His Angus steer weighed 1,100 pounds and was bought by Andrew W. Fike Construction and Developing for $1.70 per pound, and was donated to the Garrett County 4-H Council.

The grand champion market lamb was sold by Jenny Welser, the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Sealing. Dr. Earl Williams of Williams Chiropractic.

GRAND CHAMPION STEER BRINGS $3 PER POUND — Johnny Evans, of Red House, sold the Grand Champion Steer Saturday night at the Garrett County Fair Livestock Sale for $3 per pound. The 1,230-pound Exotic Cross was purchased by Garrett National Bank, who then donated half to the Accident Fire Department and half to the Kitzmiller Fire Department. Johnny was also named Grand Champion Showman this year. He is the son of Richard and Delores Evans, and is a 10-year member of the Red House 4-H Club. Pictured, left to right, are: Robert Bowser, representing the Accident Volunteer Fire Department; Dale Rodeheaver, senior vice president of Garrett National Bank; Johnny Evans, and Garrett County Farm Queen Jodi Rush.

Ms. Wilt Wins Silver Poet Award

A Grantsville native was recently notified that she has won the Silver Poet Award of 1986 from "The World of Poetry."

Sheila Wilt will be traveling to Orlando, Fla. in late August to receive her award. The local poet has received several certificates of merit for her work. She was first published in the 1984 edition of Quill Book's "Moments, Moods and Memories."

The "World of Poetry" banquet and award ceremony will be videotaped live for world television.

Garrett Community College Board Discusses 15th Anniversary Plans

"I'm pleased to announce that Garrett Community College will be celebrating 15 years of solid history in this community on Thursday, September 11 with a very special program, stated Dr. Stephen J. Herman, president of GCC, at the Tuesday night meeting of the GCC Board of Trustees."

"GCC has had its ups and downs," continued Dr. Herman, "but a lot of good has happened here."

The theme for the anniversary has been titled, "Forward Together." The celebration will begin with a dinner at 5:30 p.m. followed by a program and reception.

The keynote speaker for the program will be Dr. Willard Hawkins, former superintendent of Garrett County Schools. Katharine Smith, trustees chairman, will give the introduction and Dr. Herman will give the welcome address.

Local Hospital May Purchase Nursing Homes

Some area media reported this week that the Board of Governors of Garrett County Memorial Hospital is involved in "serious negotiation" to acquire two Oakland nursing homes: Cuppett and Weeks and Dennett Road Manor. The word was released after an apparent "leak" from a member of the Board or other hospital personnel to the media.

It was confirmed this week that, while there is negotiation of this type presently going on between hospital officials and the owners of the nursing homes, the talks have been "very tentative" and no contracts nor agreements have been reached. An offer has been presented by the hospital to the nursing home owners, however there has yet been no acceptance nor rejection of that offer.

According to a hospital spokesman, the hospital has engaged in these negotiations out of concern for the future of the homes and the patients who reside there, most of whom receive medical care at Garrett Memorial. Also cited as a concern was the wellbeing of the approximately 150 persons employed at the homes.

In the event that the offer is accepted by the nursing home owners, and such a purchase is made by the hospital, the spokesman stated that the nursing homes would not be directly under the guidance of the hospital's board and administration, but would operate as separate entities with separate management and their own board of directors.

Child Protective Positions To Be Added To Budget

Area Social Service directors were told Monday that 40 new child protective services positions will be added to 60 new jobs which are funded in the current fiscal budget. However, it is unclear if any positions will be made available in Garrett County.

Robert C. Shaffer, Social Services director for the county, said, "We don't know how soon a decision will be made, but we are hopeful we will receive some benefit. We have been granted temporary help for a six-month period, and hope to have a permanent increase in our staff." Shaffer reported that a request has been submitted.

Pat Carney, Garrett County's assistant director of social services and supervisor of child protective services, reported that there were 39 physical abuse cases, 21 sexual abuse cases, and 100 reports of neglected children in the county during fiscal year 1986, which ended July 1.

During the previous fiscal year, there were 45 physical and sexual abuse cases and 81 neglect cases.

Carney reported that more people are filing suspected child abuse reports particularly since the death of Brandy White earlier this year.

According to the Associated Press, the number of child abuse reports statewide increased from 556 in February to 1,128 in April. That total decreased to 918 reports in June.

Revised Off-Road Vehicle Proposal Is Scheduled For Review Saturday

The Maryland Forest, Park, and Wildlife Service will conduct a public hearing on Saturday, August 23, beginning at noon in the main auditorium of the Garrett Community College in McHenry.

A revised off-road vehicle proposal appeared in the August 1 Maryland Register. According to Donald E. MacLauchlan, director, Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service, the revised regulations are the result of an environmental assessment and a departmental review.

The basic changes this proposal provides, from the existing regulations and previous 1985 proposal include:

An increase in the off-road vehicle trails from 43.8 miles to 73.8 miles in Garrett County. This increase of 30 miles is for snowmobile use only.

It establishes a proclaimed snowmobile season from December 15 to March 15 only.

The proposal authorizes a forest or park manager to adjust or modify the season, as in the event of a heavy snow, before the season is scheduled to begin, the trails could be opened.

The proposal does not add any off-road vehicle trails for wheeled vehicles, but it does maintain all existing access roads.

Eliminated are seven miles of motorcycle use on two existing off-road vehicle trails.

It deletes three miles of existing off-road vehicle trails that would be rendered obsolete by these proposed regulations.

The proposal establishes an increase in Department of Natural Resources registration fees for all off-road vehicles from $5 to $15 per year.

MacLauchlan stated that it is the Department's hope that this new proposal will resolve the concerns previously expressed, as they apply to Garrett County.

Voters League, Local Media To Inform Voters

The Garrett County League of Women Voters, with the support of The Republican Newspaper and radio stations WMSG and WXIE, has arranged several opportunities for local voters to be better informed about the various candidates in the September 9 primary election and the November 4 general election.

The August 28 issue of The Republican will include the Voters' Guide of the Garrett County League. The information about the candidates was compiled by members of the League and space for and organization of the material is being supplied by The Republican. All candidates for state and county offices included on the ballot were invited to participate in the project. Besides being asked to submit a personal resume, most have been asked to respond to questions relative to the offices they are seeking.

WMSG/WXIE radios and the League will present "Meet the Candidates" broadcasts for all local contested elective offices. Candidates for sheriff and treasurer have been invited to participate in the Sunday, August 24, program, which will be aired at 4 p.m. On Tuesday, August 26, at 6 p.m., candidates for the House of Delegates and county commissioners will participate. Candidates for the Board of Education will be included in the September 7 program.

The American Canoe Association will sponsor the final races of the 1986 Pan American Cup Series of canoe and kayak races on the Savage River, one of America's best whitewater courses, located below Savage River Dam near Bloomington.

This event, which will feature both slalom and whitewater racing, will begin at 7 a.m. on Saturday, August 30, and continue through Monday, September 1. Course set-up and practice runs will take place for two days prior to the competition on August 28 and 29.

Allegany County Allocates $5,000 For White Water Championship Races

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners allocated $5,000 Friday to the Board of Garrett County Commissioners to aid in the promotion of the 1989 Whitewater Championship races to be held at the Savage River.

Commissioner Linda A. Golden, who sponsored the motion, stated, "This is an Olympic event. But more importantly, we are convinced that because of the number of teams coming, there will be an international flavor to the event."

She said the event could have been held anywhere but since it was being held in Garrett County she feels it is a "real feather in the hat" of the Garrett County Commissioners.

She continued, "With the number of people coming to the immediate area, we should do very well. Businesses, hotel, motel and restaurant owners should receive prime benefit... plus just having tourists come to this end of the state will make the $5,000 an investment."

Commission President Arthur T. Bond noted that it would be a large promotion, "the first of its kind undertaken in this area."

Golden remarked that the area could also receive network television coverage.

Commissioner Francis G. Philpot commented, "Most of the visitors will stay in Allegany County."

The Garrett County Commissioners met with Allegany Commissioners Golden and Philpot last month to request the aid of that county with promotional costs for the contest.

The Whitewater Championship races are slated for June of 1989 and in preparation of that Olympic event, many competitors from the United States, Canada and some eight nations overseas will be competing on Labor Day Weekend, August 28-September 1, in the Pan Am Cup races also slated at the Savage River.

This will be the first time the World Championships have ever been held in the United States and competitors from over 20 nations are expected to be involved in the two weeks of racing, according to a spokesman from the Garrett County Development Corporation, an agency which was largely responsible for getting the Savage River site selected by the Whitewater International Canoe Federation.

The local commissioners said they were "very pleased" to have the cooperation of the Allegany Commissioners and commended those who have worked on the Whitewater Championship committee.

Exact times and events may change because of relative quantity of entrants.

Approximately 200 competition boating runs are expected to be made during this race. Competitors from approximately 10 countries are expected to participate in this world class event. This location on the Savage River will also be the site of the 1989 Whitewater World Championships.

For more information persons may contact the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, Courthouse, Oakland, (301) 334-1948.

Pa. Teens Remain In ICU After ATV Mishaps

Two Pennsylvania teens were listed in "guarded" condition this morning in the Intensive Care Unit of Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where they were admitted following separate three-wheeler mishaps this weekend.

Jess A. Neratka, 18, Markleysburg, was injured while participating in the ATV race at the Garrett County Fair on Saturday. Tony Cutler, 14, Meyersdale, Pa. was injured Friday near the Parkersburg Road.

According to Maryland State Police at McHenry, Neratka's vehicle collided with one operated by Mark S. Smith, 19, Meyersdale, Pa. Both vehicles overturned, causing the drivers to be ejected. Smith was treated and released from Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, following the mishap.

Tfc. L. Rosage investigated the first mishap, while Tfc. Gary Resh investigated the second.

An Oakland man was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, following a four-wheeler mishap on Saturday.

Police said Walter J. Poyer, 64, was operating the vehicle on a dirt trail near the Sang Run Road when it hit a rut, causing the driver to be ejected. Tfc. David W. Broadwater investigated the mishap.

John P. Frye, 16, Friendsville, was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital Saturday following a three-wheeler mishap.

According to police reports, Frye was apparently inexperienced in operating the vehicle and lost control, causing him to be ejected. Tfc. R.J. Resh investigated.

An Accident couple was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a two-vehicle accident last Friday on U.S. Route 219 near the Mayhew Run Road.

Police said Rufus W. Enlow, 71, was operating a 1977 AMC Gremlin with his wife, Helen Enlow, 56, as a passenger. Enlow's vehicle was parked on the shoulder when he pulled into the path of a 1979 Mercedes.

TAKING IT DOWN and hanging it up is Robert E. Proudfoot as he begins his retirement from the pharmacy business. Bob has been a practicing pharmacist for 36 years. He began practicing in Charleston, W. Va. in 1950. He moved to Oakland in June of 1951 where he worked for Harned's Oakland Pharmacy. He later bought the pharmacy. Ownership and management of the business is now under the auspices of Carl Cathell and Milton Proudfoot. Bob's son, Bob, are the parents of five children. Two of whom are pharmacists. The Proudfoots reside on Monte Vista Road. They enjoy gardening, traveling, camping, riding bicycles, walking, being good neighbors and supporting local and West Virginia University sports. "I plan to enjoy my retirement, but I always liked working and I will miss talking to all the townspeople every day," said the retiree. A project that has kept Bob busy for many months has been the Rowlesbury Relief Fund, a drive he spearheaded when that town realized much destruction during the November 1985 flood.

WESTERN MARYLAND GOLF TOURNEY WINNERS — Phil Ambrosey, left, of Bentleyville, Pa., fired a three-under-par 210 to capture first place in the 24th annual Western Maryland Open at the Oakland County Club this past weekend. The nearest finisher to Ambrosey was five-time winner Jack Forbes, Morgantown, pictured center, who finished the 54-hole tourney with a 216. Just one stroke back was Rick Tauma, right, of Olney, who finished third. See story on sports pages for details.

THE 1986 RESERVE GRAND CHAMPION STEER at the Garrett County Fair was owned and sold by Michael Harvey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Harvey. The 1,100 pound Angus was purchased by Andrew W. ### Army Corps Of Engineers To Make Repairs To Kitzmiller Flood Project

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' Baltimore District announced this week it will make levee repairs and remove rock debris from the channel at the Kitzmiller local flood protection project which was damaged during the flood of November 1985.

Contract bid opening for the repair work will be on September 3, the Corps said, and the contract is scheduled to be awarded on Sept. 8. Construction should take about 60 days.

On November 4, 1985, heavy rains caused by Tropical Storm Juan established a flood of record at Kitzmiller, but the Corps' local flood protection project prevented more than $2.5 million in damages, according to the Corps. While the flood waters did not overflow the levee, the river's velocity caused limited erosion at two spots on the levee and left approximately 22,000 cubic yards of rock debris in the channel. The upcoming repairs will restore the levee and the channel.

The Corps of Engineers completed the Kitzmiller Local Flood Protection Project in September 1984. It consists of 5,800 feet of levees, 30 feet of retaining wall, and 4,700 feet of channel improvement along the North Branch of the Potomac River.

Arthritis Foundation Seeking Volunteer In Garrett County

The Arthritis Foundation, Maryland Chapter, is looking for one special volunteer in Garrett County.

In several communities throughout Maryland, a volunteer receives phone calls on behalf of the Foundation to answer questions and to take requests to have literature on arthritis mailed out. Arthritis affects over 625,000 Marylanders, more than 3,800 in Garrett County alone, the Chapter said. The Foundation needs a person in Garrett County to provide this service locally, so that people will not need to make a long distance call in order to obtain information. Training is provided by the Arthritis Foundation.

Only a few hours a month are required to provide this service, according to a Chapter Spokesman. Interested persons are asked to contact Karen Krug at 12 W. 25th Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21218; telephone (301) 366-0923.

IT'S A FAMILY AFFAIR AT THE FAIR — Exhibiting animals at the Garrett County Fair has always been a time for families to work together, and this year was no exception. In the horse barn, these two youngsters, along with many others, worked along with their parents to care for and show their prize animals. Above, Craig Miller, who had a pony at the fair this year, brought his own equipment to help "old Dad" take care of things. Craig is the son of Marvin (holding the horse in the background) and Donna Miller, of Jennings. Young Joey Hutzler, below, was exercising his four-month-old colt, Morning Star, when the photo was taken. Later that day, Joey won a trophy in the Lead-Line Class with Morning Star. The four-year-old horseman is the son of Joe and Terry Hutzler of Friendsville.

Oompah Band To Begin Practice, Seeks Members

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department Oktoberfest German Oompah Band will begin rehearsals next week and, according to Manning Smith, director, the group is issuing an invitation to new members.

The band, which is composed of former members of the Mountain City Band, members of the Ali Ghan Shrine Band from Cumberland, and a host of other local amateur musicians who enjoy playing an instrument, has been providing the music for the past several years for the Oktoberfest celebration by the Oakland VFD during the Autumn Glory Festival. Smith stated that a few new members are added each year and there is ample room for more this year. Fifteen to 20 persons have been in the band each year.

The band plays a variety of music, with special emphasis on polkas, waltzes, German and American marches, sing-alongs, and a few "swing" numbers. Brass and woodwind instruments are especially welcomed.

The first rehearsal will be next Thursday, August 28, 7:30 p.m., at the Oakland Fire Hall. All local musicians, male and female, regardless of age, are welcome, Smith stated.

Show starts at dusk. Children under 12 FREE, except for Disney movies.

TO GET DOWN AND PULL over twice their weight demands a lot of heart in a team. And this team of lightweight draft Belgians, belonging to Swink and Bwn, Inc., of Grindstone, Pa., pulled 7,500 pounds, more than twice their combined weight of 3,100 pounds to win first place in the Garrett County Fair Horse Pulling Contest. The only other team to pull that amount of weight was another light weight team which placed second, belonging to Billy Hovd of Acme, Pa. Placing third in the light weight division was the Larry Sharp team, and Jim Suter team placed fourth. Those placing in the heavy weight category (over 3,200 pounds) were: John Hol first; Dave Warnick, second; Ralph Resh, third; and Mike Warnick, fourth. ## Winter Trails Proposal Eyed By Commissioners

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners met Tuesday with John Nelson, Garrett County Planning and Zoning Administrator to review the proposed draft of the master plan for the winter trails system in Garrett County. The proposal was drawn up by Potomac Engineering and Surveying, in conjunction with Planning and Zoning and the Department of Natural Resources.

The commissioners questioned the portion of the plan entitled, "Role of County Government," concerning the obtaining of easements and rights of way, the creation by county government of a trail management committee and financial commitment on the part of county government.

Nelson said yesterday the proposal has been submitted to the State Planning Commission and the Department of Natural Resources for their input and approval. They have 60 days to study the proposal. Following that, a public hearing will be held to gather input from the general public.

Proposed expansion of existing trails is incorporated into the plan, according to Robert J. Fousek, county clerk. A determination must also be made regarding Program Open Space funds which can be used to purchase land. It is not certain POS money can be used to buy easements of rights of way.

The commissioners said they would continue to study all aspects of the proposal and how they would pertain to county government responsibilities.

Get To The Source. . .

It is no secret that the problem of drug abuse in this nation has reached an all-time critical level and continues to worsen by the day. President and Mrs. Reagan, stars from the entertainment world, and famous athletes have all joined the fight against illegal drug use by participating in major publicity campaigns, such as the "Just Say No" advertisements. Drug screening of employees, increased funding of educational programs concerning drug abuse, stricter drug laws and sentences, and increased law enforcement efforts are among other proposals being suggested and supported.

While we too believe the above efforts are worthy, the effectiveness of each of them is questionable. Too many young people will not "say no," drug screening may be proven unconstitutional, stricter laws and sentencing that are already on the books have not shown a decrease in illegal drug activity, and, while a number of major drug busts have been made in recent years, law enforcement officials have managed to seize only a tiny percentage of the illegal drugs that continually pour into the country.

Therefore, we feel more drastic measures are going to have to be implemented if we ever hope to come close to eradication of illegal drugs. As with most problems in this life, the only real way to resolve them is not by treating the symptoms or results, but by getting to the source of them.

In a recent interview, journalist James Mills, who has investigated the international drug trade for six years and recently authored a book on the subject, stated that only by destruction of the suppliers of illegal drugs, most of whom are located outside the United States, will we ever be able to effectively halt widespread drug abuse. He noted that Columbia provides 80 percent of the world's cocaine, while Peru and Bolivia grow 95 percent of the coca from which cocaine is made. Mexico provides most of the heroin and marijuana for United States users.

Mills noted that when our armed forces were attacked by Libyan terrorists, we bombed Libya. He said that Columbia, Peru, and Bolivia are doing far more damage to us than Libya ever has and, while he does not advocate bombing these nations, he suggests a much stronger squeeze on their governments to get them to wipe out the drug trafficking. In just the past four years, production of cocaine has increased 78 percent, opium production was up 50 percent, coca up 40 percent, and marijuana up 20 percent. The escalation is staggering, and as long as little is done to discourage or stop the producers, there is no reason to believe that such lucrative production will not continue to grow.

If a nation suddenly fired missiles upon us, we would retaliate swiftly and directly, right at the source. We are being blasted right now with something that is as deadly as bombs and, with agencies like the CIA, there is no reason that we cannot pinpoint the sources of production of these drugs and destroy them, hopefully with the cooperation of the foreign governments involved.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Early this year there were incidents in Garrett County concerning indiscriminate killing of black bears. Your newspaper and staff should be commended for the reporting of the intolerable acts and bringing public attention to the threat to our natural resources, be they wildlife species or otherwise. Although I consider myself a hunter I feel very strongly about killing or otherwise destroying any of our wildlife if it serves no purpose as food or if it is not a real threat to either humans or other animals. The destroying of bald animals is probably justified on these grounds.

But what about snakes? I am distressed that you give front page service to killing rattlesnakes simply because they are plentiful this year. Sending a staff photographer to record this indiscriminate killing is contrary to what you hoped to achieve in the bear coverage. Who decides that black bears, although considered dangerous if molested, are no real threat if caution is used, should be protected and snakes that deserve the same consideration - and caution - should be destroyed? Double standards apply according to individual fears and biases.

If you and your staff, indeed, deplore destruction of wildlife then be consistent. If you subscribe to the balance of nature and each species being part of the whole then sobeit. If you follow the doctrine of creationism then man was to name the species and have dominion over; not to destroy. By the rationale of evolutionism then by some strange fluke of molecular accident we did not end up crawling on our bellies. I have no personal feelings as to those who were featured in your coverage. I would hope for an attitude adjustment. Keep up the good reporting!

Cordially yours,
Vance Jones

Dear Mr. Jones,

Good point! We agree also that the rattlesnakes and all of God's creatures should be left alone, unless they present a real, immediate danger to someone. Thanks for your input.

A NEW AMBULANCE was recently placed into service by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The addition of this 1986 Ford/Horton four-wheel drive vehicle increases the squad's number of ambulances to three, two of which are four-wheel drive. The squad also has a light duty equipment truck. The newest ambulance, which features the latest in emergency lighting, suction, and oxygen equipment, carried a price tag of $40,000. The lettering on the side was donated by Barry Domenick, of Signs by Domenick. A fund-raising effort to help pay for the vehicle was a baby beef raffle. The beef was donated by Mid Towns Cinemas and won by Janie Eskridge, pictured center. Also in the photo are Larry Holler, of Mid Towns Cinemas, and Pam Shope, vice president of Southern Rescue.

To the Editor:

Last winter about the middle of February the Cumberland News reported a statement by Senator Bambarus to the effect that he wanted to increase the bear population in Garrett County, and he had introduced Senate Bill 776 to increase the fines to five thousand dollars for killing a bear.

About the same time, Delegate Edwards introduced a companion bill in the House. Edwards' statements explained that he had received letters from people as far away as Texas deploring the killing of a sow bear in Garrett County.

Our two representatives seemed to think that they had the right to sponsor such laws because some nuts from outside the county wanted it that way. At that time they seemed not to care about the damage such a law would do to their people who elected them. They did not try to find out what the law would do to Garrett County. Our people were not given a hearing.

Now, these so-called representatives want to be re-elected. They are talking about what they have done for our people.

The truth is they have done nothing but harm. Our people would be better off, we would all have been safer in our homes and on our roads, and our farms, had we kept these two men at home. Before the bills reached the Governor for his signature, the bills were changed to reduce the fines to $1500 and $2000, but only because it would help to get the bills approved. As the law that is now on the books stand the fines and the powers delegated to the Bureaucrats to molest us and clutter up our courts, and the losses we will suffer in damage, plus the fee we will have to pay for lawyers to protect us, the loss of liberty to kill a dangerous animal, and longer term damage to our domestic animals, plus the dangers to our families. Yes, all of these and more will be the unavoidable total cost we will suffer by having sent Bambarus and Edwards to represent us in Annapolis.

This letter is to those young to middle age people who have a father in the hospital or nursing home, with a mother at home trying to hold herself and home together. And by the end of this letter, the people being spoken about will know who they are.

But now in her time of need, when you should be giving her your support, what does she get but condemnation, for doing all she can for your father during his illness. That's the kind of thanks she gets for giving you her love.

Board Discusses

annual program evaluation has been requested by the SBCC for two program courses at GCC. The two programs are the gerontology certificate program and the environmental renewable resources technology program.

Dr. Mitchell will be soliciting commenters from the faculty and staff to work on studies of those programs to determine their viability in the community.

Dean Mitchell then reported on the Summer Day Camp for children held this summer at GCC. She said she was "very pleased" with the enrollment in the two courses offered in computers and creative and performing arts.

She noted that she had received positive feedback from the students involved in the program.

Finally, Dr. Mitchell announced that the GCC catalogue had been printed and bound in-house to cut costs. She presented the first copies off the press to the trustees.

Student Affairs

Dr. Nancy J. Priselac, dean of student affairs, said at Tuesday's meeting she was "guardedly optimistic" about enrollment figures for the fall semester at GCC. She did note that a total of 199 students have enrolled as of August 19 and said that August 20 would be the day to compare to last year's figures. Fulltime enrollment is up this year.

Dr. Priselac said that if GCC experiences the same surge of last minute enrollments this year as in past years, the all over enrollment figures would be up.

The dean also stated that a strong recruitment effort has been ongoing throughout the summer. She said specific information has been sent to high schools, employers, counselors and unemployed persons.

Dean Priselac then commended those involved with the GCC Garrett County Fair booth and said she felt it was a valuable promotional tool for the college.

Finally, Dr. Priselac reported that the Student Government Association has been busy preparing for fall events for students. The first day of classes is September 9. The dean noted that seven students are on the waiting list for work study and she is hoping to find parttime jobs for the students in the community.

Financial Report

GCC Comptroller John Culp reported a $165,000 cash flow as of July 31 for the college. He said the cash flow picture looks better now than it has in years.

Culp said he anticipated no borrowing at year's end, but expects to have to borrow two short-term loans, one in October and one in March, depending on the timing of payments from the state.

The comptroller commended the budget managers at the college for holding their budgets. "They have done a fantastic job," he stated. He reported that 7% of the budget has been expended as of July 31 which is 1.33% below even spending.

Dr. Herman thanked Culp for providing leadership to the interim cabinet during the transition period of his presidency and cited Culp for his "intelligent budget building."

President's Report

Dr. Herman, who has only been with the college for a few months, said the two main objectives for the college were: 1) a sound governing structure and 2) a long-range plan for GCC.

He said interviews with board members, staff, faculty and the community-at-large would become the basis for the development of long-range plans. "So much hinges on coherence - we don't want to force a plan on anyone. We only need to do it right once."

The next meeting of the Board of Trustees will be held September 16.

operated by Anthony J. Landau, 21, Bethel Park, Pa. Landau's vehicle struck Enlow's, then continued across the road and into a ditch.

Tfc. C.R. Smith investigated. Jody Meyer, nine, Zelenopole, Pa., was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial after she broke her arm in a mishap last Thursday.

Police said Meyers was riding on the back of a pickup truck driven by her father in Swallow Falls State Park when she attempted to jump from the vehicle to pick up a shoe that had fallen. She fell backwards, breaking her arm when she hit the pavement. Tfc. L. Rosage investigated.

Police said the woman looked away from the road when a pie began to slide off the passenger seat and she tried to catch it. The car left the road, hit a fence and traveled into a field where it struck the bull and turned onto its top. The bull was killed and the car was demolished. Police said the woman was wearing a seat belt.

Two accidents resulted in drivers being charged for allegedly driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Police said Kevin Eugene Crowe, 20, Frostburg, was operating a 1969 Ford Mustang on the Finzel Road when Jackson Samuel Green, 41, Lonaconing, pulled out in front of him in a 1982 Ford Escort.

Tfc. R.M. Hershberger investigated, charging Green with failing to yield the right-of-way and driving while under the influence of alcohol.

A Tribute to Bob

by Pam Ashby

I first met him when I was a small child. I frequented his pharmacy and soda shop for candy, comic books and Seven-Up. I had my first chocolate soda in his store. He always smiled at me and teased me. It was that kind of teasing that made me think for a minute before I realized he was only pulling my leg.

I went to work for him when I was only 15. He taught me how to make my first chocolate soda. He forgave me when I was supposed to open the store at 6 a.m. and overslept. He knew I had punished myself enough already. He said sternly, "Don't let it happen again," and then winked at me as that famous grin crossed his face.

Now he is my next door neighbor. And he is a neighbor in very sense of the word, not just by location. This man and his wife have never failed to bring a treat to my kids and all the other neighborhood kids on Christmas and Easter. They bring us vegetables from their beautiful garden. They gave our kids the pick of the litter from their purebred collie. They brought dinner when we were working on our new porch because they remember "what it was like." They got prescriptions for us after hours or on holidays. They were there with love and support during the rough times.

There are not enough words to thank this man and his wife.

Bob Proudfoot retired recently as a pharmacist. Undoubtedly, he and his wife, Alice, will enjoy every moment of their days together. Maybe someday I can return all the kindness they have shown me. I hope they realize the impact they've had on my life. Enjoy your retirement, Bob. You deserve it.

Tfc. R.J. Resh investigated, charging Carpenter with negligent driving and driving while intoxicated.

Cadet Robert M. Flinn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene M. Flinn, Oakland, has completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

Field training, attended by cadets normally between their second and third year of college, given an opportunity to evaluate each student's potential as an officer, according to an Air Force spokesman.

The summer's curriculum consists of orientations on jet aircraft, career opportunities, human relations education and equal opportunity training. Physical fitness and survival training is also emphasized.

The field training is four weeks, but cadets in the two-year ROTC program receive an additional two weeks of instruction in the development of air power and the contemporary Air Force.

Flinn is a student at West Virginia University, Morgantown.

Cadet Melrose S. Hanft, daughter of Walter C. and Myrtle M. Hanft, Route 2, Accident, received practical work in military leadership at the U.S. Army ROTC advanced camp, Fort Bragg, N.C.

The six-week camp, attended by cadets normally between their third and fourth year of college, includes instruction in communications, management and survival training.

Successful completion of the advanced camp and graduation from college results in a commission as a second lieutenant in either the U.S. Army, Army Reserve or National Guard for the cadet.

Dusics Renew Vows On 50th Event

Mr. and Mrs. Emeric G. Dusic, Ottawa, Ill., formerly of Oakland, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a renewal of vows ceremony at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland, on August 3.

Following the ceremony, the couple rode around town on the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department's "Old Number One," a 1927 American LaFrance fire truck, just as they did when they were married in the same church in 1936. DeCorsey Bolden and his nephew, Joe Hel-

The Dusic family attended the 10 a.m. worship service at St. Mark's and all 22 members of the family present received Holy Communion together. Rev. Ray Ursin, of St. Mark's, officiated at the service and the renewal of vows ceremony at 12:30 p.m. Elsie Sincell, who was the organist for the couple's wedding in 1936, also played for the renewal of vows event.

Among the members of the original wedding party who were able to attend the August 3 ceremony were Riley Gregg, Fairfax, Va., and Rebecca Browning O'Hara, St. Petersburg, Fla. Donald Browning replaced his brother, Cheston, who died several years ago; R.C. "Chuck" Dusic, Charleston, W.Va., replaced his father, who is incapacitated; their son, Richard, Watsonville, Calif., replaced Mr. Dusic's brother, Nick, who died in 1938; Mary Emily Butt Aberle, maid of honor, was unable to attend, so the couple's daughter, Lynne Dusic Shafer, replaced her; Laura Dusic, Calista, Calif., replaced Betty Frantz, who was a flower girl; and Nicholas and Gregory Dusic, Cloverdale, Ore., carried the bride's wedding veil.

Nick Dusic, who replaced "Colonel" Jim Bell, the bride's father who died in 1959, escorted his mother down the aisle. Jay Bell, Washington, D.C., escorted the guests of honor and his 93-year-old grandmother, Edith Bell, to her seat in the front row.

The Dusics' four children, Carolyn, Richard, Lynne, and Nick, and their families, hosted a reception at Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, following the ceremony. Richard, his wife, Lee, and their children, Laura, Doug, Scott, Rob, and Bill, reside in Watsonville, Calif.; Carolyn, her husband, Lou Hernandez, and sons, Demian and Nick, reside in Edmonton, Canada; Nick, his wife, Tere, and sons, Nicholas and Gregory, reside in Cloverdale, Ore.; and Lynne, her husband, David Shafer, and son, Craig, reside at Beckman's Peninsula, Deep Creek Lake.

Relatives and friends from Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Washington, D.C., New Jersey, Ohio, New York, Vermont, Michigan, Florida, and California attended.

Oakland Splits To Remain In Second Place

Oakland kept a strong grip on second place in the Pen-Mar Baseball League standings this past week, despite dropping the first game of a doubleheader against third place Mt. Savage on Sunday afternoon at Mt. Savage.

The Oaks were nipped 10-9 in the opener as Mt. Savage rallied for a pair of runs in the bottom of the seventh inning. Oakland came back in the nightcap for a 9-3 victory, giving them a 17-9 record with one doubleheader remaining in the regular season.

Tri-Towns, who defeated Elkins in a single game on Sunday, has already clinched first place since the only two games left on their schedule are against LaVale, a team which has forfeited the remainder of the season.

A bunt by Perry Bridges in the bottom of the seventh inning sent Keith Cain to home plate for Mt. Savage's winning run in the opener against Oakland.

Oakland held a 6-3 lead after five and one-half innings by virtue of a two-run homer by Phil Carr in the fifth. However, Mt. Savage responded with two runs in the bottom of the fifth and four more in the bottom of the sixth behind home runs by Wayne Skidmore and Rick Winebrenner.

Donnie Rose, the winning pitcher, aided his own cause with two key hits in the last two innings.

Mike Gustave smacked a triple and a double for Oakland, which drove in three runs.

Lawrence Nesselrodt led Oakland's hitting in the second game as he picked up four RBIs on three hits, while Wayne Brown and Steve Zumpano each recorded a pair of hits. Carr added a two-run single, as Ed Frazell went the distance for the win on the mound.

Skidmore paced Mt. Savage with four hits and two RBIs.

Oakland will meet Cumberland away this Sunday in a 2 p.m. doubleheader to conclude the regular season. League playoffs, involving the top four teams will begin the following weekend in Cumberland.

Oakland is assured of a playoff spot since they cannot finish any lower than third place. Mt. Savage, Moorefield, and Buckhannon are battling for the remaining spots.

Current league standings are as follows:

Tri-Towns	18-6
Oakland	17-9
Mt. Savage	14-11
Moorefield	14-12
Buckhannon	13-13

Sore Pitching Arms Major Factor In Post 208 Playoff Elimination

A breakdown in the overall pitching effort seemed to be the major factor in Accident Post 208's elimination from the Maryland Junior American Legion playoffs, held last week at Municipal Stadium in Hagerstown.

After whipping Caroline Post 29 in the opening game of the tournament, Coach Phil Caruso's Mountain District champions dropped a 13-2 decision to Funktown on Wednesday evening and were then eliminated from the tourney Thursday afternoon by Howard County, 11-4.

All four of Post 208's top pitchers, especially Steve Sites and Dwayne Hedrick, began having sore-arm problems during the tournament and gradually lost their effectiveness, to the point that Caruso said it would have been difficult for the local team to continue in the tournament even if they had won either the Howard County or Funktown game. Jon Reneslacs and Darryl Dupert were the other two tossers for Accident Post who excelled throughout the season.

Sites and Hedrick had combined for a 9-1 record and four saves during the regular season. Sites had pitched six innings of no-hit ball in the tournament opener and Hedrick tossed five shutout innings before having to retire because of his arm.

The score of the Funktown contest was not indicative of the offensive performance of the Post 208 players, as they were out-hit by only a 14-9 margin.

"We really hit the ball well," Caruso said, "but they had at least five spectacular running catches against us with runners on base, while their hits were falling in the gaps for doubles and triples."

Troy Buresser recorded two doubles and a single for the winners, while Donnie Gipp provided a pair of triples.

Reneslacs doubled and singled for Accident, Dupert singled twice, Steve Zumpano hit a triple, and Sites and Todd Spaid each finished with a double.

Hedrick had started the game on the mound for Accident and gave up no runs, but had to be relieved in the third because of a sore arm.

Accident was leading 4-3 going into the final inning of play in Thursday's game, but Howard County erupted for seven runs in the top of the ninth to ice the win.

In that fateful inning, Accident pitchers yielded five walks, the defense recorded two errors, and Howard County batters provided a pair of extra-base hits. An infield error and two walks loaded the bases, followed by a triple by Dave Everley. Dave Kublious followed with a two-run double.

Everley also singled twice in the game and Kurt Deers doubled and singled.

Reneslacs again paced Accident Post's hitting with two singles and three RBIs, while Zumpano scored three times.

"I really believe that we had a better team than Howard County," Caruso stated. "The 13-2 loss the night before, especially after we hit so well, coupled with our pitchers' sore arms really took a big toll."

Post 208 concluded with a 18-6 record, having won 11 straight games before the two tournament losses.

"It would have been great to win, obviously," Caruso said, "but overall it was still an extraordinary experience for our kids. Their talent really got a lot of exposure at the tournament and at least six of our players have been or will be contacted by college and professional scouts. Darryl Dupert, Jon Reneslacs, Steve Zumpano, Steve Sites, Dwayne Hedrick, and Todd Spaid all had terrific tournaments and I feel certain each of them will hear from some colleges. Dupert and Reneslacs will no doubt be contacted by some professional baseball scouts."

Caruso also noted that the tournament appearance seemed to solidify and increase local support of the team. "We really received some nice donations from local businesses and individuals to help cover the cost of going to the tournament," he said, "and it appears that a more unified network of support will be available for next year."

Caruso, former Garrett Community College coach and now an assistant at Frostburg State College, has led the Accident team since its formation just two years ago. In its first year, Post 208 was winless, and last year finished with about a .500 record. The team this season was composed of players from Southern, Northern, Central Preston, Petersburg, and Hampshire county high schools.

restrooms, ticket windows, and half-time rooms for the players. The Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions Club is currently raising funds to help pay for the building and a spokesman for the Southern Garrett Athletic Association stated that proceeds from the chicken barbecue will assist the Association in making a donation to the building project.

Oakland All-Star Win Tri-Towns Tourney By Crushing Keyser, 14-1

Possibly the best Little League All-Star team ever to be fielded in Garrett County supported this claim last Thursday by coasting to a 14-1 victory over the Keyser All-Stars in the championship of the Tri-Towns Little League World Series.

The local youth, sponsored by Team One of Oakland, came home with over 40 trophies from the tournament, including just about every MVP and "Best" award available.

Team One was led on the mound by the two-hit, 10-strike-out pitching of B.J. Shaffer and at the plate by Richie DeWitt, who smacked a homer, a double, and two singles, and Brett Rice, who recorded a double and four singles. James Bateman added a double and three singles, Garth Glatfelter and David Kurtz each doubled and singled.

Pacing an excellent fielding effort were Joey Ashby, Garth Glatfelter, and Brett Rice.

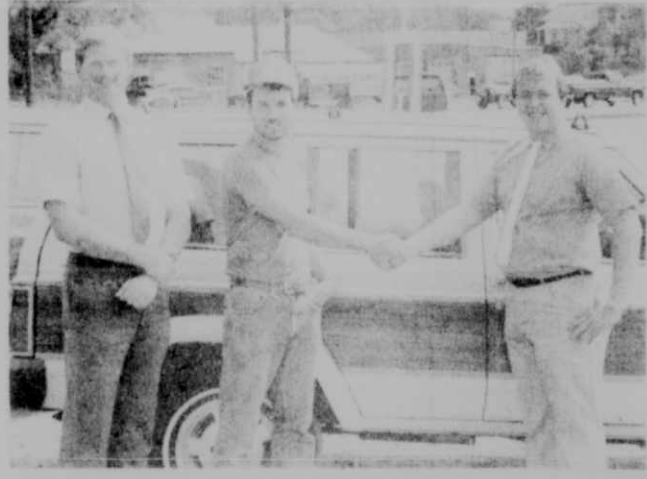

Team One finished the double-elimination tournament with a 5-0 record.

Most of the players on the Team One squad were the same players who made it to the Maryland State Little League playoffs a few weeks ago. The Oakland all-stars were defeated by Brunswick in two straight games, 2-0 and 8-4. Brunswick went on to win the regional championship and, until last night, was one of only four

WE'RE THE BEST — That's the claim of the Oakland Little League All-Star team, sponsored by Team One, that won the Tri-Towns Little League World Series last Thursday in Westernport by crushing Keyser in the championship game, 14-1. The local players brought home over 40 team and individual trophies from the tourney. In the photo above, left to right, front row, are

United States teams remaining in the Little League World Series. Brunswick was stopped yesterday by Sarasota, Fla., 5-0. Sarasota, Tucson, Ariz., Taiwan, and Venezuela are the only four teams remaining in the competition. The two United States teams will face each other today in the semi-finals.

Team One players named to the All-Tournament team at Tri-Towns were Bobbie Evans, James Bateman, Richie DeWitt, Brett Rice, and Joey Ashby, while Randy Livengood, who played on the other Oakland team in the tourney, was also named.

Individual awards included: Fastest base runner, Richie DeWitt; Most accurate outfield throw to the plate, B.J. Shaffer; Home run hitting contest, James Bateman; Most hits in series, Brett Rice (14); Most doubles in series, Brett Rice (3) and Richie DeWitt (3); Most home runs, James Bateman (3); Most RBIs, Richie DeWitt (14); Most strikeouts in series, Brett Rice (28 in 14 innings); Best defensive player, Joey Ashby; Best pitcher in series, Brett Rice (3 wins); Best team following, Oakland fans; Best manager, Jay Rice; MVP in championship game, Richie DeWitt; and MVP for the series, Brett Rice.

Randy Livengood and Jeremy Bosley, members of the second Oakland all-star team, also brought home individual trophies, as Livengood had the highest batting average (.700) and Bosley was named best out-fielder.

A yard and bake sale, the proceeds of which will go toward the purchase of team jackets for the Team One players, will be held August 28-29 at the parking lot of Ben's 135 Plumbing and Heating, Rt. 135. Persons who have items they wish to donate for the sale are asked to contact Bonnie Bateman at 334-8491.

A donation of $400 was presented to the players by Team One. According to Coach Jay Rice, approximately $700 is needed for the jacket purchase.

Phil Ambrose, of Bentleyville, Pa., fired a three-under-par 210 to out-distance his nearest competitor by six strokes and win the 24th annual Western Maryland Amateur Golf Championship, held this past weekend at the Oakland Country Club.

Jack Forbes, a five-time winner of the event, finished second with a three-over-par 216 in the 34-hole tournament which began Friday and concluded on Sunday.

One stroke behind Forbes was Rick Touna, of Olney, followed by the defending champion Ron Witt of Kingwood, who carded a 218. Dick Bolen, Kingwood, former winner Larry Spotlwe, Philippi, W.Va., and Bill Haddox, of Parsons, all finished with 221s to tie for fifth place.

The top local finishers were Rob Sharps, Oakland, and former Northern High School standout, Brent Beachy, McHenry, who finished in a three-way tie for sixth place with 224s. Richard Stolarzski, Crofton, was the other sixth place finisher.

Former winner Lindsey Gonder and Jeff Orr, who was leading the field after Friday's play, were tied for eighth place with 226s. Both are from Oakland.

Charlie Miller of Frostburg won the Senior Division (55 and over) with a three-day total of 223.

Willard "Bear" Paugh was the winning pitcher in the championship game, as teammates Cecil Tasker and "Bubblegum" Sweitzer provided an awesome hitting performance. Rich Harvey was the coach of the Bethlehem team, Bill Kelly managed My-O-Tire, and John Harman coached Markwood and Graham.

Peaches Show Appreciation For Hay Donation

Marlin and Lena Lawson, who recently organized a convoy of 13 tractor-trailer loads of hay which was donated to farmers in drought-ridden areas of the state, were surprised last week by a phone call from George Gardenour of Smithsburg.

Gardenour, who owns Gardenour Orchards, told the Lawsons that he wanted to give peaches to everyone who had helped make the hay donation possible. Although he was not a hay recipient, he wanted to do this to show his appreciation to those who had donated hay, time, or equipment to the farmers in need.

A Lawson truck was sent to Gardenour Orchards where 45 boxes of peaches were loaded, brought home, and distributed to those who had helped with the convoy.

Maryland Horse Council Is Formed To Represent All Horse Interests

Concerned horsemen have joined together to form the Maryland Horse Council, the first cross-breed and cross-specialty horse group in the state. The purpose of the group is to promote the common interest of Maryland's diverse and growing horse industry.

Council President Sandra R. Bullington, a tax lawyer, says that, "Unlike most organizations that represent only one breed or interest, we represent all horses, all owners, all riders and all equine activities within the state. We don't favor one interest group or breed over another. We work for them all."

The Maryland Horse Council is dedicated to keeping horsemen and women in the state aware of legislation, statewide and local, which affects horse owners and breeders.

The council issues monthly newsletters to its members, with each newsletter covering a variety of pertinent subjects from new zoning and licensing requirements to development of possible vaccines for the treatment of Potomac Fever. And in addition to its information dissemination function, the council lobbies Annapolis and local legislators on behalf of horse interests in the state.

The council's future plans call for publishing a directory of services available to horse people in Maryland. The directory would also list the Maryland Horse Council membership and affiliations, as well as a county-by-county listing of legal requirements for stabling horses.

Incorporated as a not-for-profit group in August 1985, the Maryland Horse Council currently has seven membership classifications, from Junior at 15 per year to Association. In between are Individual ($10), Family ($15), Farms/Schools ($25), Professional ($25), and Commercial ($50).

The council currently has representatives from a number of cross-breed groups including the Mason-Dixon Paso Fino Owners and Breeders Association, Chesapeake Ponies of America Club, Maryland State Quarter Horse Association, Southern Maryland Quarter Horse Association, Maryland Appaloosa Association, Potomac Morgan Horse Club, Mason-Dixon Appaloosa Horse Club, Preserve Arundel Trails for Horses, Plantation Walking Horses of Maryland, Blue Ridge Arabian Horse Association, Potomac Valley Dressage Association, and the Maryland Pony Breeders.

"Because we're a new organization, we're growing by leaps and bounds," says Bullington. "In less than one year we've attracted 12 association members, two dozen individuals, five professional members, two families and two farms. Our growth has come from mostly word-of-mouth, with one horse person telling another about us, so we are very pleased."

"We've come a long way in a very short time, but we'd like to grow even faster. The more people, the more breeds and groups we represent, the louder our collective voice in Annapolis and throughout the state."

Individuals or groups interested in seeking membership information should call Bullington at 261-5507 or they may write the Maryland Horse Council, Inc., P.O. Box 8, Harwood, Maryland 20776.

Southern States Grantsville Co-op Holds Meeting

Ken E. Yoder and Bernard F. McKenzie, both of Salisbury, Pa., were elected to the local stockholder committee at the Southern States Grantsville Service, Inc., held on August 7. Over 150 stockholder-members and their families attended the session.

Daniel J. Yoder of Bittinger was selected chairman of the local committee, while Cleland Beitzel of Bittinger was named vice-chairman.

Elected to the Southern States Farm Home Advisory Committee were: Mrs. Joyce Breneman of Accident, and Mrs. Mary Kamp of Grantsville.

Mrs. June Beachy of Grantsville was chosen chairman of the Farm Home Advisory Committee while Mrs. Mary Kamp was named secretary.

Simon Tice of Grantsville was chosen as a delegate to represent the local membership at the Southern States Cooperative 63rd Annual Stockholders'

Meeting to be held in November. William Merrill of Grantsville was named alternate.

Jim K. Stutter of Clarksburg, W.Va., a member of Southern States Cooperative's regional staff, reported on the over-all Southern States operations. This report also included a slide-tape presentation entitled "Southern States—The Growing Team," which pointed out how the cooperative is part of the farmer's "growing team" composed of both the co-op's employee force and each of its owner-members.

Over 2,000,000 U.S. farmers and ranchers use soil and water conservation practices.

Northeast Soil Conservation Districts Meet

James Schlossnagle, Garrett County Soil Conservation Service District conservationist, along with nearly 500 other representatives of soil and water conservation districts from the 12 northeast states, met in Hagerstown from August 12-15 to discuss ways to strengthen and expand the conservation team.

At the 1986 National Association of Conservation Districts Northeast Regional meeting, George S. Dunlop, assistant secretary of agriculture for natural resources and environment, told delegates that they and the private sector would have to assume a larger role in that team.

Speaking at the banquet, Dunlop said that the role of the federal government in the soil and water conservation program is being redefined. "Federal budget constraints are a given factor for the years ahead," he said. "Technical help to farmers on controlling erosion and conserving water will be strengthened," he predicted, "while financial help to individuals and local groups will be reduced."

This would occur at the same time the federal government is taking a tougher stand on soil erosion. He urged the delegates to do "some institution building for resource conservation management."

That includes tapping business and private foundations for talent, technology, and funds. He also urged them to continue to strengthen relations with traditional partners such as the U.S. Department of Agriculture, land grant universities, and state and local governments.

Dunlop said the conservation provisions of the 1985 Farm Bill requiring farmers to have a conservation plan if they farm highly erodible land and want to participate in federal farm programs will create a greater workload. The nearly 12 percent budget cut mandated for conservation programs by Graham-Rudmann will mean they'll have to carry out that work without additional funding, Dunlop said.

Peter Meyers, deputy secretary of the agriculture department, urged the officials to start now to educate farmers about the requirements of the sodbuster, swampbuster, and conservation compliance provisions of the Farm Bill.

But Clarence Durban, NACD

Oats-Alfalfa & Leafhoppers!

I have had several calls concerning the yellow appearance of the alfalfa after the small grain has been harvested. In almost all cases I have found a high population of the potato leafhopper on the alfalfa. This little insect can do a lot of serious damage to the alfalfa plant. Alfalfa will turn yellow and stop growing. What should you do? I would suggest that you spray to kill the leafhopper first. You may use Cygon, Lorsban, Furadan, Zenncap-M, Methoxychlor or Imidan. Read the label carefully. After the potato leafhopper is killed, clip the alfalfa high. This clipping will stimulate growth again. I would also suggest that you apply at least 100 lbs. of potash per acre. You will get a good response from the potash and it helps in preparing the plant for winter hardiness.

Tomatoes-Blossom End Rot

Did you know that Blossom End Rot of Tomatoes is not a disease? It is thought that this rot is caused by a calcium deficiency. Hot dry weather aggravates the problem. The calcium is not dissolved and carried by water up to the plant. One of the uses of calcium in the plant is construction of cell walls, so in the absence of calcium, new cells cannot be built in the areas of new tissue growth, thus blossom end rot occurs. Controls include adding lime to the soil and avoid overfertilization. During conditions favorable to blossom end rot, foliage sprays of calcium carbonate once or twice a week may be helpful.

Toll Free Telephone for Pesticide Effects

The National Pesticide Telecommunications Network (NTPN) is a toll free telephone service available to provide a variety of accurate, impartial information about pesticides to anyone in the United States. The service operates 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. NTPN provides the medical community health professional with:

- Pesticide product information
- Information on recognition and management of poisonings
- Toxicology and symptomatic reviews
- Referrals for: laboratory analysis, training in the recognition and investigation of poisonings, investigation of pesticide incidents, and emergency treatment information.

The general public is also provided pesticide information ranging from: product information, protective equipment, safety, health and environmental effects, clean-up procedures, disposal, regulatory laws, etc. The NTPN hotline number is 1-800-858-7378.

ASCS To Hold Referendum For Wool And Lamb

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will conduct a referendum August 18-29 for wool and lamb producers to vote for or against the continuation of a market promotion and improvement program between the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the American Sheep Producers Council, Inc. (ASPC).

Olin S. Davis Jr., chairperson of the Maryland State ASC Committee, said the agreement authorized USDA to withhold part of any wool incentive payment that might be made to producers on 1987, 1988, 1989, and 1990 marketings to finance the ASPC's activities.

"Deductions would be used by the council to finance advertising and sales promotion programs for wool and lamb, and programs to develop and disseminate information on product quality, production management and marketing improvement for wool and sheep," Davis said.

If producers approve the agreement, he added, up to six cents per pound on shorn wool marketings, and 30 cents per hundredweight on unshorn lambs would be deducted.

To participate in the referendum, producers must have owned sheep six months old or older for at least 30 consecutive days during 1985.

ASCS has distributed copies of the agreement and ballots to county wool producers. Those ballots may be returned by mail or in person to the county ASCS office.

U.S. sheep producers have approved the market promotion and improvement program in each of the eight referendums held since 1954.

Annual 4-H, FFA Livestock Sale Relies On Community Support

by Bernice Kepple

Editor's Note: Because of a major computer error last week, only half of the following story appeared in print. The same information is being used this week to complete the story along with additional information about the 1986 Livestock Sale at the Garrett County Fair.

Every 4-H and FFA member who raised a market animal as a project was looking forward to, but dreading the annual livestock sale which was held last Saturday night at the Garrett County Fair.

The sale was a learning experience for most, profitable for some, and a little bit sad for all the youth who had spent hours and hours feeding, brushing, trimming, and training the steers, lambs, or hogs in preparation for the sale.

Community support is always an important aspect of this annual livestock sale. Each year businesses and individuals who bid and buy these animals are presented a poster with a picture of the animal and owner which they may hang to advertise their support of the 4-H/FFA program and the livestock sale.

Former 4-H and FFA members who went through the program are among those staunch supporters. Andrew Fike, a former 4-H member who raised eight steers over the years, supports the livestock sale by buying a steer each year. "I wouldn't want to miss Saturday night at the fair," he says.

Andrew is the third generation of his family to support the program. His grandfather, Fred E. Beachy, has been a buyer for as long as the sale has existed; and his father, Rogers Fike, has been a buyer for years and years. Andrew says that it feels good to help these 4-H and FFA kids. "I went through the program for eight years and the community supported me," Andrew said. "Now it's my turn to offer some support."

Last year, Andrew was the high bidder on two steers. He donated one of those steers to Brenda's Body Shop; the other was donated to the Garrett County Livestock Association. That donation was a real boon to the association, which had been thinking of ways to make the sale safer for the sellers, the buyers, and the spectators.

The steer was sold at the end of the sale, and that money was used by the association to purchase portable gates which were used for the first time this year to guide the steers from the barns to the sale ring to prevent runaways and injuries.

Andrew feels that the purchase of the gates by the Livestock Association was a good decision. He remembers his last year in 4-H, when his steer went wild at the farm as he was being loaded. Through the efforts of his father, Andrew's steer was calmed enough to be hauled to the fair, but went crazy again when he was being taken to the scales to be weighed. That year, for the safety of all involved, Andrew's steer was sold without leaving the barn. He carried the animal's picture into the ring at the end of the sale, and the steer was auctioned off.

"The potential for danger was always there," said Andrew. He explained that because these animals are on display at the fair, many people, especially tourists, think they are pets. "You just don't pet a 1200-pound animal being led by a 10-year-old child," Andrew says.

He added that the open show ring is usually crowded and noisy, and is very close to the carnival rides and games. "The gates should help a lot," he said.

Many other staunch supporters have worked with the Livestock Association over the years, after being in the 4-H/FFA program themselves.

Joe Friend owned the first steer ever sold at the Garrett County Fair, and for the last 10 or 12 years has served as an auctioneer for the livestock sale on a volunteer basis. Friend's Stockyard has been a buyer over the years, and Joe has three sons who also came up through the ranks of the 4-H/FFA program, raising and selling steers.

Jim Schmidt also showed and sold steers as a 4-H member. He is now affiliated with 135 Meat Market, and his dad, Eugene, and uncle, Bob, play an important part in each year's sale by hauling, butchering, cutting and wrapping much of the livestock from the sale. Jim's daughter sold her second steer this year.

"Always there when we need him," is how one livestock association officer described Bobby Custer. Now on the Fair Board and superintendent in the beef barn, Bobby serves as ring man for the auction, after selling steers there when he was younger.

Community support for the livestock sale was very good this year. "We got everybody working," said LaVerna Evans, Livestock Association secretary/treasurer. "Everybody was out beating the brush for buyers, and it all seems to be falling together." Some of this year's buyers were from the Cumberland and Keyser, W.Va., areas. Mrs. Evans reported, with many new local buyers, too.

THE CHAMPION 4-H/FFA MARKET HOG at the Garrett County Fair was owned and sold by Jerry Buckel, the son of Philip and Sondra Buckel. The Duroc-Yorkshire-Landrace cross weighed 225 pounds and brought $2 per pound when the bidding was over at the Livestock Sale Saturday night. The hog was purchased by Allen Murlin and Dr. Earl Williams, both of New Creek, W. Va. Pictured above, left to right, are: Jerry Buckel and his champion hog, Garrett County Farm Queen Jodi Rush, Allen Murlin and Dr. Earl Williams.

Adding to the professionalism of this year's sale was the fact that all the volunteers who worked as ring men and announcer were also auctioneers. The ring men were: Bobby Custer, Joe Friend Jr., and Ellsworth Yoder; with Leonard Custer announcing.

Joe Friend again auctioned the steers, and a new man to the sale, John Spiker, auctioned the lambs and hogs. Spiker, who is a co-owner of the Grantsville Livestock Auction, is a veterinarian and an auctioneer who travels nationwide auctioning cattle. "He really put the spirit in that sale," was a comment from one Livestock Association member.

Jim Glatfely and Sharan Wright served as clerks for the sale, all of these people volunteering their time.

Average prices were high this year (see separate story), and 28 of the buyers donated the animal to some community group or charitable organization. Sale officials hope that the success of this sale won't make next year's sellers lethargic and indifferent. They say the time to "start beating the brush" for buyers is now, and thank you notes to this year's buyers is a good way to begin.

For most of the sellers the tears are dry, the money is counted (and in many cases spent), and thoughts are al-

Sheriff's Office Reports Incidents

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department this week reported several theft incidents which occurred in the area recently.

A breaking and entering theft which occurred sometime between July 25 and August 15 was reported by Roger Shaffer.

Swanton.

According to reports filed by the department, someone entered Shaffer's house trailer on the New Germany Road while he and his family were away. Stolen items included a VCR and several tapes, valued at $425.

An electric motor was stolen from the boat of Charles Hardesty, Swanton. Total loss reached $150.

The department investigated a destruction of property incident which occurred near Friendsville between August 9 and 11.

According to reports, someone entered the vacant residence of Ray E. Elder by breaking a window in the front entrance door. Nothing appeared to be stolen, and damages were valued at $40. The investigation is continuing.

Leitzel, a French teacher at Southern High School, received a master of arts degree in French.

St. Paul's Church Notes Performers For Homecoming

The complete list of performers for the Sunday afternoon program at St. Paul's United Methodist Church homecoming in Oakland was released this week by a member of the homecoming committee. The homecoming is slated for this Saturday and Sunday, August 23 and 24.

Scheduled to perform during the 2-4 p.m. program at the church are: Dr. David Sheets on the organ, Tim DeWitt on the trumpet and other musical instruments, Richard Morris, Ethel Ray Snyder, Earl Clark, Dorothy Leighton, vocal soloists; and Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Leighton, vocal duet. Church choir members will also perform. All are members or former members of St. Paul's. The Crellin Assembly of God orchestra and quartet will also be performing.

The spokesman also noted that any former pastors who attend will also be given a few minutes to speak.

A reception is slated for Saturday evening from 7-9 p.m. Former local pastors, Dr. Lawrence Sherwood and Dr. Charles Godwin, will be the guest ministers at Sunday's morning worship services. A covered dish dinner will be held at noon on Sunday.

Asthma, Allergy Group Advises On Fall Allergies

Labor Day weekend is the traditional time for the most pollen in Maryland, when people with hay fever have the greatest opportunity to encounter it by spending the last of the summer season out of doors. Ragweed pollen arrived in the middle of August as usual this year, even though the spring and summer drought in Maryland stunted the growth not only of crops, but also weeds and grasses.

According to the Maryland Chapter of the Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America, ragweed plants are hardy and manage to produce some pollen, even in poor growing seasons. For those who must be outdoors, antihistamines and antihistamine-decongestant combinations available over the counter will help, but rarely prevent symptoms entirely. In the past year, physicians have a new weapon in the form of an antihistamine, which doesn't cause the drowsiness usual with antihistamines up to now. The Foundation Chapter points out that this new drug, Terfenadine, is available only on prescription from physicians. Doctors can also prescribe nasal sprays containing drugs which act to prevent symptoms.

Those who suffer severely this year can, in most cases, prevent 75% or better of the problem next year by seeking out a specialist in allergy who will identify the causes of the allergy and prepare injections of the appropriate pollen extracts for a physician's office to administer some months in preparation for the next season. The Maryland Chapter of AAFAP maintains a list of qualified specialists in allergy and a phone call to 301-532-4135 will obtain the name and address of a specialist in any area in the State.

The fall allergy season may be expected to last well into October. As the ragweed wanes, spores of various molds and fungi also begin to appear and many are sensitive to these as well as ragweed. This is the season of greatest likelihood of allergic asthma, according to experts. Such asthma often results in time lost from work or school and needs treatment by a physician to head off severe trouble. Some of the same drugs and treatments used for hay fever are successful in asthma. Again, recently developed prescription drugs can rapidly open the airways of asthma patients.

THESE DIABOLIC DEMOLITION DERBY DEMONS played before a packed crowd last Monday night at the Garrett County Fair. In each of the four classes there were two winners, the class winner, who received a $50 prize, and the fans' choice, who won a $25 prize. In Class I, Gary Beachy was the class winner, and Jamie Friend was the fans' choice. Bob Klotz won Class II, with Roger Pennington the fans' choice. In Class III, Bob Beitzel was the winner, and Brent Fratz was the fans' choice. The Class IV winners were Dewayne Fratz, and the fans' choice Lyle Rexrode. ## Ms. Hauser Earns CDA Designation

The National Dental Assisting Board has announced Linda G. Hauser, Oakland, can now add the professional designation, CDA, after her name. The letters denote her new status as a certified dental assistant, which was awarded to her on August 1 after she had passed a rigorous examination.

Since the CDA program was established in 1948 some 100,000 dental assistants have been certified. The dental assisting national board designs and administers the test which gauges the working knowledge of the candidate.

In addition to passing the test, consisting of some 300 questions, a candidate must meet certain eligibility requirements of education and experience, dependent on which certification he or she desires. The board offers certification not only for general chairside competence, but also for mastery of management skills and in the techniques of surgical assisting.

As a certified dental assistant, she has demonstrated command of a number of subjects such as prevention of disease transmission, materials, prevention and management of emergencies and radiation health and safety. A variety of general chairside procedures to assist the dentist in providing patient care has been mastered by Ms. Hauser.

Ms. Hauser resides along Monte Vista Road with her husband, Jack, and two sons, Jarrod and Jamie. She is employed as an assistant to Dr. G. Fred Hazelwood, Oak St., Oakland.

Sponsors Bill To Set Appliance Energy Savings

Senator Paul Sarbanes (D.Md.) has joined in sponsoring a bipartisan measure which would set national energy efficiency standards for major home appliances. The adoption of the measure could, according to industry and environmental experts, result in savings of up to $300 in each household.

"Energy conservation is a powerful tool for energy security, economic efficiency, and environmental protection," Sarbanes said in joining in sponsoring the National Appliance Energy Efficiency Act. "It must not be abandoned in these times of relatively cheap oil. The national standards provided in the bill will ensure savings to consumers on their energy bills. Efficiency standards will reduce the need for new expensive electricity generation facilities and thus lessen the negative environmental impact of such generation. And the reasonable but effective standards in the bill will permit manufacturers to produce energy-saving appliances more efficiently than would separate state standards."

Energy Efficiency Act provides for national efficiency standards for major home appliances, including hot water heaters, air conditioners, furnaces, dishwashers, ovens, refrigerators, freezers, clothes washers and dryers. Appliances account for about one-third of the nation's energy consumption. Senator Sarbanes pointed out that "consumers, utility ratepayers, and manufacturers alike will benefit from this legislation. The bill represents a consensus among manufacturers, environmental and conservation groups, and regulators and is the culmination of many years of debate on the issue."

The appliance energy efficiency legislation is expected to result in net savings of $28 billion, as well as encourage American manufacturers to develop efficient appliances to compete with foreign manufacturers. The legislation was introduced by Senator Sarbanes, Senator Daniel Evans (R. Wash.) and a bipartisan group of senators.

Rabies Currently Affecting More Cats Than Dogs

Cats—not dogs—are now the biggest reservoir for domestic animal rabies, according to a scientist at The Johns Hopkins School of Public Health.

"The largest rabies problem occurs among cats bitten by rabid raccoons or skunks," says Harvey R. Fischman, DVM, associate professor of epidemiology. "Cats roam more than dogs and their owners tend not to immunize them." All mammalian pets should be vaccinated, he adds.

Although cases of rabies in Maryland and Washington, D.C., have declined from more than 1,000 in 1984 to less than 500 in 1985 so far, the disease continues to be an epidemic throughout the Mid-Atlantic region for pets and their owners. More than 5,500 cases of rabid animals were reported in the United States last year, according to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC). As of July 10, 2,666 cases have been reported nationally for 1986, "a small increase of 125 cases compared to last year," according to Daniel B. Fishbein, M.D., of the CDC.

"Rabies is not like a hurricane, suddenly here and then gone," Fischman says. "Rather the disease comes, becomes an epidemic and then slows, remaining in the background."

The current raccoon rabies wave is an extension of the raccoon rabies epidemic in the Southeastern states and came to Maryland from a point on the Virginia/West Virginia border. The epidemic has yet to reach the Eastern Shore because the Chesapeake Bay serves as a natural barrier, Fischman says. As rabies spread from Maryland, cases have increased in Pennsylvania. Fischman expects cases eventually will begin to appear in Delaware and on the Eastern Shore as diseased animals migrate.

In Maryland, raccoons are the most common wild animal carrier although skunks, foxes and cats have been found with the disease. As of August 1, only one case of dog rabies has been reported in Maryland. Scientists believe the disease is spread among raccoons, and among other wild animals, when they bite each other.

Elsewhere in the United States, rabid skunks have spread the disease in the Midwest, Texas and Minnesota. Cases also have been reported in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

Scientists and members of health departments of Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Washington, D.C. and West Virginia recently met with Fischman to discuss the extent of the disease in different areas and to share problems and methods of control.

Participants discussed baiting food with oral vaccine as one way to immunize animals in the wild. Although experimental, this method has been useful for immunization of foxes in Europe.

Mathias Supports Limits On PAC Contributions

Despite misgivings about legislation to limit contributions by political action committees (PAC) to candidates for Congress, Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-MD) supported a measure introduced by Senator David L. Boren (D-OK) which was passed by the Senate in a 69 to 30 vote last week.

The Boren amendment would limit PAC contributions to $100,000 for congressional races and from $175,000 to $750,000 for Senate races, depending on the state's population. The measure also would raise the limit of personal donations from $1000 to $1500.

"It is important that we take steps to make the outcome of federal elections less dependent on raising the massive amounts of money that seem to be critical to successful Senate races," Mathias told his colleagues. "There is growing recognition in this country and in the Congress that our campaign finance system has to be improved if we are to assure the continued vitality of the American system of government."

However, Mathias doubted that simply limiting PAC contributions will reduce campaign expenditures and that the Boren Amendment will merely "put a slightly better public relations face on the way in which campaigns are financed." The solution, he said, is the public financing of elections based on the system used for presidential elections, a measure which Mathias sponsored last fall.

"Ultimately, I believe the Congress must come to the conclusion that the problem of money in campaigns will not be solved until we find a way to limit massive campaign expenditures," he explained. "And the only means the Supreme Court has left us to do that is through a system of public finance."

Homecoming Set For This Sunday At Rush Baptist

Rush Baptist Church will be having its annual Homecoming this Sunday, August 24, at the church. A covered dish picnic will begin around 1:00 p.m.

Special events for the day will include a craft and hobby table, and a table about "My Church—Past, Present and Future." This table will display pictures and items of interest about Rush Baptist Church. Games are also being planned for all ages, such as jumping rope, three-legged sack races, water balloons, horseshoes, volleyball, and others.

The next tree expert exam is scheduled for Wednesday, September 10, in Annapolis at the State Treasury Building. Applications must be received by the Forest, Park and Wildlife Service by August 29.

STAR STYLE

Actor is not 'Restless' about staying healthy

By Renee Ross

Eric Braeden works up a sport-sweat when he exercises. The actor, who stars as suave Victor Newman on the CBS soap, "The Young and the Restless," plays soccer and tennis, skis, jogs and boxes.

Eric Braeden

"I've been physically active all my life," says the German-born actor, who also appeared on the 60s ABC series "The Rat Patrol."

He's also worked as a real-life cowboy, and was one of the first of two adventurers to survive a grueling round-trip boat voyage on Idaho's treacherous Salmon River. His exciting exploits were made into a documentary, "The Riverbushers."

"Being active is second nature to me. By now, I pretty much know what I'm doing when it comes to staying fit," says Braeden, 42. "I have a gym in my home, and use free weights combined with sports such as tennis and boxing. It's more fun to do something different every time you work out."

"Over-exercising seems to me a form of addiction," he adds. "Once you get in shape, you usually don't need to overdo it. Now, for instance, I can do my whole exercise routine in half an hour."

Staying in shape offers more than just physical satisfaction, the actor says. "Exercise has always been relaxing and therapeutic for me. That's why I do it. By now the physiological and psychological benefits of exercise are well known. It helps you relax, strengthens the heart and lungs, and provides an overall positive feeling."

Braeden believes in sound eating habits. "I try to adhere to a healthy diet and stay away from obvious things that are bad for you, like cholesterol-laden foods and meat," he explains. "I eat a lot of fruit and vegetables, but I do love chocolate — it's my downfall."

"People sometimes think that actors lead charmed lives. But we go through difficult times," says the 6-foot-1, 185-pound actor. "In a sense, acting is therapeutic because it takes your mind off yourself. I have no magic formula for happiness. I try to muddle through like everyone else. I'm sort of positive and optimistic," he adds. "That helps me get out of difficult times when they happen in my life."

SUNDAY

Nobody does it better than Roger Moore. The actor stars as witty secret agent James Bond in "The Spy Who Loved Me," the 1977 film airing Sunday, Aug. 24 on ABC. Barbara Bach co-stars as a seductive Soviet spy.

Kate has an age-old problem: growing old

By Cindy Adams

An exasperated Katharine Hepburn on her refusal to see any of her films. When I see my old pictures like "Morning Glory," which I made more than a half-century ago, I look at that young girl on the screen and say, "My, she's so pretty and so talented!" But I don't have any connection with her, says the 76-year-old, four-time Oscar-winning Kate the Great. "That girl isn't me at all. I stopped going to see my films when I began to watch what was bad about my face, my neck, my body and my voice. I don't like to look at myself in that sort of decay."

Victoria Principal sold a self-penned story, "Scandal Kills," to CBS. The actress will serve as the two-hour film's executive producer.

Dudley Moore has bought into 72 Market Street, a San Francisco restaurant. "I want a spot to play piano," he says. Minutes ago, John Saxon was playing juvenile roles. Next season he'll play Lorenzo Lamas' daddy on "Falcon Crest."

George Segal stars as Det. John Grafton and Shelley Hack stars as a woman he befriends in "Trackdown: Finding the Goodbar Killer," a made-for-TV movie airing Sunday, Aug. 24 on CBS.

All about the world of Farley Granger

By Kimberly Redmond

I have enjoyed Farley Granger's work for many years, and am pleased that he's now on "As the World Turns." What can you tell me about him? — E.O., Clearwater, Fla.

I'm positive that Gregg Marx, the actor who portrays Tom Hughes on "As the World Turns," was once on another soap. Can you tell me what role he played and on what show? — D.C., Lewiston, Maine.

Marx appeared as David Banning on "Days of Our Lives" from 1981 through 1983. He joined "ATWT" in 1984.

Granger's acting career has spanned film, television and the Broadway stage. He made his film debut in "The North Star" (1943) and also appeared in the Hitchcock classics "Rope" (1948) and "Strangers on a Train" (1951). Prior to joining the CBS soap, Granger appeared in the Broadway thriller "Deathtrap." He has also starred in Broadway productions of "The Glass Menagerie" and "A Month in the Country." On television, the actor starred in numerous live anthologies, including "The U.S. Steel Hour" and "Studio

Celebs recall genius of Vincente Minnelli

By Wayne Miller

Vincente Minnelli had a lust for life. The prolific director was as much an artist as film maker. He used color in the same way as Van Gogh did. He infused his celluloid canvases with vibrant hues and tones that haunted audiences long after the demise of the last frame. This was the Minnelli trademark, and it was realized whether he was working in color — "Meet Me in St. Louis" (1944), "The Pirate" (1948), "An American in Paris" (1951), "The Band Wagon" (1953), "Gigi" (1958) — or in black-and-white (the taut 1945 drama "The Clock").

He spoke with several celebrities and asked about the impact Minnelli had on their careers. "I was a long time director," says Leslie Caron, star of "American in Paris" and "Gigi." "He was a patient teacher, a talented man and a superb director. I am happy he was my friend."

"Vincente 'Marvelous' Wit-ty! The man who helped convince me I was good," muses Lana Turner, who worked with the director in the 1952 film "The Bad and the Beautiful."

But Liza Minnelli has the most personal memories. (Vince Minnelli married Liza's mother, Judy Garland, in 1945. They divorced six years later.) "Mama left me her guts and integrity," recalls the singer. "But Daddy spoiled me rotten with love. He always treated me like a lady, and he always trusted me. To do that to a little girl is the most valuable thing a father could ever do."

And though the Oscar-winning director had not worked since 1976 — his last film the disastrous "A Matter of Time," was the only time he worked with his daughter Liza. Vincente Minnelli will always be ranked as one of Hollywood's greatest stylists. Earlier this month, Minnelli died, at age 86, after a long illness.

There were only three real geniuses in the world — Buster Keaton, Charlie Chaplin and Vincente Minnelli," says Lucille Ball, who, along with her then-husband Desi Arnaz, was directed by Minnelli in the 1954 comedy "The Long, Long Trailer."

"Vincente was a charming gifted man who had an amazing eye," says Leslie Caron, star of "American in Paris" and "Gigi." "He was a patient teacher, a talented man and a superb director. I am happy he was my friend."

Gil Gerard returns with weekly series

By Ian Harner

Gil Gerard has learned the hard way. Have your TV series canceled, fail to reappear on the small screen within two seasons, and Hollywood considers you retired — or dead.

Gil Gerard

But in the three months following the demise of his adventure series "Buck Rogers in the 25th Century," Gerard earned more money than he would have with another season of the NBC show.

The actor pulled this off by deftly switching to the production end of the business. Now, five years after "Buck Rogers" went off the air, Gerard is about to deliver his sixth TV movie to CBS. He also has wife Connie Sellecca ("Hotel") to thank for the fact that he'll be making his acting comeback in "Sidekicks," a new fall series created by the revitalized TV arm of the Disney Studios.

I didn't much like the second season of "Buck Rogers," and it was almost a relief when the network didn't pick us up again," Gerard says.

But actors are insecure people, and I listened to everyone who told me I'd better get another series. Fast! If I hadn't had my production company to keep me busy, I might have worried that I was never going to work again, but after a while, he adds, "I was having such a good time on the other side of the camera that I almost stopped looking for a new show."

For Gerard, almost meant glancing half-heartedly at scripts that came his way, and then tossing them aside to concentrate on other things. He was on his way to Arkansas to spend a week fishing with his five-year-old son Gib, when his wife phoned with the news that the script for the "Sidekicks" pilot was on its way.

"Connie knew I never let anything get in the way of my little outings with Gib," the actor explains, and she didn't want me to give the script short shrift, because she thought it was perfect for me. And she was right. Gib and I didn't get to go fishing until we had flown back to L.A. so I could shoot the TV movie that got us picked up as a series.

"I'm happy to be acting again," Gerard adds, "and money doesn't have anything to do with it. For a while, I had a deal with a major studio which paid me an incredible sum to sit around doing nothing. I hated that."

BEHIND THE SCENES

Greene speaks up for animal rights

By Frank Lovece

He is, perhaps, the most dignified gentleman you could ever meet. Lorne Greene, who went from being Canada's Walter Cronkite to America's Ben Cartwright, still retains even at age 71 — the fatherly charisma that has always served him well.

Lorne Greene

Greene, the patriarch of the "Bonanza," Ponderosa Ranch for 14 years, has yet to ride off into the sunset. Aside from appearing in two long-running TV commercial series that have kept him highly visible, Greene is the producer and host of the syndicated nature program "New Wilderness."

The four-year-old show is less a documentary series than it is the visual equivalent of non-fiction essays — sometimes dramatic, sometimes comical and sometimes as in shows about animal slaughter, horrifying.

"I wanted to do a wildlife series that is not a teaching show," says Greene. "I wanted it to be a dramatic show where people get the facts and develop ideas through osmosis."

Yet while "New Wilderness" is unlike the nature series, Greene's show is a far cry from some early wildlife series that exploited animals by placing, for instance, a predator and its prey together in a controlled environment, then filming the kill.

Greene is, in fact, well known for his outspoken stand on animal rights. Since 1972, he's worked with the American Humane Protection Association to help guard the nation's imperiled wild horses.

The law decrees that wild horses are heritage animals, like the eagle and the bison, and are not to be hunted or destroyed, but allowed to graze on federal wilderness areas, explains Greene, in his trademark voice. "Yet cattle ranchers, who lease grazing rights from the government, don't want the horses coming onto the land and feeding on the grass. Some of them organize hunting parties who shoot the horses, run them over cliffs or into boxed canyons where they roll huge rocks onto them. The association's investigators have taken pictures of 400 to 500 horses in huge trenches, shot to death."

The law mandates that the government protect these wild horses. Greene continues, anger creeping into his voice.

"Yet the AHFA will win a court case, and then to the department of the Interior will do whatever it wishes and we'll have to go to court again."

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

I'm confused! Was "The Honeymooners" part of the original "Jackie Gleason Show"? — C.C., Pentwater, Mich.

Jackie Gleason

"The Honeymooners" debuted as a sketch within the 1951 DuMont series "Cavalcade of Stars." Jackie Gleason played Ralph Kramden, Art Carney played Ed Norton and Pert Kelton originated the role of Kramden's wife, Alice. When the half-hour show moved to CBS in 1955, only 39 original episodes were filmed. Audrey Meadows replaced Kelton and Joyce Randolph portrayed Norton's wife, Trixie. The series, which was not considered a success when it first aired because of strong competition from "The Perry Como Show," ran as one-hour episodes of Gleason's then variety series. This time, Sheila MacRae played Alice and Jane Kean portrayed Trixie. Today, reruns of the series still air.

Who doesn't Karen Carpenter record anymore? I miss her voice! — W.L.S., New York, N.Y.

The singer, whose voice was once described as "liquid velvet," died of cardiac arrest on Feb. 4, 1983. She was 32 years old.

WEDNESDAY

This is a film that's small on laughs. "Under the Rainbow," starring Carrie Fisher, Chevy Chase and a bevy of midgets, turned out to be one of 1981's biggest busts. The clunker airs Wednesday, Aug. 27 on CBS.

State Business Assistance Center Expands Services

The Maryland Business Assistance Center inaugurated on Monday a new fully-automatic, toll-free, statewide audio library service for Maryland businesses.

The audio library consists of ten telephone messages averaging three minutes each which are designed to answer the most frequently asked questions regarding business expansion. The service is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week and is fully automatic when using a Touchtone telephone. Operator assistance is available during business hours for rotary dial callers.

The Maryland Business Assistance Center is an agency of the Department of Economic and Community Development.

"The Business Assistance Center was created to provide businesses with a central point of contact and immediate professional response," DECD Secretary Thomas H. Maddux stated.

"The audio library offers an innovative method for reaching prospective and existing Maryland businesses," he added.

Topics of the messages include information on estimating start-up costs for a business, the pros and cons of franchises, employee training programs, business financing programs, state Enterprise Zone, obtaining new contracts, and selling to the government and the military.

To use the audio library, callers should dial 1-800-645-6245 and then enter the Message Identification Number of the message they want to hear. A directory of the topics and their respective Message Identification Numbers is available by writing to Audio Information Service, Maryland Business Assistance Center, 46 Calvert Street, Annapolis, MD 21401, or by calling 1-800-OK-GREEN.

Communications Privacy Bill Earns Approval

The Judiciary Subcommittee on Patents, Copyrights and Trademarks, of which Senator Mathias (R-MD) is chairman, has approved legislation to ensure privacy rights for individuals using new forms of electronic communications, including cellular telephones, direct computer-to-computer links, and electronic mail.

"The marriage of high technology with privacy is not an easy task to accomplish," Mathias said, adding that the subcommittee has performed a "herculean labor" in refining the bill, which Mathias first introduced with Senator Patrick Leahy (D-VT) in September 1985. The mark-up focused on an amended version of the bill approved by the House of Representatives and endorsed by the Justice Department.

The bill imposes civil and criminal penalties on individuals who intercept an electronic communication or access a computer to obtain private electronic communication without authorization. It also requires law enforcement officers to obtain a warrant or court order to tap wires or obtain information in a private electronic communication.

The bill contains several new technical amendments, including the following:

- A provision suggested by the Federal Communications Commission to prevent malicious or deliberate interference with satellite transmissions. This amendment was prompted by an April incident in which a Florida satellite salesman, "Captain Midnight," superimposed a message for four-and-a-half minutes over a Home Box Office program;

- An addition to current wiretap law providing procedural guidelines to use "trap and trace" telephone devices which track the phone numbers of incoming calls.

"Congress has a responsibility to keep our privacy laws on a par with the explosive growth of information

FOOD

PRESERVATION TIP

During storage of canned goods, the ringband on jars serves no purpose since the vacuum inside the jar and the outside air pressure keep the lid on. To prevent the ringband from becoming corroded or stuck, remove the ringbands before you store the jars. Then, if the lids become loose, it may well be an indication that the product underwent spoilage, swelled and broke the seal of the lid. A loose lid is an indication that the product is unsafe to eat.

Something To Think About

R. Mark Durst

SHOULD THE BODY BE VIEWED?

Some people have strong views on this question and these should be respected. Others have no firm commitment one way or the other, and would answer such a question on the basis of circumstances. For these people, we would offer the following advice, based on many years of experience.

If the body can be made viewable, it should be viewable. It serves a number of very helpful and constructive purposes. In cases where the decedent has been living away from home, or confined to a distant medical institution, viewing can provide the confirmation that death has occurred.

It provides a way to recall the loved one as he or she should be remembered—free of the evidence of pain, wasting, or injury. Viewing is likewise considered therapeutic for people. It is especially helpful for a child who has experienced the death of one loved. Instead of relying on imagination, the child can begin to comprehend the real meaning of death.

Tax collections for the month of July were the highest ever collected in one month, according to figures released by Garrett County Treasurer Arzella Parsons. The total collected was $4,307,336.99.

Real estate taxes collected accounted for $2,776,183.48 of the total while personal property taxes were $1,300.67 and ordinary business taxes tallied $226,763.25.

Prior years' taxes amounted to $3,349.91 and state taxes totaled $295,387.75. Sanitary district taxes brought in $68,460.24 and transfer taxes tallied $1,793.44. Trailer court taxes were $2,198.54.

Coal tonnage taxes added

$20,866.47 to the budget while beer taxes added $10,000. Accounts receivable totaled $234,023.62. Income collected from other sources tallied $320,851.43. A total of $274,841.81 was allowed in discounts and credits.

The largest taxpayer this month was Texas Eastern Corporation which paid $730,000.

Cancer Society Prevention Study Follow-Up Stated

The American Cancer Society's Cancer Prevention Study II (CPS II) is the largest prospective epidemiologic study to be conducted in the United States to date. The study, which was launched in 1982, is examining the habits and exposures of more than one million Americans to learn how lifestyles and environmental factors affect the development of cancer. The second follow-up phase of the study will begin on September 1, according to the Society.

Almost 29,000 Maryland residents are enrolled in the study. During the first follow-up in 1984 American Cancer Society volunteer researchers were able to locate more than 98 percent of these participants in order to correct names and addresses and record deaths that had occurred since the initial questionnaires were completed.

During the initial phase of the study, volunteer researchers distributed a four-page confidential questionnaire to participants who were asked about their exposures to certain environmental conditions, their history of disease and their lifestyles. The questionnaires were designed to elicit more than 500 bits of information each. This information was computerized for statistical analysis.

Many of the questions focus on health issues of current concern. These include risks of certain drugs, foods and various occupational exposures; low-tar and nicotine cigarettes; consumer products; long-term exposure to low-level radiation; and the health effects associated with air and water pollution.

The goal of the study is to identify those factors that increase a person's chances of developing cancer, those that carry little or no risk and those that actually may help prevent cancer.

The American Cancer Society's first Cancer Prevention Study (CPS I), which was begun in 1959, resulted in important findings about health and disease. Study data provided overwhelming evidence that cigarette smoking is a major cause of lung cancer and an important factor in other cancers.

Since the first study, new factors in the environment have been identified that may be related to cancer. The American Cancer Society decided to initiate this second study to respond to the concerns of the public and the scientific community about suspected carcinogens.

The American Cancer Society is able to make several analyses from the preliminary data gathered during CPS II. Most of these analyses relate to changes in the smoking patterns of Americans. The study shows that 24 percent of men are smokers, which is half the percentage of male smokers in the early study. More than twice as many men are ex-smokers, as compared to the results of CPS I.

Among female smokers, the proportion of those who ever smoked rose by 10 percent and that of ex-smokers quadrupled. There was a decided shift to low-tar cigarettes. More than one-third of all male smokers and one-half of all female smokers smoked brands with tar yields less than 12 mg.

There is a great deal of interest in the smoking habits of physicians and other health professionals, since they serve as role models for the rest of the population, the Society noted. Analysis of the data collected from CPS II shows cigarette smoking is now down to 16 percent in physicians and 23 percent in nurses.

CPS II is being conducted by more than 77,000 American Cancer Society volunteers nationwide. Without these volunteer researchers, the study would cost more than $100 million. Thanks to these volunteer researchers, CPS II will cost only about $9 million to complete.

Second-Quarter Home Resales Up In Maryland

Home resale activity in Maryland during the second quarter this year was 15.3 percent higher than in the second quarter last year, the Maryland Association of Realtors* reports.

On a seasonally adjusted annual basis, home resales in Maryland (including existing single-family homes, apartment condominium units and cooperative units) rose to 85,000 units during the second quarter, compared with 73,700 units during the same three-month period in 1985.

Home resales in Maryland achieved the following seasonally adjusted annual rates during the previous three quarters: First quarter 1986, 72,700 units; fourth quarter 1985, 87,400 units; and third quarter 1985, 91,900 units.

Nationwide, resale activity for single-family homes, apartment condominiums and cooperatives rose 14.5 percent from the second quarter of 1985 to the second quarter of 1986 to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 3.78 million units.

"With mortgage interest rates at a seven-year low, housing affordability conditions for many buyers are better than they have been at any time during this decade," said Hammond S. "Skip" Carr, Maryland Association of Realtors* president.

Carr noted that the average nationwide effective closing rate including points for conventional fixed-rate mortgages was 10.41 percent in 1986's second quarter, and it was 9.72 percent for conventional adjustable-rate mortgages.

The annual rate of a particular quarter represents what the total number of actual sales for a year would be if the relative sales pace in that quarter were maintained for four consecutive quarters.

Seasonally adjusted annual rates are used in reporting monthly and quarterly data to factor out seasonal variations in resale activity. For example, home sales volume normally is higher in the summer and relatively light in winter months, primarily because of differences in the weather.

New Bay Research Lab To Be Named For Sen. Mathias

The Senate Rules Committee has unanimously approved legislation to authorize $1 million to the Smithsonian Institution to construct a new laboratory for environmental research named for Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-MD).

The new facility will be located at the Smithsonian Environmental Research Center at Edgewater. Mathias, who was unaware of the proposal until it was made, said that he was "surprised" and "astounded" by the committee action.

Senator John W. Warner (R-VA), who together with Senator Wendell H. Ford (D-KY) initiated the legislation, told his colleagues, "I would like to point out that no other senator has done as much to protect the Chesapeake Bay, the world's foremost estuary. Through his efforts, and with the support of his colleagues, Senator Mathias has focused nationwide attention on the value of this incredible resource."

"Through those efforts, he has brought needed federal attention and resources to the Bay, setting the stage for an unprecedented multi-state commitment to preserving the Chesapeake Bay," noted Warner.

The Smithsonian's Center at Edgewater is conducting a long-term, multi-disciplinary study of pollution problems of a tidal river tributary to the Bay and its drainage basin.

The Mathias Laboratory at Edgewater will include eight laboratory suites, a computer facility, a green house and controlled plant growth facility, and administrative offices.

Research to be conducted at the new facility will be in the areas of plant physiology, environmental engineering, including forest productivity and the effects of air pollution on forests near the shore of the Chesapeake Bay, and a visiting scientist laboratory to provide space for scientists conducting studies for up to three years on watershed hydrology and estuarine tidal mixing.

Sarbanes Elected Vice-Chairman Of Impeachment Comm.

Senator Paul Sarbanes (D-MD) has been elected vice chairman of a committee of 12 senators which will receive and report on evidence concerning the impeachment of Harry E. Claiborne, a Federal judge against whom the House of Representatives has voted four Articles of Impeachment. The Senate's trial of Judge Claiborne is scheduled to begin next month.

Sarbanes was among those

Senators appointed by the Vice President, on the recommendation of Senator Robert Byrd (D-WV) the Democratic Leader, to serve on the committee which will receive evidence, take testimony and report to the Senate concerning the evidence received. The committee will meet in the Senate Caucus Room of the Russell Senate Office Building, which was also the location of the Senate hearings into the Watergate events.

In 1974, while serving in the House of Representatives, Sarbanes was a member of the Judiciary Committee which considered the impeachment of then-President Richard M. Nixon. During that inquiry Sarbanes was chosen to introduce the First Article of Impeachment, which charged the President with obstructing justice during the Watergate break-in and coverup. President Nixon resigned his office after the Committee adopted the Sarbanes article but before the full House voted on impeachment.

Under the Constitution, the Senate tries cases of Impeachment (removal from office) of Federal officials after the House of Representatives votes charges. Officials may be removed from office and prohibited from holding any further Federal office by a two-thirds vote of the Senate.

GCC Offering Fall Courses On Microcomputers

Garrett Community College is now offering a "hands on" learning approach with their various computer and word processor programs, according to a spokesman from the college.

"How to use the personal or microcomputer and related programs to meet personal and/or business needs is the focus of several new microcomputer courses recently introduced at GCC," said the spokesman.

GCC's courses provide the opportunity to gain the knowledge and skills needed by operating a microcomputer using a variety of different programs in a classroom setting under the direction and guidance of an instructor.

"Through this approach," the spokesman noted, "an individual will not only learn how to operate the equipment but will also be taught how to use popular computer programs to meet specific needs."

Those with little or no knowledge of a microcomputer are instructed to begin with BUS-180 which includes the use of the MS-DOS operating system.

The appropriate course for those interested in letter or report writing, term papers or other documentation preparation is BUS-181, which uses the Word Star program.

The electronic spread sheet course (BUS-182) provides knowledge and skills needed to utilize Lotus 1-2-3 and spread sheet programs in general.

BUS-184, a data base course, will incorporate the use of the software, including Base III Plus.

The microcomputer course offered this fall is scheduled during day and evening hours. Those desiring further information in the courses or class schedules may call 387-6666.

Judge Turney Hears Cases In District Court

Numerous cases were heard by Garrett County District Court Judge Jack Turney over the past week.

In one case, Ronald W. Beckman Jr., 19, Oakland, was found to be guilty of a theft charge and sentenced to three years in the Garrett County Jail. The judge suspended 30 months of the sentence and placed Beckman on three years supervised probation.

The charge was filed by Tfc. Jon B. Dudlak, Maryland State Police, following a May 12 incident involving the theft of a Plymouth pickup truck owned by Virgil T. Steyer.

Beckman's attorney was John K. Toston.

In another case, the judge sentenced Keith A. House, 19, Friendsville, to 18 months in the Garrett County Jail for a theft charge. He then suspended 15 months of the sentence, placing him on 36 months supervised probation.

House had been found to be guilty of the charge in an earlier trial, and the judge ordered a pre-sentence investigation. A charge of breaking and stealing was nolle prosequi.

The charges were filed by Tpr. Michael S. Hegedus, Maryland State Police, after the May 8 theft at the Friendsville Toy

Kenneth W. Titchenell, 20, Friendsville, was sentenced to 18 months in the Garrett County Jail for each of three counts of theft. The judge then suspended 12 months of each sentence, placing him on 24 months supervised probation. The three sentences will run concurrently.

Titchenell had been found to be guilty of the charge in an earlier trial, and the judge had ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

The charges were filed by State Police Sgt. Robert E. Friend after an incident at the Mill Run Camping Area near Friendsville.

Titchenell was represented by Toston.

Judge Turney sentenced Thomas Koten, 35, Deer Park, to 18 months in the Garrett County Jail for a battery charge. The sentence was then suspended, and Koten was fined $50.

Koten had been found guilty of the charge during an earlier trial, and the judge had ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

The charge was filed by Barbara A. Moats, Deer Park, after an April 27 incident there.

Koten was represented by Toston.

The judge ordered probation before judgment for Luther C. Beachy, 82, Grantsville, for a charge of battery filed by Robert C. Speicher, also of Grantsville. Beachy's attorney was John C. Sullivan.

MASKING TINNITUS

People with hearing problems sometimes also have a ringing, buzzing or whistling noise in one or both ears. Approximately 37 million Americans suffer from some degree of tinnitus. For more than 7 million, the problem is severe enough to disturb their concentration or their sleep or both. This can lead to a variety of psychological problems including depression. In some cases, the cause can be traced to high blood pressure, nutritional deficiencies, impacted ear wax, or an infection of the middle ear. It is then possible to treat the problem. In other cases, the cause remains a mystery. For these people, a tinnitus masker can be incorporated into a hearing aid. It emits a constant band of low-level noise that drowns out the tinnitus.

Hearing instruments serve to meet a variety of needs for those with hearing impairments. At ALLEGANY HEARING & SPEECH ASSOCIATES, we are here to help you select and be fitted to the device to meet your problem. Come in soon and find out it is possible to improve the quality of the sounds you are hearing. You may also utilize our Dial A Hearing screen test at 759-HEAR.

Although some 10 million moderately to severely deaf Americans could be helped by hearing aids, less than half have purchased one.

GCC Graduates Give High Marks To Alma Mater

A study, recently published by the State Board for Community Colleges comparing several academic performance measures of Maryland's community colleges, shows that graduates of Garrett Community College give the college high marks for instructional quality and preparation for transfer to four-year colleges. This information was released by John F. Culp, comptroller.

Compiled in 1985, the information is the most current available. The study reveals that 100% of GCC's graduates and 92% of its 1982 entrants were satisfied with the instruction they received. Some 89% of the 1984 graduates were satisfied with their preparation for transfer to Maryland public four-year colleges.

Culp said that by 1984, 86% of the 1978 entrants planning to seek a four-year degree had enrolled in a four-year college, making GCC second among Maryland community colleges for transferring students on to four-year institutions.

According to the study, the great majority of those who transferred were succeeding. Culp noted that 80% of the 1984 graduating class who transferred to the University of Maryland in other Maryland four-year public colleges, were in good academic standing over a year later when the study was conducted.

Updated information indicates that all of GCC's transfer students were in good academic standing at the University of Maryland in the fall of 1985. Culp said the students were enrolled in a wide range of fields including business administration, engineering and art.

GCC also recorded the second highest percentage of students who completed degree programs they entered. Of the degree candidates, 59% entering in 1978 had completed their degrees by 1982. SBCC information indicates that over half of these students attended GCC on a part-time basis. More current statistics concerning degree completion were not available in the SBCC report.

"The SBCC study shows that GCC is succeeding in preparing its students for transfer to four-year colleges. I am confident that we can sustain this good record and improve in other areas as well," said GCC President, Dr. Stephen J. Herman.

Office To Close For Labor Day

The Republican Newspaper office will be closed on Monday, September 1, in observance of Labor Day. However, deadlines for advertising and news will be the same as usual: Tuesday at 5 p.m. for advertising and Wednesday at noon for news material.

Water Level Of Deep Creek Lake To Be Lowered

Persons maintaining docks or mooring boats in the waters of Deep Creek Lake should note that after Labor Day, September 1, the level of water in the lake will be drawn down to a level of 2455 feet above sea level, according to Michael R. Gregory, Deep Creek Lake manager.

As a result, Gregory said, users of the lake will notice a three- to four-foot decrease in the existing lake level between now and the end of September. The reason for this decrease in the lake level is to provide for an inspection of the lake and the dam facilities by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission in compliance with Penelec's current license to maintain and operate the lake.

Gregory said persons keeping docks or boats on the lake should make any arrangements necessary to insure that their boat or dock will be protected given this decrease in the water level. In areas of the lake where waters are already shallow, owners of boats and docks may be well advised to initiate the steps necessary for the removal of their facilities, rather than run the risk of having these facilities become stranded by the receding water.

Under current regulations for the lake, all docks and moorings must be removed from the lake and secured to the buffer strip by December 1 of each year.

Little Opposition Toward Proposed ORV Revisions Voiced At Hearing

A public hearing last Saturday at Garrett Community College to discuss the revised off-road vehicle proposal drew 30 to 40 interested persons. Also attending the hearing were: Bill Buck, environmental specialist, Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service; Warren Groves, manager, Savage River State Forest; Joe Mechem, manager, Potomac-Garrett State Forest; and Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey.

The hearing was called because the off-road vehicle regulations affecting Garrett County have been revised to increase the total ORV trail system from 43.8 miles to 73.8 miles, using 30 miles of existing access roads to implement the additional ORV trail system. It establishes a proclaimed snowmobile season from December 15 through March 15.

The proposal, however, does not add any additional miles of ORV trails for two and four-wheel off-road vehicles, but it does maintain all existing access roads. It eliminates seven miles of motorcycle use on two existing ORV trails, and deletes three miles of existing ORV trails rendered obsolete by the proposed action.

Perhaps one of the most opposed sections of the proposal is the established increase in DNR registration fees for all off-road vehicles from $5 to $15 per year.

DNR officials stated that the objective of the proposal was to improve upon the existing off-road vehicle system, in the state forest of Western Maryland. This, they said, requires that the existing ORV regulations be revised. These proposed revisions will increase the ORV trail system by thirty miles, but restricted to snowmobile use only.

The officials feel that the revised regulations will result in improved administration of existing trail use and at the same time provide greater winter recreational opportunities in Garrett County. The proposal will significantly improve upon present ecologic impacts of the lands and favorably effect the local economy.

Pre-Registration Fall Enrollment Up At Garrett

"Garrett Community College's pre-registration enrollment is up 15.8% for the fall semester compared to last year's enrollment," said John F. Culp, comptroller, in a recent release from the college.

Culp indicated that on August 20 of this year, 229 students were enrolled for a total of 2,819 credit hours. He said there were 172 county students who have registered carrying an average credit load of 12 hours.

Culp said the good news was a "grand welcome" for new GCC president, Dr. Stephen J. Herman, who is now at the helm of the college fulltime.

Dr. Herman stated, "The employees here at Garrett have done an exceptional job accommodating the students that have come on campus to register."

Garrett's numbers show that the national trend of more women attending college is no exception in Garrett County. Out of the 229 students enrolled, 138 or 60%, are women. The parttime female student is especially prevalent since 77% of parttime students are women.

Classes are scheduled to begin at Garrett on September 9. GCC has pre-registered 124 new students, 101 returning students and four transfer students. There are 155 fulltime and 74 parttime students enrolled. Of the total number, 69% enrolled are freshmen.

Dr. Herman commented, "We hope to provide the students with an excellent educational experience. A good experience here at Garrett will encourage the large freshmen class to return for their sophomore year and give us a large base of returning students in the fall of 1987."

Voters League Notes Duties Of County Treasurer

After 20 years of service, Garrett County treasurer Arzella Parsons has decided not to seek re-election to that position and the announcement of her retirement sparked a large number of persons filing for that office. As part of an effort to assist the voting public in making a choice for this office in the primary and general elections, the Garrett County League of Women Voters announced this week the duties and responsibilities of that office.

The treasurer is the top financial officer of the county and therefore must have the ability to keep accurate records of all receipts and disbursements, including numerous separate categories for different taxes.

He or she must also have the ability to report accurately and promptly to the county commissioners and to state departments a monthly report of the many changes in the tax rolls resulting from change in the category of taxation, use of tax credits, new property, etc., together with an accounting of the amount collected.

The treasurer must be familiar with all laws relating to the treasurer's office and thus know when to refuse to pay any order that has been improperly issued.

The treasurer must have a reputation and character of sufficient quality that a bonding company will be willing to insure the treasurer's honesty, accuracy, and integrity.

The salary for the county treasurer in 1987 will be $22,000. Democrats running for the

Audit Team Gives Garrett County Finances A Clean Bill Of Health

Joe McCathren and his team of auditors from the firm of Hoyer, Graves and Bailey, Annapolis, have nearly completed their audit of the county finances and have, thus far, given the budget a clean bill of health, according to the Board of Garrett County Commissioners. The county officials released the information at a news conference Tuesday.

The auditors said a $535,000 surplus has been realized this fiscal year as of June 30, according to the county board. They informed the Commissioners that they expect that total to go even higher on the completion of their audit.

Any surplus the county incurs is earmarked for capital projects such as the Glendale Bridge renovation project and the landfill expansion project, according to Commissioner Elwood Groves II.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr. noted that the county already carries a $3.4 million surplus and with the additional surplus that total could go to nearly $4 million. With the surplus and the influx of funds received already from 1986-87 real estate taxes, the county has invested some $5.2 million for capital projects.

Commissioner John G. Braskey then spoke of the long term debt incurred by county government and how it has decreased over a four-year period. The county's actual primary long term debt as of June 30, 1982, was approximately $1.5 million. "As of June 30, 1985, this board has decreased that debt to about $1 million or a 30% decrease," said Braskey.

Groves stated, "This board has always maintained a 'pay as you go' philosophy and to keep expenses fairly consistent with county revenue. These practices should continue in the future. We are very pleased with the state of the county finances."

County Clerk, Robert J. Fousek, indicated that over 75% of those debts were inherited by the present Board of Commissioners in the form of transportation bonds which were used for roads equipment and road repair projects from 1978, State of Maryland mortgages from 1979 for the Accident Industrial Park, and a note payable for the old Oakland Industrial Park in 1971. Other debts incurred were from equipment and lease-purchase agreements.

In terms of secondary obligations, the largest is for Garrett County Memorial Hospital bonds from 1980. Commissioner Gregg explained that the hospital has the primary responsibility for those bonds which were endorsed by the Commissioners in 1980 following a "yes" vote by referendum in the May, 1980 primary election.

Gregg noted that the only other secondary debt of the county is for the Sanitary Commission. "It must be stressed that the county is not and most likely will never be responsible for those debts. The hospital is in sound financial shape due to excellent management and each Sanitary District is responsible for debts through user fees."

He continued, "As responsible."

Pamela M. Rexrode, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested on a warrant charging her with a controlled dangerous substance violation when she turned herself in to the McHenry detachment.

Tfc. David W. Broadwater arrested a 17 year old juvenile from the Pittsburgh area on August 21, charging him with juvenile delinquency and theft by possession. According to police reports, the youth was found sleeping in a pickup truck which was reported stolen from the Library, Pa. area.

See Voters' Guide In Today's Issue

In an effort to assist local voters in making wise choices at the polls during the primary election September 9 and the general election November 4, The Republican and the Garrett County League of Women Voters joined forces to produce a Voters' Guide, which appears on pages 45-49 of today's issue. The guide contains biographies of candidates for state and local office, plus their responses to various questions prepared by the League of Women Voters. Also included is other pertinent information related to voting. Citizens are encouraged to keep the guide for later reference after the primary election.

A BRAND NEW CHEMISTRY LAB awaits students at Northern High School upon their return next Tuesday. The renovated facility includes new cabinetry, lockers, floors, desks, tables and walls. Carpentry completes appropriate classrooms, and new equipment has been installed for science labs and vocational classes. One major investment included IBM computers for the new data processing class. Ed Green, principal, stressed that although some unpacking and clean-up is still being done, the school is 98 percent complete, and will be ready to receive students on Tuesday.

ONE OF THE BEST WATER SKIERS IN THE WORLD was at Deep Creek Lake last Wednesday to conduct a training clinic for some 20 area skiers, who ranged in age from 14 to 62. Lucky Lowe, who is currently ranked among the top five skiers in the world in both slalom and jumping, provided "classroom" instruction, followed by on-the-water training and exhibitions. A resident of Orlando, Fla., Lowe has been skiing competitively for 22 years. He has been on the U.S. Water Ski Team four times and is a former world record holder in jumping. At the 1985 World Championships held in France last September, he finished second in jumping. See additional photos on sports pages.

Several Sentenced In District Court

Garrett County District Court Judge Jack Turney heard numerous cases during court proceedings over the past week.

In one case, Grant L. Ruby, 51, Clearville, Pa., was sentenced to 12 days in the Garrett County Jail for a charge of battery. The judge suspended the sentence and placed him on 12 months supervised probation.

Ruby had been found guilty of the charge during a trial held June 24, and the judge had ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

The charge was filed by Hilda I. Ruby, also of Clearville, after an April 16 incident near Fuzel. Ruby's attorney was James F. Braskey.

In other cases, the judge sentenced William D. Lantz, 24, Oakland, to 12 months in the Garrett County Jail for a battery charge. The sentence was then suspended, and Lantz was placed on 12 months supervised probation.

A pre-sentence investigation had been ordered for Lantz during a June 24 trial after he was found to be guilty of the charge, which was filed by Sgt. Roger L. Lewis, Oakland City Police Department, after a May 23 incident in Oakland.

Lantz was represented by John R. Toston, public defender. Judge Turney ordered a pre-sentence investigation for Timothy D. Wilt, 22, Grantsville, after he found him to be guilty of charges of wanton trespassing and intoxication. Wilt was found to be not guilty of a charge of disturbing the peace.

The charges were filed by Robert A. Yutzy, owner of Billybot's Inn, Grantsville, after a June 28 incident there.

Wilt was represented by Toston.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for William H. Wilt, 20, Grantsville, after he was found to be guilty of a charge of wanton trespassing. The judge found him to be not guilty of a disorderly conduct charge.

The charge was filed by Yutzy after a July 3 incident at Billybot's Inn.

The judge ordered a pre-sentence investigation for Robert L. Fisher, 19, Friendsville, after finding him to be guilty of a sexual offense charge.

Fisher pled guilty to the charge, which was filed by State Police Sgt. Robert E. Friend after a June 27 incident involving a 15 year old female.

Probation before judgment was ordered for Christopher S. Bittner, 19, Friendsville, for a theft charge. He was placed on six months unsupervised probation.

The charge was filed by Mary J. Tabor, Friendsville, after a May 6 incident at Tabor's General Store.

Placed on the stet docket were had check charges against David L. Tusing, 30, Mtn. Lake Park, and Adam W. Arnold, 22, Oakland.

Also placed on the stet docket was a disturbance of the peace charge against Steven A. Elliott, 19, Westernport.

Local Man Found Guilty Of DWI During Appeal

An Oakland man was found to be guilty of driving while under the influence of alcohol and failure to keep right of the center line during an appeal trial held last week in Garrett County Circuit Court.

Donald E. Riley was found guilty of the charges by Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer, who sentenced him to six months in the Department of Corrections. He then suspended the sentence, placing Riley on six months supervised probation with the conditions that he attend DWI school, not drive when he has consumed alcohol, and consent to alcohol restrictions on his driver's license. Riley pled guilty to both charges, and was also fined $20 for the first charge and $200 for the second charge.

The case had been appealed from District Court in March after the court found Riley to be guilty of the charges.

Yough River Local Advisory Board Reports On Topics Of June Meeting

The Youghiogheny River Local Advisory Board met in a regular session on June 19 at Garrett Community College.

Chairman Elwood Groves presented a draft letter to Dr. Torrey Brown to the board for their consideration and discussion. The letter addressed the board's concerns relative to the field investigation. Board member Deborah Pepper moved that the exact wording of the letter be tabled until the next meeting so that the members would have adequate time to study it. The motion was carried.

Member John Hinebaugh requested that lists of property owners be given to the board showing satisfaction or a lack of satisfaction with the proposed boundaries, and those with whom no definite settlement had been made.

Hinebaugh also requested that each member of the board be provided with copies of management plans for other rivers in Maryland so they can have the benefit of seeing what they did for the other rivers.

Before the next meeting, the board members will review

Parking Fine

Increase Explained By Town Council

In an effort to facilitate more parking for patrons of downtown Oakland businesses, the Oakland Mayor and Town Council recently voted to increase the fine from $2 to $10 for drivers who leave their vehicles parked at a parking meter longer than two hours at a time.

The Council, Oakland Police Chief John Sines, and officers of the Greater Oakland Business Association have been working together on this measure by investigating the parking ordinances of other towns. The increased fine is supported by the Business Association.

A spokesman for the Town Council stated that the move is "most certainly not to discourage customers from parking in Oakland, but to discourage employees and employers from utilizing these parking places throughout the day so they can be available for patrons." It was noted that a significant number of downtown employees and some employers were using the spaces all day, feeding the meter every two hours, and thus eliminating parking for potential customers.

The spokesman said that many citizens apparently do not realize that the two-hour limitation has been a town ordinance for a long time and the only change is that the fine has been increased from $2 to $10.

Norfolk Southern Drops Bid For Conrail Purchase

A decision to withdraw a bid to purchase Conrail, the government-owned freight line that serves 15 states from the Northeast to Missouri, by Norfolk Southern was announced by the chairman of that rail line, Robert Claytor, in a recent letter to Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole.

The rail lines owned by Conrail transport Garrett County coal to the Port of Baltimore.

In the letter, Claytor said the continuing opposition in Congress over the merger, and changes in the federal tax laws prompted Norfolk Southern to withdraw its offer. "There is no end in sight to the legislative impasse which has already delayed the sale too long," Claytor wrote Secretary Dole.

This announcement clears the way for Congress to move ahead on legislation that would sell Conrail through a public stock offering and maintain it as a separate railroad.

Dole, who was in favor of the Conrail-Norfolk Southern merger, said she regretted Norfolk Southern's withdrawal but that she would work with members of Congress to put together a deal to sell Conrail to independent investors. "I believe this is both possible and desirable this year," said Dole, who had sharply opposed the public offering approach in the past on the ground it does not ensure Conrail's further health.

Norfolk Southern had announced interest in buying Conrail, a creation of Congress a decade ago to assure rail freight service for the Northeast, in June 1984.

THE FINISHING TOUCHES are being added to the home economics department at Northern High School. Pictured above are the new stoves and cabinetry which were installed at the school. The home ec department also includes 20 new sewing machines, a dishwasher, and a special room for class discussions. Also pictured above are Gene Coddington, building inspector for the board of education, left, and school principal Ed Green. Green said, "This man deserves recognition—he has been on the job since day one making sure everything goes right and worrying along with the rest of us." At one time the project was over a month behind due to asbestos removal, but extended hours and hard work have prepared the building for the start of school next week. Pictured below is the newly constructed school library, with books ready for unpacking.

Numerous Topics Discussed By Local Education Board

Numerous issues were discussed by the Garrett County Board of Education during their regularly scheduled meeting last Thursday.

The Garrett County Vocational Advisory Council gave their annual report and made several recommendations to the board. They included: more effort to set up articulation between Garrett Community College and the Board of Education in more areas, an effort to set up articulation between the board and other schools for classes not offered at GCC, and completion of the walkway at Northern High School connecting the vocational facilities.

A report of the absentee safety program at Northern Middle School and Northern High School was given by Al Coviello, Director of Pupil Services. Although the program was relatively successful, the board voted to discontinue it because the split-shifting process will no longer be used.

Garrett County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome

Ryscavage recommended to board members that the existing policy on charity drives in schools not be changed. However, he recommended that the board change the policy for school fund raising.

Ryscavage's recommendation was that no fund raising activities be allowed on the kindergarten through eighth grade level, partly because of the liability factor, and also because "this action often takes away from class time and consumes teacher time."

Ryscavage has written to school principals and PTA presidents, asking that they respond on this issue before the September meeting, when the board will take action.

The board voted to satellite the food service program on a pilot basis to Route 40 school from Grantsville Elementary School.

Another item of discussion included an activity bus for both Northern and Southern High Schools to transport students home following after-school activities.

The board adopted the budget for fiscal year 1987, which will total $16,625,647, which is an increase from last year of nearly one million dollars. The budget includes local, state and federal funds.

The board also discussed plans for inservice days for teachers.

Sheriff's Office Notes Several Theft Incidents

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department this week is investigating numerous theft and destruction of property incidents which occurred in the area.

Two boats were reported stolen from the Harvey's Peninsula area August 17 and 18 by owners John Stricker, Baltimore, and Mark Detweiler, Connellsville, Pa.

According to reports filed by the department, both boats were found near the Trading Post docks, with Stricker's boat, a 1986 Supra, destroyed. Total loss reached $23,000. Detweiler's boat, a 1983 Cobalt, was also damaged, but no estimate of loss was available.

An investigation of the incident is being conducted by the Sheriff's Department and the Department of Natural Resources Police.

A stereo system was taken from a boat owned by Edward Gray, Gaithersburg, sometime during the night of August 17.

According to police reports, the boat was docked in the Harvey's Peninsula Area, and was also damaged during the theft. Total loss reached $564. DNR police and the Sheriff's Department are investigating.

The department investigated a theft on Route 219 near the Leo Friend Road on Saturday. According to reports, someone entered a pickup truck owned by Donald R. Storch, North Huntingdon, Pa., and removed a tool box containing numerous tools. Total value of the box and contents was estimated at $500. Also removed from the rear of the truck was a skateboard valued at $110.

A theft occurred at the Gargated two destruction of property incidents in the last week.

According to reports, $300 damage was done to a vehicle owned by Pamela S. Gallagher, Oakland, while it was parked at B.J. Whistler's Tavern. Someone pushed the car, a 1978 Dodge Colt, into a patch of weeds, causing damage to the door and fender.

Someone shattered the windshield on a truck owned by Thomas F. Henline, Crellin, while it was parked behind the furniture store in Crellin. Damages totaled $200.

Various Thefts Investigated By Md. State Police

Maryland State Police at the McHenry detachment this week reported numerous thefts which occurred in the area recently.

Two radios were removed from two trucks which were parked at Keyser's Ridge Truck Stop August 14 and 15. According to police reports, the trucks were owned by Bruce Merrilees Electric Co., New Castle, Pa. Total loss and damages reached $3,050.

The incident is under the investigation of Tfc. R.C. Resh. An investigation continues of a theft which occurred at Keyser's Ridge Truck Stop August 10.

According to reports, someone pried open the office door and a cabinet and removed approximately $2,800.

Edward G. Frazee, Bartow, W.Va., reported a theft which occurred August 14 on Route 219 near Mosser Road.

Tfc. L. Rosage investigated, reporting that a radar detector was removed from Frazee's car. Total loss was valued at

A theft occurred at Rush Services, Accident, early this month. According to police reports, someone entered a storage shed and removed various plumbing and repair supplies valued at $600. Tfc. R.J. Resh investigated.

Fiscal Success . . .

The report released this week by the firm which has audited the county's finances is certainly good news to all Garrett County citizens and we believe that our local government officials deserve a hearty pat on the back for a job well done.

The report shows a surplus of $535,000 at the end of fiscal year 1986 (June 30) and that total is expected to increase upon completion of the audit. This will bring the total county surplus to at least $4 million and, with county property tax monies already received in fiscal '87, the county has been able to invest some $5.2 million for capital projects.

Most of the surplus this year has been earmarked for the Glendale Bridge renovation and the new county landfill project.

This column is not intended in any way to be a political endorsement of the incumbent county commissioners. However, we believe that these numbers speak for themselves and appropriate credit is due them and other county officials. The fiscal management by those in control has been excellent for the past four years. It is evident to us that the county leaders used great foresight and planning since it was made known almost two years ago that funds such as revenue sharing would be severely cut. Just breaking even on the budget would have been impressive.

Two individuals besides the commissioners who, in our opinion, have contributed much to this fiscal success story are Arzella Parsons, county treasurer, who has been at the helm of that office for the past 20 years, and Robert Fousek, county clerk.

Mrs. Parsons has been working quietly behind the scenes, using great expertise in investing county monies in ways that bring the best possible return. Her hard work and experience over the past two decades have undoubtedly saved or earned this county thousands, perhaps hundreds of thousands, of dollars. On behalf of every taxpayer in the county, we wish to sincerely thank her for going the extra mile. Hopefully her successor will take the initiative to learn from her.

The commissioners also rely heavily upon Fousek for advice and guidance. He is the one who must do most of the research for the commissioners. It also appears that the county attorney, Dwight Stover, has provided sound fiscal legal advice to the commissioners.

Other persons who have played major roles in this effort are the various department heads of the different county agencies. To them we also tip our hats for continuing to provide needed services, but doing so more efficiently and less expensively.

Keep up the good work.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Several months ago a new non-profit organization, March for Justice, was formed, as a result of a little four-year-old girl being beaten to death, allegedly by her mother's boyfriend. This incident obviously outraged a lot of people so we all came together at the Bloomington Fire Hall, where we meet every first and third Tuesday to see what we can do as a group to prevent this from happening again. We decided that our laws on child abuse need to be stiffer. A simple slap on the wrist or having the child being removed, for a short period of time is not a sufficient penalty, especially since statistics show that if a person abuses a child once, he or she will more than likely do it again.

We have gotten thousands of signatures on petitions that are going to be sent to all of our elected officials since they are the ones who can help get these child abuse laws changed.

Some people have gotten the wrong impression of our group. We are not a bunch of hostile individuals out to seek revenge. Sure, we want to see child abusers punished, but we do not go out and look for child abusers to turn in. We want to make sure that child abusers know that if they abuse a child, they are going to be punished. We want children to be able to come forward and tell us that they are being abused without the fear that they will be abused again for speaking up.

When the organization first began there were over 100 people there. But as time goes by, we see fewer and fewer people. I would like to know where all of the concerned citizens, who were so outraged and concerned several months ago, are? We would like to see you back. I know that everyone can't make it for every meeting, but we would sure like for you to try to make one. We would like to see some new faces as well.

It's going to be a long hard battle, but with your help I know we can do it. I hope to see you at our next meeting which will be September 2 at the Bloomington Fire Hall at 7 p.m.

Thank you,
Diana L. Amann

To the Editor:

The Department of Natural Resources has come up with a new ORV proposal and held a public hearing Saturday. A neighbor, my brothers, and I attended, along with others.

I know the DNR has worked hard at getting the proposal through the system, but it needs some changes. There were some very good questions and comments at the hearing. I hope the DNR considers them.

The proposed $15 registration fee is absolutely too much! The proposal shouldn't take away any motorcycle use on the ORV trails. Three-wheelers should be added to the definition of ORV in the proposal! If the DNR designates an ORV trail, all ORVs should be able to operate on it, not just snowmobiles!

If some changes, not just these, are not made, this proposal will make outlaws of us all. I'm sure nobody wants that. If the DNR is going to give us a place to ride, everyone should be able to ride, no matter what he or she rides.

I know it's tough pleasing everyone, but the proposal needs changed.

Thank you,
Rebecca DeWitt

To the Editor:

One of the candidates for public office has advised, "You don't want to vote for Jennie Mandrovsky because her parents were Russian and besides, she is an intellect" and we don't want one of those on the school board."

Does he really mean he doesn't want on the school board someone of intelligence (Webster's definition of an intellect)?

As for her parents, Mrs. Mandrovsky's father was an Episcopal clergyman. He was born near Upper Marlboro in Prince Georges County, Maryland, of Scot-Irish and English parents. Her mother was born in Baltimore of Scottish and English parents who came from Massachusetts. Neither her father nor her mother was ever out of the United States.

Since the person who gave the above advice is a candidate for an entirely different office, it is difficult to imagine his motive. However, voters should not be misled by his misinformation.

Sincerely,
Margaret S. McComas

To the Editor:

I wish to offer a small gripe. But first let me express here my appreciation for the volunteers and contributors who have created a fine new athletic service building at the football field. This is a new landmark to give any community pride in its people.

Now, my small gripe. The parking space near the new athletic building is used at the field and track entrance of the high school by persons going to the track to walk and run. It needs to be filled with shale and leveled for all-weather parking.

The track walkway, from the entrance down to the track lanes, is a risk too old guys like me and others no longer nimble. It needs some prompt and inexpensive attention. I have seen persons walking on the track and using a cane. This causes me some concern when I see them going back to their cars over the uneven ground of the walkway and parking space.

I could go into the matter of tax monies here, but will only mention that I've paid my share for the past 30 years in the community and still glad to have such a friendly and convenient place to spend these retirement years.

To the Editor:

This letter is about timber and how our timber crops have contributed so much to the progress and welfare of our people. Many of our native citizens were brought up and sustained through childhood by income their parents realized through the sale of timber. Without timber we could not have had maple syrup. The farmers' timber acreage has, to this day, remained a welcome supplement to our income. Anything that is a threat to our timber crop is a threat to our economy, and the general welfare of our people.

A staff reporter for The Wall Street Journal, writing about the damage to the timber in Washington State by black bears, inspired this letter. The writer tells how bears attack the growing trees by ripping off the bark around the trunk of fir trees, thereby killing the trees. The bears, after ripping off the bark, then rake off the inner lining called cambium with their teeth. The inner lining is sweet and the bears eat it with gusto. One bear can destroy as many as 50 trees in one night.

The lumber companies have been killing the bears to protect their timber. Apparently the laws in that state permit the killing of bears, and there is no fine for killing bears to protect property.

Here in Garrett County we have lots of hard maple. Our hard maple when properly cut and dried is in great demand for furniture and we cannot afford to give it up by trading our maple syrup or our valuable maple lumber for a heavy bear population.

The inner lining under the bark of sugar trees is much sweeter than that of fir trees. Imagine, if you can, how when the bears wake up from hibernation in the spring they would go for the hundreds of buckets filled with sweet maple sap that they would find hanging on trees in a maple syrup grove. In the state of Washington, their elected representatives have protected their timber industry and their people by killing the bears. Here, our Garrett County representatives have done just the opposite. They have enacted laws to protect the bears, even at the risk of their peoples' lives. They would fine up to $2,000 for killing a bear, even on our own property, unless we could prove that we killed in self defense. If we wait until we kill a bear in self defense, we will be killed, not the bear. Think before you vote.

Local Residents Injured In Area Vehicle Mishaps

Maryland State Police at the McHenry detachment reported that several local residents were injured in motor vehicle accidents over the past week.

Charles D. Fazenbaker, 34, McHenry, was admitted to West Virginia University Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., following a single-vehicle accident Saturday. A hospital spokesman reported that he was released on Monday.

According to police reports, Fazenbaker was operating a 1973 Dodge Charger which was southbound on Route 219 near the Bear Creek Bridge when he apparently fell asleep. The vehicle crossed the center line, ran into a ditch and struck a culvert before becoming airborne. The car then struck a guardrail and traveled 50 feet through the air, landing on its top and sliding down an embankment.

Tfc. R.M. Hershberger investigated the mishap, reporting that no charges were made. Jason E. Park, 16, Oakland, was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, with a concussion following a single-vehicle accident Saturday on the Sang Run Road. A spokesman at that hospital reported that he was released on Monday.

According to police reports, Park was operating a 1985 Ford Bronco when it left the road while rounding a sharp right turn. The vehicle then struck a utility pole and embankment, returned to the road, and struck another embankment.

Three passengers in the vehicle, Kristin Crone, 15, McHenry; Brent Sanders, 15, Oakland; and Lisa Briggs, 16, Friendsville, were all treated and released from the hospital following the mishap.

Cpl. G.A. Berkebile investigated the accident. Lisa Kerman, 32, Ft. Lee, N.J., was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a two-vehicle accident Sunday on Route 219.

Police said Penny S. Murphy, 25, Oakland, was operating a 1983 Plymouth Reliant which was stopped in the road to make a left turn. Kerman was unable to stop her vehicle, a 1983 Yamaha Venture, which struck Murphy's vehicle in the rear.

Tfc. C.R. Smith investigated the mishap, charging Murphy with having no brake lights and Kerman with failing to control speed.

Dwayne E. Liller, 17, Oakland, was treated and released from Garrett Memorial Hospital after a motorcycle accident on Sunday on the Jasper Riley Road.

According to police, Liller was forced off the road by an unidentified vehicle. The motorcycle overturned and slid off the road onto the left shoulder. Tfc. L. Rosage investigated the accident.

A three-vehicle accident occurred Tuesday on U.S. Route 40.

Police said George Gardner, 73, Somerset, Pa., was operating a 1986 Chevrolet Cavalier when he turned into the path of a 1977 Buick Riviera operated by Kimberly D. Hutchins, 17, Frostburg. Gardner's car then spun around and struck a 1977 Ford Thunderbird operated by Gary E. Swearman, 29, Addison, Pa., which was stopped at a light.

A passenger in Gardner's vehicle, Margaret F. Gardner, 68, was treated and released from Meyersdale Community Hospital, Meyersdale, Pa., after the mishap.

Our Turn

Signs of the Times
by Susan Alvarez

It's that time of year when I start saying to myself, "Summer can't be over yet!" But I guess fall is coming. I know in my house there is definite evidence that it is time for school to start.

My teenage daughter has conducted more fashion consultations over the phone in the last week than the buyers on Seventh Avenue in New York have held so far this year.

My organized nine-year-old has had her lunchbox packed for a month and my seven-year-old son has requested that I enroll him in a night school so he can sleep in and watch cartoons in the mornings.

There are also other unmistakable signs that school will soon be starting.

Quarters, dimes and nickels are getting up and walking out of the house. They must enjoy my scrambling around for lunch money, milk money and school fees.

I am told repeatedly by my kids that no child ever, in the history of the entire world, has started school without a new lunchbox and notebook. I am also reminded that the new notebook purchased last spring will not do since there are pencil marks on the back page and the teacher will "probably want this new kind anyway."

I am also informed that the "Poppy Woppy" lunchbox which was purchased last year after a week-long search is now classified as being "out," and the "Squiggly Doo" lunchbox is "in" and I simply must find one somewhere on the planet before school starts.

The Statue of Liberty starts looking a lot like my second grade teacher, Mrs. Thompson, at line-up time.

I start bracing myself for the time when the littlest one stumbles onto the school bus with a crooked name tag and a big smile. Every year I am cheerful and brave. And every year I still have a lump in my throat.

A NEW SCHOLARSHIP fund has been set up at Garrett Community College through the efforts of Lohr Distributors, Inc., Oakland, in conjunction with the Adolph Coors Company Veterans Scholarship Fund. They matched the money which was collected over the Memorial Day weekend and through the month of May. That total is $916. Of that total, $455 was collected from canisters which were placed at local businesses in the area. The top collectors were Hometown Market, Midway Liquors, B.F.S. Foods, The Short Stop and C.P. ## Ginseng Season In Full Swing

Maryland's annual ginseng gathering season opened on August 20 and will last through December 1, according to Robert Wood of the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

Wood issues the yearly ginseng collecting permits which have been required under Maryland law for the past few years.

The $2 state permit is needed by gatherers of the rare root to legally sell their harvest in commercial channels. Buyers are required under law to record the permit numbers and identifications of their suppliers when they seek a federal export permit for the root.

In 1985, according to Wood's records, some 178 collecting permits for ginseng were issued in the state. Forty-seven of the permit holders reported selling 101 pounds of root at an average price of $125 per pound.

"The plant is uncommon enough that a pound or two of dried roots represents a great deal of effort," Wood says, "and searching for ginseng is obviously not a way to become wealthy. It does provide a good excuse, if one is needed, to get out into the woods."

Wild, American ginseng, is prized in parts of the Orient and the best price for the root is paid by exporters who cater to those markets. In Maryland ginseng is found mostly west of Frederick in the rich soil of shady hardwood Appalachian forests.

For more information, Wood may be contacted at 841-5920.

Change In Cost Of Reduced-Price Meals Announced

Garrett County school lunch prices for the full paying student will remain the same as last school year, according to a release from the Board of Education. There will, however, be a change in the cost of the reduced-price meals.

Because of the Governor's budget, the State Department will be paying an additional $.20 for the reduced-price meals. This will mean that the cost of breakfast to a reduced-price student will be $.10, and lunch will be $.20.

The Garrett County Board of Education, Food Service Department, urges all families to fill out and return the application sent home with students.

conviction of Garrett County residents that local government, the level of government closest to the people who have historically maintained stewardship of the river, is best able to do so." He told the Congresswoman that he shared that view, also.

In his letter, Sen. Bamback said that he was not notified that federal officials would be in his district last May, nor has he been informed of the subcommittee's intentions. He said that he would appreciate being kept apprised of any federal interest in the Youghiogheny River; that he would like to know the purpose of these surveys; and that he would like a copy of the report being prepared for Chairman Vento, upon its completion.

Bambacus Appointed To Regional Library Resource Programs

State Senator John N. Bamback (R-Allegany-Garrett) has been appointed as a member of the governor's task force on Regional Library Resource Center Programs by Governor Harry R. Hughes.

Under provisions of a law passed in 1971, three regional library centers have been established: in Southern Maryland, the Eastern Shore, and Western Maryland. The purpose of these resource centers is to provide, through mutual cooperation and coordination, books, information, and other materials and services that an individual library cannot provide. The task force was established to determine whether the services and resources mandated by the 1971 law are being met.

In addition to determining whether the services mandated in the law are adequate to meet the needs of the regions, the task force will ascertain whether there are sufficient resources to perform the services. The task force will report to the governor on or before December 1 of this year.

Bambacus, chairman of Senate Select Committee Number 1 for the three Western Maryland counties, has indicated his willingness to undertake this effort on behalf of the citizens of the state.

ORV Revisions

Studies were conducted to minimize any adverse environmental effects and to maximize all beneficial environmental effects. The preferred alternative will not result in irreversible or irretrievable impacts to the natural resources and the human environment, officials said. It minimizes impacts from existing off-road vehicle use by: limiting the season of use from December 15 through March 15 for snowmobiles; by exerting seasonal controls over wheeled ORV use; by reducing noise pollution; and protecting all known threatened or endangered plants or animals.

Alternatives to the proposed action were presented at the hearing. A no-action alternative would maintain the off-road vehicle system as it presently is with about 44 miles of ORV trails. This alternative was rejected because it does not provide a proclaimed season of use for snowmobiles, or restrict wheeled off-road vehicle use on certain ORV trails.

It allows two and four-wheel ORV use year round on designated trails during the snowmobile season. Consequently the adverse impacts of noise and to the soils are significantly greater than with the preferred alternative.

Another alternative would expand the off-road vehicle trail system, for snowmobiles only, from about 44 miles to 108 miles. This additional 64 miles would be accommodated primarily by including Savage Mountain within the ORV trail system.

This alternative was rejected because it is in excess of the need, and would be too costly to maintain and supervise.

The preferred alternative, according to DNR officials, will accomplish the objective of providing increased winter recreational activities in Western Maryland. The alternative increases the ORV trail system by an additional 30 miles to be used by snowmobiles only and only during a proclaimed season from December 15 to March 15. This alternative requires controlled use of the ORV trails and at the same time centralizes winter sports within a specific geographic area.

The DNR has been working with interested parties since February of this year to complete a review of all written and oral comments received pertaining to the revision of off-road vehicle regulations in 1985.

A review and analysis of the written transcript of the December 12, 1985 public hearing was conducted.

A six-member interdisciplinary team was assigned to develop and evaluate this proposal.

An in-depth review of all regulations in the proposal was conducted by the Department.

Efforts were coordinated with Garrett County officials and the Garrett County Snowmobile Committee, and written notification was sent to interested parties, concerning the proposal.

The proposed revised regulations also cleared up some of the language, making the regulations more understandable.

Several representatives of snowmobile interests were present at the hearing and many whose interest was in three and four-wheelers. One DNF official stated that the hearing was favorable with no opposition to the revisions.

To The Voters
Of Garrett County

Being a Democrat I am unable to vote for my friend in the Primary Election, but I have supported him in any way I can.

During the illness of my late husband and my own illnesses I have always felt free to call my neighbors and friends Ernie and Nancy Gregg for their help which they gave willingly.

I feel the present commissioners have worked well together and worked hard for the good of Garrett County, as well as making many friends.

Since we well know what they have done and will continue doing in the future, why not give them your vote?

(Garrett County & Lonaconing)

I believe one of the main responsibilities of an elected official is to be accessible to the public. I have held community meetings on a regular basis, installed an additional phone exchange number and appointed administrative assistants in order to respond more quickly to your needs; namely Mary Lou Stemple in Garrett County, and Della Lynn Kirkwood in Lonaconing.

I have worked closely with many of you on a variety of projects and important matters. We are moving in a positive direction and much has been accomplished.

Four years ago I made a commitment to do the best job that I could and I have strived to do so.

I would like the opportunity to continue to work with you and for you, and if re-elected, I will continue to do these same things and be as accessible as I can.

Dedicated to working with you and for you!
Your support and vote is most appreciated.

Lakers Obtain Top Mountain State Prospect

Dennis Gibson, head coach of the Garrett Community College basketball team, announced this week that a top prospect from West Virginia will play for the Lakers this fall.

He is Brad Simons, a 6-4 graduate of South Harrison High School, Clarksburg.

A teammate of Brett Vincent, West Virginia high schools' leading scorer last season, Simons' primary responsibility was rebounding. He averaged 9.7 rebounds and 12 points per game in helping lead his team to a 19-1 record. He was also elected team captain for the 1985-86 season. He was named to the second team all-county squad in both his junior and senior years and was an all-state honorable mention selection last season. He was selected to play in the North/South All-Star game at the South Charleston Recreation Center, a game which features the top players in the Mountain State.

"Brad's greatest assets are his fine rebounding ability and his willingness to work hard," Coach Gibson stated. "He will give us much needed depth in the power forward spot, one of our big weaknesses last season."

In Memoriam . . .

It's been ten years since she left us but her memory lingers still. We think of all the happy times as we gaze at the old home place on the hill. The example she set for her children, her kind unselfish ways, have been instilled in our own lives as the way to face each day. She passed from this earth ten years ago, but she is ever real in our hearts and minds.

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Sarah E. Wakefield, who died September 1, 1976.

Oakland Upset Twice In Pen-Mar Action, But Still In Second Place

Numerous upsets in the final games of the 1986 Pen-Mar Baseball League season have caused quite a shake-up among the top contenders for playoff positions, however Oakland maintained its second place ranking despite dropping both ends of a doubleheader to Cumberland on Sunday.

League-leading Tri-Towns were awarded two victories via forfeit over a disbanded LaVale team and now holds a 20-6 record with one make-up game remaining, while Oakland concluded the regular season at 17-11.

Buckhannon moved all the way from fifth to third place with a pair of wins over previously third-ranked Mt. Savage. Buckhannon is now 15-13 and Mt. Savage dropped to 14-13. Mt. Savage will play one more regular season game against Tri-Towns this week and if they win, will be tied with Buckhannon for third place, in which case a coin will be flipped to determine which team will play Tri-Towns and which will play Oakland in the playoffs. The top four teams are eligible for the playoffs.

If, however, Mt. Savage loses to Tri-Towns and concludes with a 14-14 record, identical to Moorefield's final record, then these two teams will face each other in a single contest this Saturday morning to determine the final playoff spot.

Oakland's first playoff contest is slated for 1 p.m. this Saturday at Allegany Community College in Cumberland against either Mt. Savage or Buckhannon. Tri-Towns will be playing at the same time at Riverside Park in Cumberland against either Mt. Savage or Moorefield.

The winners of these games will then face each other at 3:30 p.m. at ACC and again at 2 p.m. on Sunday in a best of three series. The third game, if necessary, will immediately follow the Sunday game.

Jeff Lowery paced Cumberland at the plate in last Sunday's first game at Allegany High School, as he went four-for-four, including a pair of doubles. Marshall Wayland added a double and two singles, while David Yates and Jeff Walker each had two hits.

Recording two hits each for Oakland were Wayne Brown, Lawrence Nesselrodt, Ed Wildesen, and Phil Caruso.

Bryon Gray gained the win over Ed Frizell.

A spectacular diving catch by Cumberland's centerfielder, Wayland, in the top of the final inning saved a 4-3 victory over Oakland in the nightcap.

Gray smacked a two-run single in the bottom of the sixth inning to give Cumberland the 4-3 lead. Then with one out and the tying run on second, Oakland's Mike Mathews rapped a line shot to right-center field, which Wayland grabbed and fired to second to tie up the Oakland runner and save the game.

Tom Stallings recorded a double and single for Cumberland, while Jeff Walker and Scott White each added two hits to the winners' total.

Dave Bender hit a three-run double and Phil Carr added two hits for Oakland.

Tom Vent, New Husky Coach, Looks Forward To Big Challenge

pressive list of athletic credentials, both as a player, a coach, and an official. Following his graduation from Bedford High School in 1963, where he was a three-year starter on the football, basketball and golf teams, he enrolled at Lock Haven State College to play basketball. After a year there he entered the U.S. Army for four years before finishing his college education and football career at Frostburg State College.

Vent played defensive tackle for Frostburg, which finished 5-4-1 his freshman year and improved to 8-1 in 1970.

Vent began coaching in 1971 as a graduate assistant for Jim Crowley's Frostburg State team and accepted a teaching position at Northern High School after the 1971 season. There he was also the head basketball coach and assistant football coach until 1975, when he went to Allegany Community College to teach and serve as assistant basketball coach and women's tennis instructor.

He returned to football coaching in 1979 as defensive coordinator at Potomac State College under Angelo Luvata and then served as head coach at Waynesburg (Pa.) Central High School from 1982-84.

Vent, a native of Bedford, Pa., brings to Northern an im-perspective of competition that most consider is "on the other side of the fence" from a coach's standpoint, as he has been one of the top high school and college basketball officials in the area since 1972. He is a member of the local officiating association and also belongs to the Tri-State College Basketball Officials Association, based in Pittsburgh.

Eight country clubs were represented in the tournament.

"I used to be a bit radical on the sidelines (as a coach)," Vent said. "But I can say that because of my officiating experiences, I won't needle at the referees too much. At least I can say that now," he added with a grin.

Vent said his primary goal is to build a consistent program. "We want to be respectable, consistent in the number of players we have come out each year, and get good involvement from the community," he said.

He added that the attitude of the players is the key to any team's success and that he will attempt to get his players to put the past few seasons behind them and look forward, stressing the positive at every practice.

Vent also noted his admiration for what many fans would consider his arch rival, Tom Woods, head coach of the Southern Rams. "Tom and I have been good friends for a long time and I have great respect for him," he said. "In fact he was instrumental in my being hired for this job. Some people in our end of the county complain that it is unfair that the Southern program gets so much, such as the new facility at their football field. In my opinion, Tom Woods has earned that kind of support. He deserves it, and I am real happy for him."

"I consider the Southern contest just one more game on our schedule," he continued. "I have stressed to our kids that in every other game that Southern plays, we should be behind them, because we are both representing Garrett County. I want to see Garrett County domination in area football, not just domination by Southern or Northern as individual schools."

Vent resides in Grantsville with his wife, Jo Ann, and his daughter, Jamie Jo.

ble county officials, we feel compelled to dissipate disparaging remarks made by those seeking public office. They are unfair tactics which only hurt department heads and employees by giving only part of the picture or making misleading statements."

The Commissioners then referred to an editorial and information column printed in a May 7, 1980, edition of The Republican which explained the bonding of funds for the expansion of the hospital.

The following statement was made in that column, "the project will involve no county tax money... will be paid for by a $2.5 million federal grant, a hospital fundraising campaign and through the sale of bonds, amounting to $4.75 million. Although the bonding will be handled by the county commissioners, the obligation to pay back those bonds will rest upon the hospital, not county taxpayers. The only reason the bonds are being floated through county government is because it provides the lowest possible interest rate, and thus will save money. This is a common procedure with county governments and has been done numerous times in Garrett County."

JUMPING THE WAKE was just one skill demonstrated by world class water skier Lucky Lowe last Wednesday at Deep Creek Lake. Lowe, who is ranked among the top five skiers in the world, conducted a water-skiing clinic for several local persons. The clinic was sponsored by two Deep Creek Lake businesses: Mountaineer Marine Inc. and Deep Creek Water Sports Center, in cooperation with the Deep Creek Water Sports Club. National sponsors for Lowe are Master Craft skis and Master Craft boats. Below, Lowe receives a hand from Ed Schofield, of Mountaineer Marine. Students attending the clinic ranged in age from 14 to 62.

Gregg further explained that the county's debts could be paid off, but that the interest rate was so low when the loans were taken out back in the late 70's it would not be cost-saving to do so. Rather, the commissioners continue to invest the surplus to have funds available for capital projects.

"It would not be financially wise to pay off those debts early," stated Gregg.

Fousek also noted that Garrett County's surplus, as opposed to its annual operating budget, is at approximately a 25% level when compared to other counties across the state. "This is just another indicator of a strong financial position," said Fousek.

Snowy Creek

Also Tuesday, the Commissioners met with officials from Snowy Creek Park in Crellin. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss problems realized at that park due to last year's flooding.

The Commissioners will be working with those officials and with the state to obtain Program Open Space funding to replace creek banks which were washed away and for a possible improvement to the entrance of that park which is located on the Crellin-Underwood Road.

The county officials noted that the next phase of improvements to that park would be restroom facilities and a pavilion.

Commissioner Gregg Seeks Third Term

Twice-elected Republican Garrett County Commissioner Ernest J. Gregg Jr., has announced his intention to seek a third term as County Commissioner for Election District No. Three.

As a result, he says, he has seen the tax rate take a downward trend, with Garrett County receiving statewide recognition for the largest tax rate decrease in the state for the last five years. "This decrease in the tax rate was not only a result of an increase in the assessable base, but also a result of careful planning, spending, and staffing," Gregg said.

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners announced at a press conference Tuesday that they have resolved the issue of the rescue tax to aid local rescue squads.

"We are sending a proposal to Senator John Bambacus and Delegate George Edwards requesting legislation to dedicate the equivalent of $.02 of the county tax rate which will actually come from the state-shared tobacco tax," said Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr.

Compassionate Response By Buyer Wipes Away Little Boy's Tears

by Bernice Keppie

Close friendships sometimes develop between an intended market animal and the 4-H or FFA member who raised it. This strong attachment is usually felt the most by the youngest members, and such was the case this year with Kenneth Groves and his lamb Oscar.

Everyone could see as they entered the sale ring, at the Garrett County Fair 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale, that the lamb and the nine-year old boy were clearly attached to each other. The trusting lamb followed his owner around the ring as though they were going for a walk around the farm. Kenneth, though, who knew what Oscar's fate would be after the sale, had tears in his eyes as they entered the ring.

Now, a few tears are never uncommon at this sale, but, Kenneth seemed to be suffering from a broken heart as he lead Oscar around the ring, and the tears just continued to flow. The auctioneer, thinking that Kenneth was worried about the price that was being bid for his lamb, asked the boy as the price went up, "Does that make you feel better?"

That question just brought more tears from Kenneth. Still convinced that the boy was worried about the price he was getting, the auctioneer told him a little later, "We're doing the best we can." Still more tears flowed.

Perhaps because of the tears, but mostly because it was obvious that Kenneth was truthfully, sorrowfully frightened for his friend Oscar, and not at all worried about the price he was getting, the bidding went higher and higher, until it reached $2.50 a pound, the same price that had been paid for the grand champion lamb.

As Kenneth left the sale ring, his head hung and his hand on the lamb, the auctioneer asked the high bidder, Don Fratz of Fratz's Mobile Home Sales in Oakland and Accident, "Don't you think you should give this boy back his lamb?"

Everyone around the sale ring got quiet. Spectators and buyers alike held their breath, waiting for Mr. Fratz's answer. "Yes," he said. The crowd gave him a long round of applause, that was the answer they had been hoping for.

That night, Kenneth and Oscar went home together to the family farm near Friendsville; tired, relieved, and happy.

Kenneth's parents, Larry and Louise Groves, are just not sure how they feel about all of this. "I hope he can keep the lamb," Kenneth's mother said. "And he will for a while yet. It's such a pet." Both of the boy's parents feel a strong commitment to Mr. Fratz, the buyer, because he paid such a good price, in good faith, for the lamb.

Mr. Fratz, though, says that he didn't feel any pressure to make the decision he did. "I felt it was a pity to see the boy suffer," he said.

The family plans to visit him next week to discuss some options; something that would show how much they appreciate his kindness. One of the options the family is considering is to raise another lamb, of equal quality, but not a pet, to give to Mr. Fratz.

"We knew there would be problems," said Mrs. Groves. "Kenneth cried every day last week (the week before the fair). He's such a feeling, compassionate boy, and Oscar is such a pet. We tried to get him to accept it, but he just wasn't able to."

So for now, thanks to Don Fratz and Fratz's Mobile Home Sales, Kenneth and Oscar are happily spending all the time together they can before school begins next week. "I guess if Kenneth ever raises another lamb, it will be a ewe," his mother said. "One he won't have to sell!"

Garrett's Farm Queen Attends State Contest

"Jodi did very well; she was a fine representative of Garrett County." This comment by one county Farm Bureau member reflected the feelings of all those who attended the State Farm Queen Contest in Timonium on Sunday to watch Garrett County's Farm Queen, Jodi Rush, take part in the Maryland Farm Bureau/Maryland State Fair sponsored activity.

Judges for this year's contest were Linda Trader of the Virginia Farm Bureau; Dr. Hugh Binks of the Maryland Department of Agriculture; and Gene Swackhamer of the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore. Music for the contest was provided by "The New Beginnings", a statewide 4-H musical group.

The 1985 Maryland Farm Queen, Mary King, crowned the new 1986 Maryland Farm Queen, Adrienne Shaffer, of Frederick County, during the 7 p.m. ceremony in the Cow Palace at the Maryland State Fair.

The Queen's court includes a Western Maryland girl, Wendy Ann Snow, of Allegany County, first runner-up. The rest of the court for 1986 is: Karen Fleishell, Howard County, second runner-up; Tonna Caple, Carroll County, third; and Marjorie Gilbert, Cecil County, fourth.

The new Queen will spend the year traveling across the state to speak up for agriculture.

Congressmen Are Briefed On Maryland Drought

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr. briefed the state's Congressional Delegation in Washington on the drought crisis facing Maryland agriculture and appealed for help in cutting federal red tape connected with relief programs.

Present for the briefing, held in the Capitol on August 14, were the state's two U.S. Senators, Charles McC Mathias Jr. and Paul S. Sarbanes and Representatives Roy Dyson, Helen Delich Bentley, Barbara Mikulski, Beverly Byron and Parren Mitchell. Those unable to attend were represented by senior staff members.

Appealing for their help in securing "clear and flexible treatment from USDA on the various measures that agency can employ to assist Maryland agriculture through this period," Secretary Cawley said he believes the USDA's Emergency Feed Program, "should be broadened to make provision for dairymen in purchasing supplies of fodder (silage and hay)."

He also outlined measures the state of Maryland is taking as a result of a series of agriculture drought initiatives announced by Governor Hughes on July 31. The most visible of these efforts is the "Maryland Haylift" operation coordinated by the Maryland Department of Agriculture which is bringing in donated hay supplies from California, Ohio, Michigan and Massachusetts by rail, and large quantities from Pennsylvania by truck.

"Crop prices for the oncoming harvest are giving our farmers a double economic whammy," Cawley noted, "because not only are many Maryland farmers going to harvest half or less of their normal yields, but they will find the price they receive for what they do sell will be below the cost of production due to large carry-over supplies and a bumper harvest looming in other growing sections of the country."

The Congressional delegation was quick to react to Cawley. Senator Mathias said, "We are set up to pass this bill (H.R. 5288) as expeditiously as possible in the Senate without going to committee." H.R. 5288 is a measure designed to broaden emergency USDA programs recently passed the House by a 418-0 vote.

Secretary Cawley, upon returning from the briefing, said "Congress was within several days of recessing. The fact that so many members of the Maryland Delegation were able to pry time out of their hectic schedules shows their concern and support of Agriculture. I'm sure they will help in anyway they can and will line up support from other members of Congress towards these ends."

Accompanying Cawley for the briefing was State Drought Coordinator Robert L. Walker.

Potomac Fever Deaths Down From Past Years

Martin G. Robl, the Potomac horse fever coordinator for Maryland, says the number of equine deaths attributable to confirmed cases of Potomac fever is down markedly this summer. Robl, an assistant professor at the College Park campus of the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine, reports that although deaths are down, the number of suspected cases so far in Maryland and Virginia is about in line with the past two or three years.

Through June 30, there had been 35 suspected cases of Potomac horse fever in Maryland and six in Virginia, Robl reported. But there had been no deaths in either state which could be traced to confirmed cases of the disease.

For the entire 1985 season there were 117 cases and eight deaths. Since the disease was first recognized in 1979, there have been 518 cases and 115 deaths among Maryland's horse population.

The disease has been concentrated in Montgomery and Frederick counties in Maryland, and in adjoining Virginia counties along the Potomac river. Hence the name, Potomac horse fever. The mountains of Western Maryland have been free of the disease. However, it has been a worry to horsemen traveling to shows or those taking their horses into the Potomac River area for breeding or training.

Since 1979, the disease has been diagnosed in Pennsylvania, Illinois and a number of other states, mostly along rivers and other bodies of water. A portion of the Hudson River valley in New York is another area where the disease recently has been suspected. The exact means by which the disease spreads is still unknown. But suspicions point toward an insect that lives near water.

A major reason for the sharp drop in equine deaths is that veterinarians and horse-owners in the affected areas of Maryland and Virginia have learned to recognize early symptoms of the disease, says Robl. This permits early treatment of an animal before the infection becomes serious.

Some recent reports have inferred that a rapid diagnostic test is available for veterinarians to use in the field. Identified as a Latex agglutination plate test, it is supposed to give far faster results than the indirect fluorescent antibody (IFA) test currently being used in the College Park state veterinary diagnostic laboratory of the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

Robl has some misgivings about the test, however. He says that both the Maryland IFA test and the recently developed Latex agglutination test simply indicate the presence of antibodies to Potomac horse fever in an animal's blood. They do not distinguish between antibodies produced in response to a current infection or those which may have been produced in response to a previous infection.

Research work at the University of Maryland has shown that these antibodies may be present in a horse for at least one year, and as long as five or six years, after exposure to the organism which produces Potomac horse fever.

In order to test the new procedure more thoroughly, Robl has proposed that the state veterinary diagnostic laboratory at College Park turn over horse serum samples to him after the official IFA tests for Potomac horse fever has been completed.

The University of Maryland veterinary laboratory will then run comparative tests using the new Latex agglutination test and, possibly, the university's own ELISA (enzyme-linked immunosorbent assay) technique which is still in the development stage.

Robl says that the University of Maryland's ELISA technique has the potential for giving even faster results than the Latex agglutination test. And it also promises to have the sensitivity needed for accurate diagnosis.

The goal of Robl and his fellow researchers is to come up with some answers by the end of this summer so that a useful diagnostic tool will be available next year to keep the number of equine deaths from climbing again.

North Garrett FFA in the Garrett County Fair. "After attending the Garrett County Fair, I feel it was a huge success this year, because of the hard work and dedication of everyone involved," he said.

"Two of these very involved people were North Garrett FFA members, Darla Broadwater and Jennifer Birkby. Both members exhibited market steers at the fair. Through many hours of hard work during the year, as well as at the fair, both steers were fine examples of high quality work. Darla also placed first in the showmanship contest for her division. A job very well done," said Deal.

He went on to say that he will encourage more of this type of involvement at the county fair, in many different areas such as livestock and crops, by chapter members.

"Greater participation in FFA activities throughout the year, and in regional and state activities, will be a major part of the program," the new teacher stated.

Drought Myths Countered By Md. Farm Bureau

Myths and rumors surround efforts to help drought-stricken farmers throughout Maryland, according to the state's largest farm organization. And Maryland Farm Bureau President Robert Wilson said he wants to "put those rumors to bed, and concentrate on getting through to next spring."

Wilson said, "We're concerned about rumors we are hearing, and want to set the record straight on what farmers are facing because of the drought."

Myth number one: With free hay and federal emergency programs, Maryland farmers will hardly feel the effects of the drought at all.

Donated hay is only a temporary solution, says Wilson.

Dairy and livestock farmers will have to find cash to buy hay and grain throughout the winter, until pastures start growing again next spring.

Federal assistance programs are helpful to farmers who qualify for them, but no program has all of the answers. Eligibility requirements prevent many farmers from participating in government disaster programs, and there are not many direct aid programs for producers of grain, produce, sod, and trees.

Agricultural observers anticipate many farmers will have trouble securing operating loans for next year's crop.

Myth number two: Enough hay has been donated to Maryland dairy and livestock farmers to feed their cows through the winter.

"Maryland farmers are very grateful for the generous donations of emergency hay from around the country. In many cases donated bales represent a tremendous contribution from individual farmers anxious to help. But this hay will soon run out," explained Wilson.

4-H/FFA TOP TRACTOR OPERATORS — These winners and contestants in the 4-H/FFA Tractor Operator's Contest at the Garrett County Fair were tested on their ability to safely drive through an obstacle course, back a two-wheeled trailer and a four-wheeled wagon. The contest also included a written examination and a trouble shooting maintenance exam. Pictured above, front row left to right, are: Mike Bishoff, first place intermediate; and Bill Bishoff, first place senior. Bill will compete in the Maryland State Fair Tractor Operator's Contest tomorrow. In the second row, same order, are: Chad Malone, second place senior; Jeremy Gordon, second place intermediate; and Mike Keppie, third place intermediate. In the back row, same order, are: Charles DeBerry and David Rounds, contestants; and Larry Miller of Springs Equipment in Springs, Pa., a sponsor and volunteer assistant for the contest. The other sponsors of the contest were Cecil E. Jackson Equipment of Oakland, and Arnold Brothers Equipment of Oakland. Also assisting with the contest were Debbie Fulk, statistician; Ted Sprangel, extension agent; Steve Kisher, SHS vo-ag instructor; and Larry Deal, NHS vo-ag instructor. Not present for the photo were Randy Tichnell, third place senior; Eddie Meeks, first place junior; and Ty Miller, second place junior.

A typical dairy cow will eat between four and 10 pounds of hay a day. Using an average of seven pounds, each cow will need three-fourths of a ton of hay between September 1, 1986, and April 1, 1987, the Farm Bureau president stated. He went on to say that a beef cow normally eats 10-15 pounds of hay per day. Some livestock farmers have run out of hay already. Many more will deplete their supplies in November and December, and have to buy enough to last until spring.

Myth number three: The drought is just a temporary crisis.

The 1986 drought has long-range implications. Some Maryland ag leaders predict that 10 percent of the state's farmers will go out of business this year; either voluntarily or by foreclosure.

"It has already affected farm lenders, machinery dealers, feed, fertilizer and chemical suppliers," said Wilson. "Income will be down for rural hardware stores and other businesses that serve farmers. In a few counties, agri-businesses have already laid off employees.

"The results of stress on farm families are unpredictable," Wilson continued. "Farmers or their wives may be forced to look for off-farm work, and other forms of extra income."

Myth number four: Only poor farm managers will take a beating because of the drought. "Smart" managers planned for it.

According to Wilson, if a farmer has advance warning, it is possible to "outwit" a drought by planting particular crops that can better stand dry weather. But Mother Nature rarely provides such a warning. "This drought did not discriminate," Wilson said. "It did not devastate poor managers and spare good ones."

4-H Families Attend State Fair

Several 4-H members and their families attended the Maryland State Fair at Timonium on Sunday, August 24, as part of a Garrett County 4-H sponsored bus trip.

In addition to seeing the fair exhibits and attending the Governor's Volunteer Appreciation Day Ceremony, those attending watched the 4-H Dairy Goat Fitting and Showing Contest, the Sheep Lead Contest, the Washed Lamb Fitting and Showing Contest, the Senior Level English Horse Show, and the State Farm Queen Contest.

Individuals who attended were: Ron and Debbie Fulk; Randy, Julia, and Janet Tichnell; John, Jean, Sam, Teresa and John Charles Wright; Melvin, Dorothy and Andrew Beckman; Karen and Patty Jo Lohr; Becky and Bonnie Klotz; Jean and Sara Hutzel; Alice and Karen Wilhelm; Joan and Ed Wayne Wilhelm; Don Sealing; Jenny Weller; Verna Hutzel; Bill DeWitt, bus driver; and Alice E. Hevner, Extension agent.

Country Kids Plan Lasagna Dinner

The Country Kids 4-H Club is planning a lasagna dinner to be held on September 19 at the Crellin Community Building. To be served from 5 to 8 p.m., the menu will include lasagna, applesauce, cole slaw, roll with butter and jelly, and yellow or chocolate cake.

The cost of the meal will be $3.50 for adults and $2 for children under 12.

Plans for the dinner will be finalized at the club's next meeting on September 16 at the Deer Park Community Building at 7 p.m.

Passenger pigeons plagued mid-nineteenth century Garrett farmers because of their grain eating habits and their vast numbers.

Fall Seeding Alfalfa

Fall seedings of alfalfa can be the most successful time to establish a stand of alfalfa. Probably the greatest benefit of fall seedings is the weed population is much lower than in the spring. Also, the soil is warm promoting faster seed germination. Be sure the phosphorus and potash levels are high. Phosphorus helps develop root systems and potash increases winter hardiness. Also select a well drained field. When selecting a variety of alfalfa, make sure you consider the stem size. Fine stem alfalfa will dry down much quicker. The cut-off date for seeding alfalfa in Garrett County is September 1.

Watch Out For Hay-Buying Tricks

Throughout the Nation there are a lot of farmers who fall victim to hay-buying tricks. Some of the common pitfalls in selling or buying hay include checks that bounce, bogus scale tickets, trucks delivering less hay than loaded, sellers switching hay quality, truckers jockeying fuel in and out of gas tanks to change weights. If you are dealing with a new customer, ask for references. Fortunately, most dealers and brokers are honest; however, one bad apple can cause a lot of trouble.

Advantages of Cover Crops

It is good to see more farmers using cover crops on barren soil. There are several advantages that come back to you. 1) The long term advantage is soil conservation. 2) Better weed control by shading and crowding out weeds. There is also some evidence that Rye & Wheat produce a "natural herbicide" that is toxic to some weeds. Research has indicated that Rye roots produce a chemical that is toxic to Redroot Pigweed and Lambsquarters and that wheat roots slow the growth of Morning Glory and Prickly Sida. 3) Reduces nitrogen fertilizer costs on corn. 4) The addition of organic matter that improves soil fertility and soil structure. 5) Increases soil moisture. 6) Provides feed for animals in the spring. In our area small grains do very well as cover crops.

THE WORLD IS NOT

A hearing loss in one ear (unilateral) is not nearly as handicapping as a bilateral (two-ear) loss. A person with a hearing loss in one ear will have some difficulty in hearing sounds that come from the direction of the "bad" ear. He may have a hard time locating sounds and estimating the distance from which the sounds originate. This lack of spatial orientation may create some problems in group conversation situations. Music may seem "flat." If such problems are of significant bother, it makes sense to investigate the purchase of a hearing aid for the poorer ear. There may be enough usable hearing left to make it possible to enjoy well-rounded hearing.

No matter which way you turn, the answer to your hearing difficulties may await you at ALLEGANY HEARING & SPEECH ASSOCIATES. We offer the hearing instruments that have been developed with the latest technology. Your hearing and your happiness could be only a step away. So step in today to ALLEGANY HEARING & SPEECH ASSOCIATES and let our friendly staff "sound off."

Organ Donation Brings Hope, Health; Offers Life After Death On Earth

by Brenda Ruggiero

A high-speed automobile crash claims the life of a healthy teenager in a split second. At that same moment, a small boy lies dying in a hospital bed. His only chance for survival is a heart transplant.

A medical team works quickly and efficiently to salvage the unharmed heart of the teenager, which is then transferred to the weak body of the child, bringing a new-found hope. One family's tragedy becomes another's salvation.

"Through the generosity of organ and tissue donation and the advancement of transplantation, hundreds of individuals have been given a 'second chance' to life. Still, many adults and children die while waiting for donations. At present, the need for organs and tissue far exceeds the availability. Only through the kindness of donations can we meet the demands," said a spokesman for the West Virginia Transplant Program, Charleston, W.Va.

A pamphlet from the Human Gift Registry, Morgantown, W.Va., reads, "To donate one's body to health sciences is a noble, compassionate and humanitarian gesture. The benefits to mankind are very real. After death, the body can become a source of life to others. Many different kinds of tissues and organs can be used successfully for transplantation. Yet, the lack of enough donors is a critical and limiting factor."

Larry Beck, president of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, noted that because of the highly specialized sophistication involved in organ transplants, the hospital cannot perform them. However, if someone wishes to donate an organ, the hospital will call a transplant center to come in and remove the organ. Beck stressed the fact that conditions and timing are critical for donation, but every effort will be made to comply with the donor's wishes.

Transplant Needs

One of the most frequently performed transplants is the cornea transplant. Over 24,000 cornea transplants were performed in 1984, with a success rate of 90 percent. However, approximately 3,500 people are still awaiting corneas.

The eyes may be donated at any age, and in many cases, the corneas are suitable for transplant even in advanced years.

Ideally, the eyes should be taken within six to eight hours after death, but, in certain conditions they can be taken as late as 24 hours after death.

Approximately 80,000 people in the United States suffer from kidney failure, and must depend on a kidney machine and treatments to live. Although nearly 7,000 kidney transplants were performed in 1984, approximately 12,000 people are waiting for kidneys.

One-year patient survival rates for kidney transplants from living relatives are over 96 percent, and rates for the recipients of kidneys from deceased donors reach over 90 percent.

Bone transplants are needed for joint reconstruction and replacement, bone defects, spinal fusion, and filling bone cavities which are caused by disease or trauma.

In 1984, over 100,000 bone transplants were performed, and some 1,000 bone marrow transplants. Bone transplantation success rates are operation specific, and average about 80 percent.

Each year, over 100,000 burn victims benefit from the use of human skin for grafts to promote healing. Skin must be taken within 12 to 24 hours after death, and may be used from donors of almost any age.

Nearly 25,000 people each year die from liver disease. However, fewer liver transplants are possible than with other organs, because age, weight, and other factors are very critical.

Nearly 300 liver transplants were performed in 1984, with approximately 300 people still on waiting lists. The one-year survival rate for liver transplants is 65 to 70 percent.

The full need for lung transplants is not known. However, lung transplantation is not considered a treatment at this time, but a life or death emergency procedure.

Nearly 400 heart transplants were performed in 1984, and one-year survival rates for patients have increased to 80 percent. Nearly 100 persons are awaiting heart transplants.

Normally, the upper-age limit for heart donors is 45 to 50 years, dependent on the condition of the heart at the time of death.

Pancreas transplants are becoming more successful in the treatment of diabetes, one of the nation's leading causes of death.

Eighty-seven full pancreas transplants were performed in 1984, with approximately 50 patients still on the waiting list. No figures are presently available for partial transplants. One-year survival rates are 35 to 40 percent, and are increasing. Pancreas donors can be up to 65 years old, depending on the health of both the donor and the organ.

Seventeen combination heart/lung transplants were performed in 1984, with some 50 people awaiting transplants. Survival rates are unknown at the present, but the procedure offers more hope than with lung transplants alone.

The decision to accept or reject tissue or organs for research or transplant must be made at the time of death by medical teams, because only medically acceptable parts of the body can be used. The only factor that determines if a donation can be made is the medical condition of the organs to be used.

Organ tissue and removal need not interfere with funeral arrangements in any way, because there is no disfigurement involved. Donation does not delay or increase the cost of a funeral, and family members need not pay for the donation.

Body Donations

Representatives of the Human Gift Registry stress that, "In research, too, the body can be utilized to great advantage. One frequently reads about new medical discoveries. These discoveries result mostly from the intensive research activities carried out in our nation's medical centers. Because of such research, the average life expectancy in many countries, including the United States, has been lengthened significantly."

"Formal medical training in human anatomy is the foundation for a doctor's skill and knowledge. Basic anatomical training comes early in the curriculum for all medical, dental, nursing and physical therapy students. They also study the structure of the human body as it relates to surgery, cardiology, orthopedics, ophthalmology, neurology, dermatology and many other specialty fields."

"The body is used not only to teach the necessary details of structure and function, but also to develop vital skills in clinical procedures and techniques. Serious and dedicated study of the human body is absolutely essential in order to develop the professional competence health professionals must have to provide quality health care for all."

Anyone 18 years old or older may be a donor. After a person's death, at any age, the body may be donated by the family or those legally responsible for disposition. However, the recipient may choose not to accept a body donated by the family if it was against the individuals wishes at the time of death.

After the body is used for medical study the remains are cremated and normally placed in a memorial vault or sent to the family if they prefer.

Only a small percentage of bodies used for health sciences are unclaimed bodies, and bodies cannot be sold to science according to Federal law.

A will or attorney is not needed for donation. The donor may simply complete a donation form, which is the equivalent of a will. However, family members should be notified of the donor's wishes.

"Organ transplants are literally medical miracles - truly gifts of life. Many thousands are on waiting lists for life-saving or life-enhancing transplants. Organs and tissues are needed for medical research. These needs must be met," said a spokesman for the Living Bank.

Many families of Garrett County citizens have already participated in organ donation, and have experienced the satisfaction of giving a new chance at life to someone in need.

The following letter was written to Donald Grubb, Oakland, following the donation of his wife's kidneys and corneas after she died of a stroke three years ago at the age of 54.

Dear Mr. Grubb:

On behalf of all of us associated with the Transplant Foundation at the University of Pittsburgh, I wish to extend our sincere condolences on the tragic death of your wife, Mrs. Armeta Grubb, and to tell you how appreciative we are for your kind donation of her kidneys for transplants.

The kidneys were found to be in fine condition and were transplanted within 24 hours. The recipient of the right kidney is a 35 year old man who is married and the father of three children. He had been sustained on the artificial kidney machine for over 13 months awaiting his chance at transplantation, which prevented his fulfilling his financial and family responsibilities.

The left kidney was received by a 51 year old woman who is the mother of six children and the sole support of her family. She had also been maintained with artificial kidney machine therapy and unable to adequately care for the needs of her family. The kidneys functioned spontaneously in the operating room and each of our patients and their grateful families are deeply appreciative of the opportunity you have given them for this second chance at life.

I know this has been a painful experience for you and your family. I hope you can find some small comfort in knowing you have given restored health and hope to two very ill people through your generous gift of your wife's kidneys for transplantation. I believe this will be a lasting memorial to her.

Thank you for this most precious gift of life.
Sincerely yours,

Frantz Seeks Re-Election To GOP Committee

Paul J. Frantz, Deer Park, has filed for re-election to the Republican State Central Committee. He is presently employed by the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett County as a deputy clerk. He has held that position for nearly 10 years.

Frantz is a 1966 graduate of Southern High School and attended Catherman's Business School in Cumberland, where he received a degree in accounting and business machines. He entered the United States Army in 1968 and served a one-year tour of duty in South Vietnam where he received the Army Commendation Medal.

After the candidate was honorably discharged, he entered Garrett Community College and received his associate of arts degree in business administration. He also attended Frostburg State College.

Frantz was elected as chairman of the Republican State Central Committee in 1982 and currently holds the office of secretary. He is an associate member of the Court Clerk's association, an honorary member of the Deer Park Fire Department, past president and treasurer of the Mt. Top Softball League, a candidate for National Committeeman in 1985 and served on the credentials and resolution committees at

Operation CARE To Be Utilized By State Police Over Labor Day

The Maryland State Police are uniting with law enforcement agencies nationwide over the Labor Day weekend for Operation C.A.R.E., the Combined Accident Reduction Effort.

Operation C.A.R.E. is a concentrated enforcement effort on 55 mph highways designed to reduce accidents associated with increased holiday travel.

During the 1985 Labor Day holiday period, 10 persons were killed in the state in traffic mishaps. In an attempt to reduce the number of fatalities and accidents, police will be monitoring traffic patterns with particular emphasis on speed, alcohol, seat belts usage and other hazards on the interstate highway system.

In Maryland, troopers will be strictly enforcing the seat belt law. State Police Superintendent Colonel George B. Brosan has ordered State troopers to issue citations only for violations of the seat belt law during the Labor Day weekend.

Maryland State Troopers will be operating conventional, as well as unconventional, vehicles using radar, VASCAR, and other methods to reduce the number of traffic accidents, deaths and related injuries, as well as property loss.

Troopers from the Special Traffic Enforcement Unit will be patrolling highways leading to and from the resort areas of the Eastern Shore. This unit includes the Bus and Truck Patrol and the Motorcycle Enforcement Unit.

The 55 mph speed limit will also be enforced from above. State Police airplanes will be used in aerial speed enforcement on the interstate highways.

A larger number of troopers will be patrolling the highways and active in community affairs and he would like to see the Democratic Party of Garrett County continue to grow.

Opel is self-employed in the salvage business. Beatrice C. Opel will be serving as his campaign treasurer.

Frantz is married to the former Deborah L. Filsinger and they are the parents of two sons, Brandon and Nathan. Mrs. Frantz is employed with the Department of Juvenile Services of Garrett County.

Frantz noted that he would like to continue to serve the Republican Party. He has named his father, James E. Frantz, to be his campaign treasurer. The candidate will appear in the ballot on the bottom row as number 16-H.

Bruce B. Opel Seeking Seat On Demo Committee

Bruce B. Opel, a resident of Garrett County's District II, has announced that he has filed for the office of Democratic State Central Committee.

Opel is the son of Beatrice Opel, Long Stretch and the late Earl E. Opel.

He was graduated from Northern High School in 1976. He was active in sports and other activities.

Opel is an active member of the Garrett County Democratic Club, for which he has served as chairperson for several projects. He says he is interested

Crawford Notes Candidacy For GOP Committee

William E. Crawford Jr., present chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, has announced his candidacy for re-election to that committee. He has been a member of the committee since 1982 and has served as chairman for the past two years.

According to Crawford, the Central Committee is an important part of the Democratic elective process, beginning at the grass roots level in the communities and helping to form a communications network with the statewide and national Republican organizations.

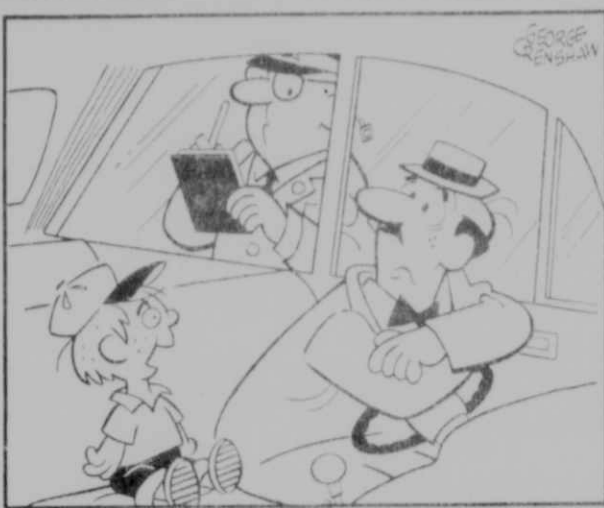

He sees the Central Committee's major functions as promoting voter registration and getting people out to vote, disseminating information locally from state and national Republican organizations, recommending the best qualified candidates for appointive boards and offices and representing Garrett County at statewide Republican meetings.

On this year's coming elections, he states, "The Republican party in Maryland is presently on a roll. While we have many interesting local races, we should also look forward to the statewide and national races coming up. It will take the best effort from all good Republicans to assure victory in November."

Crawford and his family have been summer residents of Garrett County since 1954 and permanent residents since 1971. He and his wife, Joan, live in the Hazelhurst area of Deep Creek Lake. They have two daughters, Susan Crawford Higgins, general counsel to the United States Army, and Dr. Mike McLaughlin, counselor at Frostburg State College, and three granddaughters.

The candidate is past president of the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, past zone chairman for District 1, a member of the Ali Ghan Shrine, American Legion, Deep Creek Yacht Club, past member of the Deep Creek Zoning Board and a member of the Garrett County Board of Realtors. He is a sales representative for Mountaineer Log and Siding Company and A & A Realty, Better Homes and Gardens.

From 1900-1985, 105 million tons of coal have been extracted from Garrett County.

"HEY, DAD... WHEN YOU HAVE HIS BADGE TAKEN AWAY, CAN I HAVE IT?"

over the holiday weekend. Colonel Brosan has ordered that all available personnel be used for uniform patrol to increase the effectiveness of the enforcement effort.

Maryland State Police will continue to work with the International Association of Chiefs of Police, Inc., and AT&T in a program to report incidents of driving while intoxicated on the interstate highway system. Motorists using Interstate 95 in Maryland will be able to report drunk drivers by calling a nationwide toll free hotline, 1-800-525-5555. The hotline will operate 24 hours a day and will handle calls concerning drunk driving and other traffic offenses and roadway hazards along Maryland's portion of Interstate 95.

Operation C.A.R.E. is an effort by Maryland State Police to increase public safety on Maryland highways. As State Police increase their efforts during the holiday weekend, it is hoped the Maryland tourist will also increase his or her awareness to highway safety.

State Police Colonel George B. Brosan said, "We need the continued support of the motoring public to help us reduce the unnecessary carnage occurring on our highways. I urge all motorists to buckle up, obey the posted speed limit, and not drink and drive."

EXPRESSIONS OF SYMPATHY

Many people desire to express their sympathy by sending flowers or some other memorial in addition to extending their condolences in person. Others do this because they cannot attend either the visitation or the service.

For the most part, those who wish to demonstrate their feelings should be able to do so, in the way they prefer and which is most natural for them. Flowers, for example, have a message all their own—one which is universal. They also add beauty to the casket setting and to the funeral service.

While it is considered proper for the family to suggest a certain memorial (such as a donation to a particular charity), this should not be done in such a manner as to exclude alternate expressions of sympathy. It should also be presented in such a way so as not to be construed as a tangible solicitation of sympathy. The funeral director can advise on these and similar matters.

VITAMIN FACTS

FACT 1 — Vitamins are substances that are required in very small quantities for the body to maintain normal growth and function.

FACT 2 — Vitamins do not enhance sexual prowess, promote physical endurance, prevent heart attacks, slow the aging process or treat hangovers as some advertising suggests.

FACT 3 — Vitamins are considered food supplements until they are taken in large amounts (mega-doses). When taken in mega-doses or in amounts that exceed at least ten times the Recommended Daily Allowance (RDA), vitamins turn into toxic drugs with all of the resulting adverse reactions and side effects that can accompany potent chemicals.

FACT 4 — Natural vitamins are no better than synthetic ones, only more expensive. Your stomach can't tell the difference between a natural vitamin and a synthetic vitamin because they're both exactly the same molecule. What's surprising is that natural vitamins contain a number of impurities since they are manufactured from plant and animal sources. These impurities serve no useful purpose and only expose you to unknown chemicals which you might react to. Even more surprising is the fact that natural vitamins must be adulterated with synthetic binders and preservatives in order to maintain their tablet shape.

Stallings Named
Unit Director

Helen D. Stallings, Cumberland, has been named the American Cancer Society's unit executive director for Allegany and Garrett counties, according to Phyllis Mason, Western Area Director of the Maryland Division, Inc. of that voluntary health organization, dedicated to the control and eradication of cancer. Miss Stallings assumed the position of unit executive director July 21. A native of Cumberland, Miss Stallings was graduated from Western Maryland College with a bachelor's degree in biology and recently completed graduate work at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. She received a master of science degree in public health in the Community Health Education program area. While completing her graduate degree, Miss Stallings was employed as a health educator with the Passenger Safety Program of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health in Boston. Her work experience also includes a position as a health education consultant with the Southeast Asian Refugee Education Project of the University of Massachusetts' Division of Nursing.

Miss Stallings will work with Cancer Society volunteers from both Garrett and Allegany counties, as well as with volunteers and staff of the Maryland Division of the ACS. The local office is located in the Smith Building at 111 South George Street in downtown Cumberland. The American Cancer Society is a volunteer organization that provides public and professional education to the community, material and personal services and rehabilitation to local cancer patients, and opportunities for community residents and businesses to support the work of the ACS and cancer research through special events, memorial and legacy programs, and the annual residential crusade in April. Miss Stallings stated that one of her goals is to increase the volunteer membership in both counties. Volunteers are needed to transport patients to treatment, to present educational programs to local schools, clubs, and workplaces, to assist with fundraising events, and to provide clerical assistance at the unit office. Those persons interested in volunteering are invited to visit the Cumberland office or to call 722-2145.

Bittinger Earns
VVA Scholarship

Vietnam Veterans of America of Allegany County have selected Wyatt Carroll Bittinger, son of Mrs. Pauline L. Bittinger, Barton, as the recipient of the Vietnam Veteran Memorial Scholarship for the coming academic year at Allegany Community College, according to Bryan Hall, president of Chapter 172, VVA.

According to Edie Parsons, chairman of the selection committee, Bittinger is a 1985 graduate of Valley High School and the Allegany County Vocational-Technical Center. In high school he was a member of the Valley Band and selected to participate in both the Allegany County Junior and Senior High School Honor Band. Bittinger was also recognized as an outstanding teen by the Outstanding Teens of America program and was named to Who's Who in American Schools. He is an Eagle Scout in Troop No. 25 and a member of Potomac Council Order of the Arrow.

Bittinger will be a sophomore in the Electromechanical Technology program at ACC and is secretary of the ACC Electromechanical Technology Club.

Funds for this scholarship award were made by Dr. Robert Gilpin in memory of his mother. According to Gilpin, his mother had "a great respect and appreciation for the men and women who served our country in time of war."

Bittinger is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll G. DeWitt and great-grandson of J. Milton DeWitt, all of Accident.

FOOD PRESERVATION TIP
When canning tomatoes, do not use tomatoes which are overmature or which come from frost-killed or disease-killed vines. These tomatoes are lower in acid than healthy tomatoes and therefore not as resistant to the growth of botulinum bacteria.

To be safe, acidify all home grown tomatoes by adding 1 tablespoon of bottled lemon juice per pint or 2 tablespoons per quart to all tomato products. Bottled, not fresh lemon juice should be used because the acid content of bottled lemon juice is standardized.

A SALUTE TO CAULIFLOWER
Cauliflower has a lot going for it. Most important, like broccoli, cabbage and brussels sprouts, it is one of the "cruciferous" vegetables, which may offer protection against colorectal, stomach and respiratory cancer, according to the American Cancer Society. In addition, one cup of fresh cauliflower (in pieces) supplies more vitamin C than an orange—120% of the recommended daily allowance. It is also high in fiber. At 30 calories and a mere 15 milligrams of sodium per cup, there is hardly an unkind word that can be said about cauliflower.

"EAT SMART" WITH US — The "Eat Smart" computer diet analysis was done for over 300 visitors last week at the Garrett County Fair. The analyses were done at the Garrett County Extension Homemakers Fair Booth, with the space being provided by Proudfoot's Oakland Pharmacy and the computer provided by the Garrett County Health Department. "Eat Smart" is a Pillsbury computer program in which the individual lists the foods eaten in the last 24 hours or in a typical day. The computer then analyzes that diet for protein, vitamin A, vitamin C, thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, calcium, iron, calories, sodium, cholesterol, and percentage of fat. The print-out, which is provided for the individual, also gives information on how to improve the diet. Of those diets analyzed, only three persons had perfect diets. Too much protein and too much fat in the diet were the two most common problems in those diets analyzed. In the female diets seen last week, a lack of calcium and iron were seen most frequently. The program was conducted by Jane Williams, extension home economist (seated at computer above). Persons interested in having their diets analyzed or receiving nutrition information may call Ms. Williams at 334-1990 or visit the Garrett County Extension Office in the Courthouse Annex, Oakland.

In addition, one cup of fresh cauliflower (in pieces) supplies more vitamin C than an orange—120% of the recommended daily allowance. It is also high in fiber. At 30 calories and a mere 15 milligrams of sodium per cup, there is hardly an unkind word that can be said about cauliflower.

Boiling vegetables can sap them of a good part of their nutrients, therefore it is best to steam or microwave cauliflower—but only briefly, so that it stays crisp and retains its mild flavor. Fresh cauliflower is better than the frozen variety which has been shown to have less nutrients than fresh. This vegetable is good to eat raw with dips, though some people have trouble digesting it raw. When shopping for cauliflower, look for white, firm, clean florets with no discoloration. The leaves, which should be green and fresh-looking, are also nutritious and rich in fiber; try them in soups.

"Nine to Nine for 9 to 90," a free day of learning, will be held on September 4, 1986 at Garrett Community College, McHenry. All interested persons are invited to attend. For more information, call 334-1990.

Local Student Wins Scholarship

Peggy Jane Knox, recent graduate of Southern High School, has been named this year's recipient of the Fred G. Hazelwood Scholarship.

Ms. Knox plans to major in mathematics at Alderson-Broadbent College, Philipps, W. Va. This is the first year the scholarship has been given at Southern and the recipient said it was unexpected financial aid for her education.

Dr. Hazelwood, a local dentist in Oakland and Terra Alta, W. Va., said giving a $500 scholarship is a family tradition he wished to continue.

The scholarship is given to a promising student who plans to major in math or sciences in college. In past years the Hazelwood family gave scholarships to students at East Preston High School, Terra Alta.

Alderson-Broadbent College is an accredited liberal arts college which offers baccalaureate degrees in many professional and pre-professional areas.

Golden Completes Internship At Univ. Of Wyoming

Sherri Golden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Golden, Grantsville, recently completed a food service management internship at the University of Wyoming. The internship was sponsored by the Association of College and University Housing Officers-International and the National Association of College and University Food Services (ACUHO-I/NACUFS).

The University of Wyoming, in Laramie, is one of 14 colleges and universities in the United States to have the ACUHO-I/NACUFS program. An application, letters of reference and a personal interview were part of the hiring process. The program was conducted during the university's summer session.

While employed by the University of Wyoming, Ms. Golden assisted in performing management duties such as menu planning, writing employee performance evaluations, assisting in a sanitation advisement program, costing out food items, assisting in the annual inventory and managing a catering event. The program also provided on-the-job training in the food production aspect of the food service.

Ms. Golden also toured many areas of this western region of the United States. While visiting fellow interns at other schools, Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, and the University of Colorado in Boulder were toured. The Denver Broncos training camp at the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley, Colo., was also visited, along with the Adolf Coors Plant in Golden, Colo., Salt Lake City, Utah and Denver were among the larger cities toured during her stay.

Sherri will be a senior at West Virginia University this fall in the School of Human Resources and Education, majoring in dietetics. She is a 1983 graduate of Northern High School and also holds an associate of arts degree in math/science from Garrett Community College.

Am now serving my fifth two year term as Mayor of Min. Lake Park. Have served as Councilman. Am experienced in Federal-State programs, grants management, contract negotiations, personnel supervision, cost control and public relations. Currently serving as President of Allegany-Garrett Chapter of MMI, also Chairman of Mayors' Association.

Answers

1. County governments' role in the "growth-no growth" controversy involving Deep Creek Lake should be the implementation of limited commercial growth policies and preserving the area as a residential center. I feel that the commercialization of the Lake area has reached its saturation point and that the County Commissioner's should be looking at other sources of economic opportunities.

2. The slight reduction in this year's tax rate should have no effect on services currently provided. One must keep in mind the tax increase resulting from new construction and reassessment. There has never been a comprehensive assessment of the types of service offered or needed, nor an evaluation of the services currently provided.

3. County government should do everything possible to provide employment opportunities for its residents. One method of securing new businesses is promote a healthy working environment in our county which would attract outside business ventures. Adequate transportation, water and sewer facilities and an available workforce all help to create this environment.

4. a) a lack of employment opportunities for county residents.

b) maintaining a superior educational system throughout our secondary schools and the community college.

c) balancing growth and development in a manner which keeps Garrett County prosperous without losing the qualities of this county which we all cherish.

Answers

1. I believe that Deep Creek Lake should be a high priority in our government because of the tourist dollars it brings into the County. I would not like to see development block off the Lake to people or pollute it with noise, smoke or any other pollution.

2. County services do not have to be lowered with lower taxes. I believe 50% of the people working for the county could be got rid of. Take a walk through the Courthouse and you could easily see why.

Quality services could be maintained just as good or possibly better with less people.

3. The County should try everything in their power to promote new industries into the County.

How this would be done is impossible to say without further study on the problems.

4. 1. More employment.
2. Better roads.
3. Wiser use of our tax dollars.
4. Limit County cars and trucks to the job only and not for pleasure.

5. Work County workers 8 hours a day, 5 days a week.

6. Put special taxes, like coal, timber, back into the County where they belong.

Answers

1. It is incumbent upon county government to protect the future environmental/recreational quality of the Lake, while encouraging responsible quality development within the watershed. Current planning and zoning regulations provide for input from county government as well as the general public to insure quality development and reasonable standards of density.

2. The effects of the 66¢ reduction in the tax rate over the past four years have been healthy for county government. Excessive tax rates do not guarantee quality services; they usually indicate poor administration, inefficient use of tax dollars, and government trying to do too much for too many!

3. Definitely! County government must foster a healthy business climate, maintain harmonious relations with local businesses, and seek to help (not hinder) their success. We must continue to promote major industries (i.e. tourism, coal, etc.) and actively recruit new businesses to relocate to one of our "ready-to-build" industrial sites.

4. 1) Maintaining a strong, diversified economy which will provide stable employment for our people, new opportunities for business, and an expanding tax base to support basic county services.

2) Maintaining a reasonable tax rate in spite of the growing burden of State regulations and State-mandated programs on county government.

County Commissioner

QUESTIONS FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER CANDIDATES

1. What do you believe is the county government's role in the controversy between economic development and the preservation of Deep Creek Lake?

2. What do you see as significant effects of the lowered property tax rate on county services? What measures would you propose to maintain quality services in the county?

3. Should the county government take steps to reduce unemployment in Garrett County? If so, in what ways might this be done?

4. What do you see as the most important problems facing Garrett County?

1. Development/Tourism is vital to the County. Properly planned it adds, not detracts from the lake. DCL is a planned/zoned area, restricting land abuse. We have Local Advisory Boards to assist us in that final decision over development. Commissioners' decisions must be for the good of the entire County.

2. I see no adverse effect on basic County services provided. Through better management of people and expenses, the County did fully fund Board of Education and Police Protection. Roads Department was in

Answers

1. In the absence of clearly defined responsibility to intervene or arbitrate controversy, the County's role must therefore be assumed. My approach, while lawful and considerate, would be aggressive and dynamic by current administration standards. My role would be mediator. We must foster progress, but not at the expense of ecology.

2. In the short run I see happier voters, but the significance of that effect is limited over the next few weeks to the incumbents, who it seems, have little else to chant about. The real impact is reduced quality and level of programs and services. I propose management by objectives.

3. Yes, if as much time and energy were spent on recruiting industry and jobs to Garrett County as has been on Savage River Whitewater Rafting—1989, we might have already lowered the unemployment rate appreciably. We need also to develop the industrial parks for the benefit of local business enterprise.

4. Unemployment, economic development and environmental protection, health care and assistance to the elderly, and the lack of qualified, principled leadership.

Answers 1. County government should provide leadership and direction toward an acceptable balance between planned development and maintaining the recreational quality of Deep Creek Lake. The right of all property owners deserve to be protected.

The DCL Zoning Regulations and the Lake Management Advisory Committee provide management guidelines.

2. The question implies a detrimental effect. Quite the contrary! An affordable tax rate is an essential ingredient of a sound county economy. Quality basic services, to all county citizens have been and will continue to be maintained by sound and efficient fiscal management.

3. Obviously, yes. Continued vigorous promotion of the County's assets to potential employers. We offer a dependable work force, a healthy living environment, a cooperative county government and an affordable tax structure. County government is working diligently to make Garrett County more accessible through highway/bridge improvement and airport expansion.

4. Unemployment. Our efforts must be unrelenting toward achieving gainful employment for every Garrett County citizen who desires it.

More jobs for our citizens, has been and will continue to be one of my main goals. The establishment of three Industrial Parks in Garrett County is evidence of that commitment.

State Central Committees

VOTE FOR SIX

Central Committees are local political party governing bodies. Republicans and Democrats are the only recognized parties in Maryland. Both parties' central committees are elected for four year terms by the voters of their respective parties in the primary election in a gubernatorial year. Numbers of central committee members vary by jurisdiction.

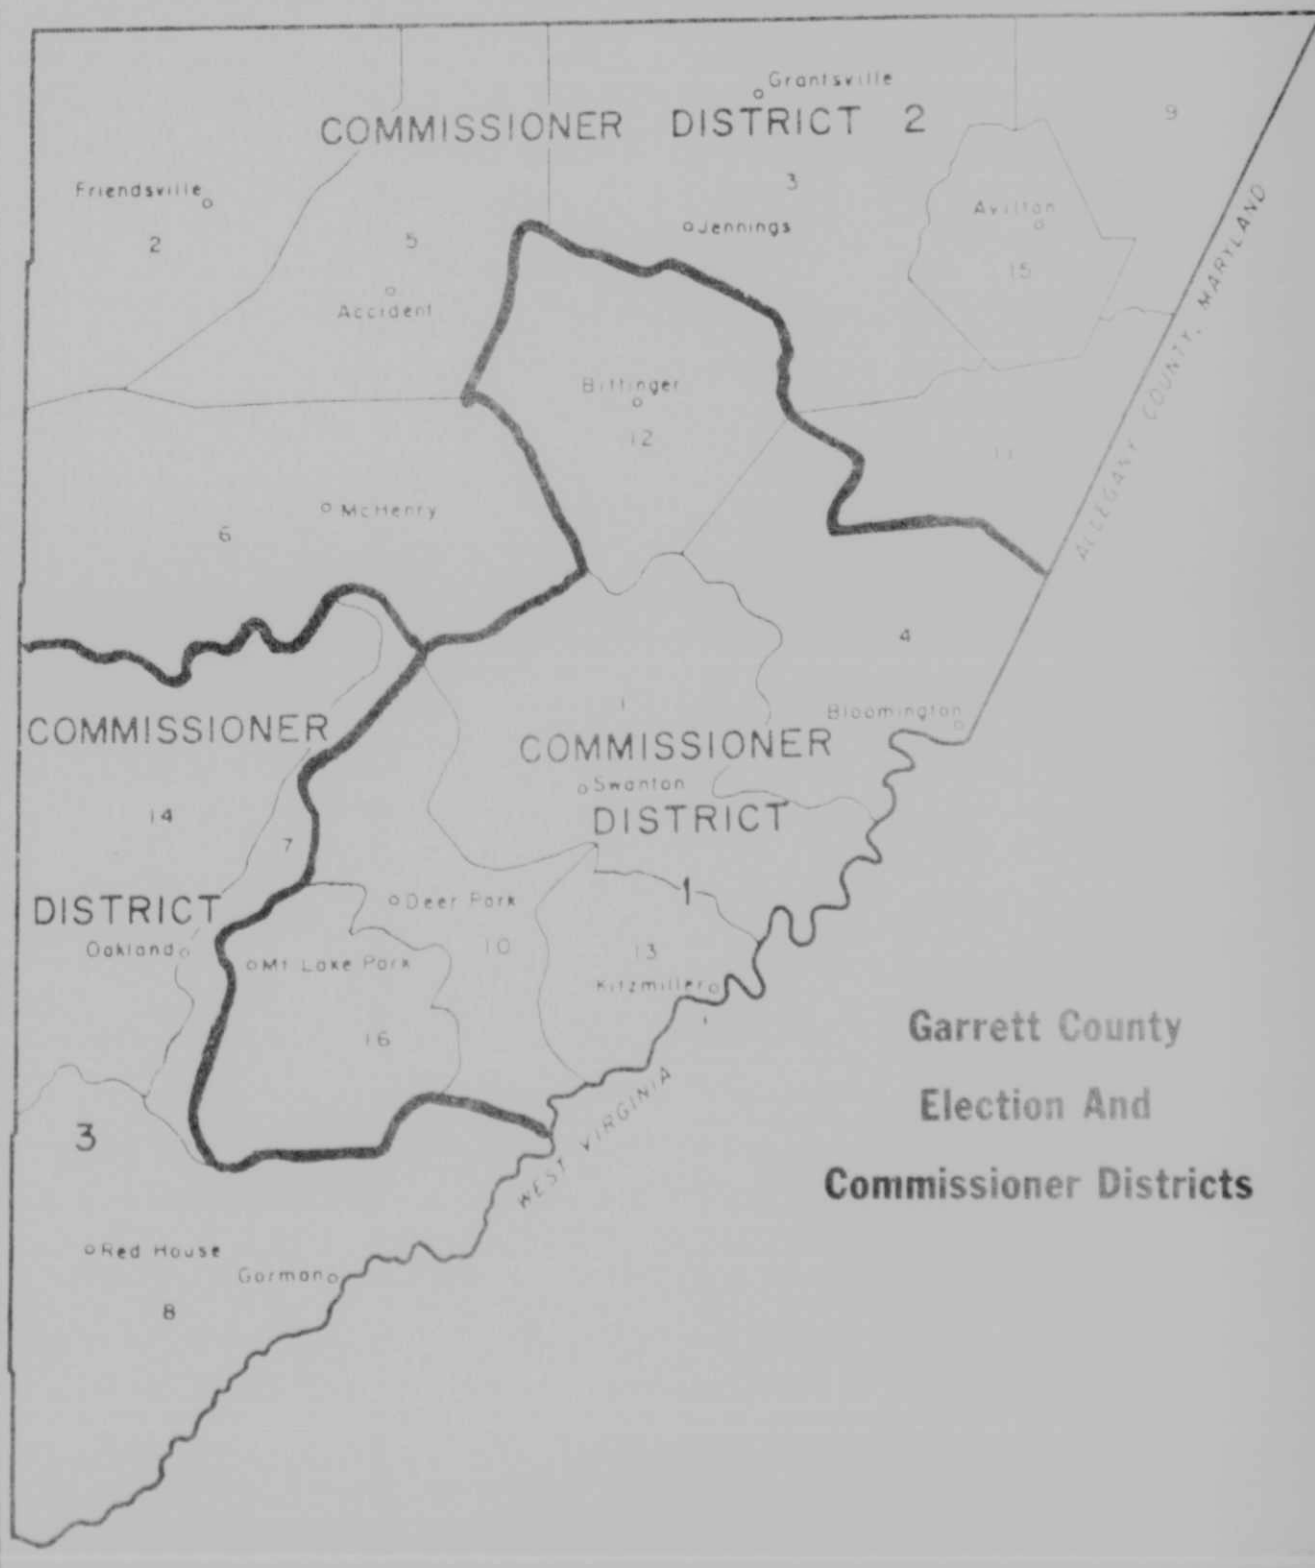

Central committees are required to have local constitutions and elect their chairmen and treasurers. They conduct party business, raise money and support party candidates. An important function, provided by the state constitution, is to recommend persons to fill legislative vacancies. Either by law or tradition, central committees may recommend appointments to local election boards, appointed Boards of Education and vacancies in local legislative bodies.

1. Representing the interests of the citizens of District 1-A major issues to be worked on include - The drug problem, liability insurance concerns, make sure appropriate changes are made at state level in response to Federal tax changes, economic development so our young people can stay here and work.

2. Do what we can within our economic & program capabilities to provide the best educational opportunities for our young people. Work toward full civilet funding which is a help to all sub-divisions and particularly the poorer ones. Add to scholarship funding in an area which the feds are cutting back.

3. The state has programs in place to help provide for the basic needs. There have been increases the last few years and as needed they should be made. There is a program involving several departments to help get people work. We should be moving to a workfare program.

4. The state should thoroughly evaluate programs and decide which ones are needed vs. which ones are nice to have but not necessary. This is starting to be done by the state, as additional money was put in the senior citizens hot meals program and scholarships this past session.

5. The state is evaluating the criteria on how pay for state positions is determined. Discrimination by sex for employment is illegal. There has been a movement to eliminate insurance discrimination based on sex and that movement should continue.

Answers

1. a. Education—fundamental to every other function of government, it is vital to the future of our democracy.

b. The economy—development of public/private partnerships, like establishing enterprise zones, can lead to a stronger economy.

c. Human needs—the elderly, the forgotten, victims of crime, farmers, veterans, volunteer firefighters and rescue personnel.

2. The education of our children is the single most important role of government in our democracy. This State needs to recognize and acknowledge the importance of education—we must focus existing resources on teacher education, teacher recruitment/retention, better educational forecasting, and cooperation among colleges, schools and communities.

3. Provide appropriate incentives for business growth to create an economy which fosters the kind of entrepreneurial spirit on which this nation is built. I sponsored enterprise zone legislation and the Job Training Partnership Act. Continue to provide suitable unemployment insurance programs, training for the long-term unemployed and displaced workers.

4. Our federal system of government is undergoing the most radical changes in the past 40 years. The focus of government will shift to States as providers. The question is not what services are important, but how to use limited resources in a fiscally responsible manner and make the hard choices.

5. I fully support laws already on the books to prohibit employment discrimination. I sponsored Maryland's ERA and other legislation to protect women's rights. The inequities that exist (and some do) are not necessarily the result of discrimination but may result from a variety of factors unrelated to employer discrimination.

VOTE FOR ONE FROM EACH DISTRICT

Three members will be elected to the Garrett County Board of Education - one from each commissioner district. In the primary, the two candidates in each district with the highest number of votes will be on the ballot for the general election. A voter will vote for one candidate from each district in the primary election.

QUESTIONS FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION

1. Why do you want to be a member of the Board of Education?
2. In what ways would you improve services for special students (ie: physically or mentally handicapped as well as gifted)? How can this be done without adversely affecting the instructional program of the "average" student?
3. How important is it for a school to provide "non-academic" services (ie: personal counseling, health services, breakfast programs, etc.) to students? Would you support the expenditure of county monies for such services?
4. What steps should be taken to improve the quality of the administrative and teaching staffs?

District 1

• DR. LEO W. O'NEILL

Education
Bachelors degree, Business Administration: University of Chicago; Masters degree, Education: University of Kansas City; Doctorate, Elementary Education: University of Colorado.

Experience
Five years, teacher and elementary principal, Excelsior Springs, Missouri; One year, assistant professor, University of Vermont; Twenty-six years, professor of elementary education, University of Maryland-College Park.

Answers
1. My experience on the Board of Education has helped identify areas in which assistance from the central office would improve the effectiveness of school staffs. I want to continue my involvement in such areas as in-service programs, screening and preparation of prospective administrators, and teacher recruitment.

2. I was favorably impressed by observation of the stimulation provided for students in gifted classes and considerate understanding evidenced in mentally handicapped classes, indications that our efforts provided adequate support. We should extend our support to teachers of "average" students whose special needs haven't been formally identified.

3. Some students are unable to achieve their normal academic and personal progress because of nutrition, health or personal inadequacies. Provision of "non-academic" services to correct these conditions constitutes a justifiable expenditure which improves the effectiveness of the county's and state's school contributions and their investment in the future.

4. Our administrative and teaching staffs need the professional up-dating normally provided through in-service programs planned by the central administrative staff, followed by direct assistance in the school setting. Our scheduled in-service program for next year (which I encouraged) should provide this increased involvement of our central office staff.

GEORGE A. WASSELL, JR.

Education
Born and raised in Anne Arundel Co., High School Education in public schools, married with six children, two still in Garrett Co. Schools, full time farmer and school bus contractor/driver. Prior to moving to Garrett Co. was a terminal supervisor for a large trucking company in the Metropolitan area.

Experience
No reply.

Answers

1. I feel not being a professional educator or politician I can best serve the people of Garrett County with a laymans point of view in the policy making of our education system.

2. I believe that handicapped and gifted students should be treated as special students, but until I get involved with the actual makeup of the budget I can not answer this question. However, I would welcome suggestions from any citizen of Garrett County.

3. I am in favor of such programs, but with very strict guidelines and without effecting the quality of education in Garrett County.

4. I feel the quality of our educators is outstanding, however, like everything there is always room for improvement. We should all take steps to prepare our children for a future in this changing world.

RODNEY DURST

Education
I am a graduate of Southern High School, the Military District of Washington Leadership Course for Non-commissioned officers, and Billy Graham School of Evangelism. I am currently working toward certification of graduation from Moody Bible Institute.

Experience
As founder and president of Liberty TREE Ministries, I have seen first-hand what education without moral teaching produces. Kids who are drug-addicts, teen pregnancies, suicides. Our children need a firm foundation, not humanistic-atheistic theories.

Answers
1. I believe the parents of children in public schools are fed up with this humanistic-atheistic education and want to return to the traditional education that gave a child character, stability, and a foundation on which to stand. With the support of the people we can reclaim our public schools.

2. I would approach the teachers and instructors of such students and inquire what they need to help them do their job better. If their requests are feasible and within the budget, I would grant their requests.

3. No child should have to go to school hungry. Therefore, if necessary, County money should be spent.

As for counseling, the wrong advice is as bad as no advice. Counseling should be left to parents, pastors, or close family friends.

4. I support merit pay or master teacher plans because the better teachers should be rewarded. This in turn would give those teachers who are mediocre incentive to improve their performance.

MIKAL MCCARTNEY

Education
B.A. West Virginia University, M. Ed. University of Maryland.

Experience
Former teacher in Garrett

County School Systems for seven years; former Coordinator of Garrett County Child Abuse Team; presently Community Relations Coordinator at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Answers

1. First as a parent, I have strong interests in the quality of available education. Second as a former educator, I have an active professional interest in the educational process. Third as a county resident, I feel the need to contribute to maintaining a good quality of life.

2. Before making recommendations about specific services or improvements to services for special students, I would need to learn about existing programs and levels of their effectiveness. "Average" students are also special students therefore the total instructional program - not just segments of it - should continuously be evaluated and improved.

3. The educational process must promote development of the total child. Health and personal problems directly affect the student's academic ability and therefore are important. Present services are provided by a variety of agencies. Should the need arise to spend county money - priorities would have to be established by all concerned.

4. Having taught school here I feel we do have quality administration and teaching staff. In order to attract and keep quality professional educators, Garrett County needs to be competitive with other counties in payment of salaries, in-service education and benefit programs.

Answers

1. With nearly 30 years teaching experience in Garrett County schools, I believe my credentials will enable me to examine contemporary issues in education with professional insight and parental humanism. Having a lifetime commitment to education, I will continue to make positive contributions to Garrett County's youth by serving on the board of education.

2. The issues confronting the board are broader than one specialized area of the curricula. Materials, facilities, and personnel must be provided and utilized to maximum efficiency in meeting the needs of each specialized area. As a board member I will work vigorously to assure that the individual needs of each child are met.

3. County agencies must coordinate service programs. Articulation between board of education, community college, health department, and local governmental agencies is imperative to best serve community needs. Duplication of services must be avoided. I would support such programs when need is proven, criteria for evaluation are provided, cost effectiveness is present, and acceptable alternatives have been exhausted.

4. The role of a board of education member is to establish policies and procedures for the professional staff to administer. Meaningful in-service instruction must be provided for staff and scheduled for the least disruption to students. Competitive salaries and recognition of outstanding service to the educational community are essential.

• BEVERLY ANN SINES MURPHY

Education
I attended and graduated from the Garrett County School system in 1964. Attended and graduated from Davis Memorial School of Nursing. Was elected to the Garrett County Board of Education 1983 and have served the past four years. Have attended Garrett County Community College in the summer of 1985.

Experience
Have served for the past four years on the Garrett County Board of Education. Have served on many local and state committees such as: Vocational Advisory Council, Transportation Advisory, Northern High Housing and Remodeling and Maryland Association of Boards of Education Resolution Committee. Have also served on many ad hoc committees setup within the system.

Answers
1. I want more for the youth than I received. I can only do this by being a participant where it counts and that is as a member of the Garrett County Board of Education. I am proud to be a Garrett Countian and I want the best for its citizens.

2. I would improve services for special students by providing additional staff to add mathematics to the gifted and talented programs, to add additional resource teacher in special education of the handicapped at the smaller elementary schools who do not have. I would expand the speech program to more teachers.

3. The whole student comes to school. Not just his/her brain! I must be concerned with their health, hangups, nutrition, welfare and their well being. I would support these services so that academic education can occur. You can not isolate academics from the overall. You must address the whole person.

4. The current board expects "quality", research verifies that expectation are usually met. Expect little, you get little; expect much, you get much! Recruit the best teachers possible; recruit and assign the best administrators possible. Strive for comparable salaries. Develop strategies to get and keep the best teachers in Garrett County.

Answers
1. 50% of our tax dollars go for education, yet each year there are fewer children. Teachers are not getting rich, but the cost of education keeps going up. I would like to know why, and as a business woman, maybe I can help do something about it.

2. Sections 8-101 to 8-417.6 of the Annotated Code of Maryland deals with Disadvantaged, Gifted and Talented, Deaf and Blind, and Handicapped children. It covers responsibilities of School Boards, Funding of Programs, and Penalties for non-compliance. It is quite complete and only needs implementing for excellent care of the above children.

3. All these services are wonderful, if we can afford them. Educating a child should not mean the State's taking over the parent's responsibilities. There must be a happy medium between the overburdened taxpayer and those services over and above "education." I would try for that happy medium.

4. Competence on any job should be the key, whether administrative or teaching. If a person is incompetent, he should not be kept in his job. Education is a business-business does not tolerate incompetents-neither should education. Weeding them out will improve quality in both administration and teaching.

D. TIMOTHY BUTLER

Education
I attended only Garrett County schools and graduated from Northern in 1975. I believe my knowledge of Garrett County schools from a student's viewpoint will help me to better understand the needs of the schools.

Experience
As owner and operator of my own business, Butler's Carpet, I meet many of the Garrett County people. I feel my knowledge of business and local people will enable me to make educated decisions as a representative of the people of Garrett County.

Answers
1. I want to work towards a strong basic education for students - with emphasis on Reading and Math. I believe we need a common-sense approach to education and that my knowledge as a life-long resident of Garrett County will help me achieve that.

2. I feel that there should be flexibility between grades so that students can work according to their ability rather than their age. Students at all levels should have their individuality taken into consideration, regardless of whether they are classified as handicapped, gifted or average.

3. I believe that health services and breakfast programs are important, particularly on the elementary level. Good nutrition is essential if children are to reach their potential so I support spending county monies for these particular services.

4. Merit systems in pay should be implemented using evaluations based on student achievements and surveys from students and other teachers. Board members should make regular visits to the schools to get a better idea of the needs of the staff and students.

Education

cation from George Washington University, Washington, D.C.

Experience
Taught 14 years, different grades in both public and private elementary schools, and physical education in middle and high schools in Maryland, District of Columbia and Virginia.

Served in local elected offices and many years as delegate to Federation of Citizens Associations in Fairfax County, Virginia.

Answers

1. I believe I can be of service to the community in this capacity. I like living in Garrett County. Since I believe the quality of life in any community depends in part upon the willingness of the residents to contribute in whatever way they are capable, I want to serve.

2. As of now I am not aware of deficiencies in the present level of services for either the handicapped or the gifted. It seems to me that greater consideration needs to be given to the average students, who made up the bulk of the school population.

3. Unfortunately, in today's society the need for "non-academic" services to students is often very necessary to enable them to make use of "academic" services. I would support the expenditure of county funds for this purpose.

4. To attract and hold competent teachers their salaries should continue to be raised and the gap between theirs and that of administrators should not continue to increase, as it has been doing. The removal of this cause of resentment could increase the cooperation necessary for effective administration.

Experience
Seeking re-election to her fifth term in Congress; member, House Armed Services Committee; chairs, Special Panel on Arms Control and Disarmament; member, Interior Committee and Select Committee for Aging.

Answers
1. Federal Deficit: I have once again agreed to co-sponsor legislation which would permit a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution. Congress will come to grips with the deficit only when it is forced to do so by constitutional constraints.

2. Trade restrictions: Free trade may be a thing of the past. What I want is fair trade. To that end I supported the omnibus trade bill which encourages our trading partners to drop unfair restrictions on our exports competing in their economies. I think this bill will break the stalemate in negotiations.

3. Central America: Consistent supporter of aid to Contras. Nicaragua has confused world opinion about its behavior by pressing false testimony on the World Court in deliberate attempt to conceal its war of aggression. Under United Nations Charter and Rio Treaty a nation that has been attacked has right to self and collective regional defense.

4. Military Spending: I supported minimum funding level for Star Wars Defense Initiative this year because it is basic research on a system years away from deployment. I am supportive of doing what it takes to maintain strong national defense. We absolutely must address ourselves to the serious crippling problem of cutting wasteful spending.

5. Unemployment: I am not active in this issue because of the rural character of the Sixth District.

6. Environment: Toxic waste sites pose a serious problem to may areas in United States and Western Maryland is no exception. The threat that contaminants pose to constituents in three separate towns is completely unacceptable. I am making every effort to move the current Superfund legislation and its taxing authority out of conference.

Answers
1. Federal Deficit: Stop spending on pet projects by legislators. Go back to gold standard with secured value in international markets, thus ensuring stability. Issue low interest loans to industry; farmers; utility companies; state and local governments and for National defense. Presidential proclamation to set interest rates at 3 to 4 percent. The economy will really boom and the debt will be paid very shortly.

2. Trade restrictions: 1. Stop labor unions from unrealistic demands for benefits; 2. then we can compete (more readily) with foreign competitors; 3. With the above implemented we can cease importing so much of our food; steel, shoes - and the protectionism factor would be eliminated or lessened to a point where it is not a prime factor.

3. Central America: Do not get involved militarily - this would make us just another

DEMOCRATS

Russia as they are in Europe, Asia and elsewhere. Do give economic aid - but with strict supervision to prevent its use for selfish interests of political factions; dictators and that ilk.

4. Military Spending: Star Wars Defense Initiative: spend-spend-spend. If we ever throw money at a project this should be the one. This is SURVIVAL. If we don't you had better learn quickly to speak Russian. Other defense programs should and must continue with sensible funding as needed.

5. Unemployment: Young people must have more appeal to the business community. Attitude: It should convey to prospective employers a sincerity; Not just that, "I need the money, do the job and collect my pay". The above is not enough, they should show, fealty, the loyalty an employee owes to the employer.

6. Environment: Landfills, improperly supervised, present most horrendous pollution of our water supplies. They must be forced to meet standards set by society and enforced by all health organizations. Acid rain: We have scrubbers used in industry to prevent excess emission pollutants; we should insist on coal clean burning method (using limestone) developed fairly recently.

1. Federal Deficit: 1. Gramm Rudman Amendment—Congress to decide itself (sequestration unconstitutional, anyway); 2. Tax reform to reduce individual taxes, but keep IRA's and don't touch Social Security; 3. Implement some tax savings suggested by Grace Commission and Heritage Foundation.

2. Trade Restrictions: I favor fair trade laws which will in the long run help the trade balance. I recommend Buy-American, but not isolate ourselves. We must improve quality of American products.

3. Central America: I favor anyway we can help to prevent spread of Marxism and any suffering by innocent people. I favor humanitarian aid, economic aid, if both are well administered and go to right places—where real needs are. Military - Contra Aid - yes, as a last resort.

4. Military Spending: 1. I favor strong defense. (Weak defense invites enemy in-seek history); 2. I favor Star Wars Defense Initiative; 3. I favor competitive bidding on defense procurements.

Answers

(1) I am the only Marylander on the House Budget Committee, which makes key budget decisions. We must reduce defense spending below last year's level, absorb some domestic cuts, and enact revenue increases but not increase taxes for moderate and low income families. Gramm-Rudman gimmicks must be discarded.

(2) U.S. employment suffers unfairly from foreign trade restrictions. I strongly believe in a free and fair trade system to protect Maryland jobs in a competitive international marketplace. We must vigorously promote exports, strengthen our import relief laws and pressure countries that continue to deny U.S. access to their markets.

(3) I chair the Western Hemisphere Subcommittee, led the opposition to aid to the Contras, supported the Contadora peace process, sought to limit military aid and increase economic and development aid, supported human rights and condemned human rights violations by all sides, and urged stronger support for democracy in Central America.

(4) I oppose the Reagan defense budget, support a cut below current funding levels. I oppose first strike and space weapons and Reagan priorities including Star Wars, MX missile, anti-satellite and chemical weapons. I favor Comprehensive Test Ban and ending nuclear testing as long as the Soviets do not test.

(5) We must work toward the full employment goals of the Humphrey-Hawkins law. More funding must be provided for the Job Training Partnership Act, the core Federal jobs program, and the Jobs Corps. We should also consider meaningful public works jobs programs to encourage youth employment.

(6) I support additional funding, stricter regulation to clean up toxic and nuclear wastes; acid rain; pesticide, air, water and non-point pollution; asbestos contamination. Permanent protection of Chesapeake Bay and Potomac River demand national solutions. I received 100%—highest environmental voting record of Maryland Senate candidates—from League of Conservation Voters.

Answers

1. Reexamine funding of Domestic and Foreign programs with an eye to eliminating those no longer needed and those that are no longer cost effective. Increase efforts to collect repayment of loans made by Government agencies. Eliminate excessive charges for Military Weapon Systems by reorganizing the present Federal Procurement System.

2. I am reluctant to support trade restrictions as a means of protecting American industries.

Industry must protect itself by reducing cost and improving the quality of its product thereby becoming more competitive.

3. I would favor military support only for the defense of the Panama Canal.

I favor economic and humanitarian support to relieve the hardships of all Central American people.

4. I oppose SDI because I am convinced it is not feasible and would be much too costly.

I support a freeze on nuclear missiles.

I believe more emphasis should be placed on Conventional Weapon systems and less emphasis on Nuclear weapon systems.

5. Encourage business leaders, thru tax incentives, to set up training programs to train the unemployed to fill job openings in their companies.

1. Our budget is a statement of our national priorities. To reduce the deficit, we must eliminate waste and abuse, and conduct wise procurement programs; conduct program by program analyses to eliminate unneeded programs, while ensuring safety nets maintaining essentials at current levels. Continue public programs that generate revenue, jobs.

2. We must vigorously oppose unfair trade practices (dumping steel; pirating U.S. intellectual property). Human rights must be made a trade criteria; U.S. coal miners cannot compete with slave wages in South Africa. Support tariffs and quotas only when necessary. Expand exports by cutting red tape; increasing competitiveness.

3. Absolutely oppose aid to the Contras. I do not support war by proxy. Support Contadora peace process and efforts to bring democracy, a strengthened economy and demilitarization (withdrawing all foreign troops, advisers) to the area. Human rights and economic development, particularly to diffuse foreign debt crisis must be policy focus.

4. I believe in a strong defense based on well trained and equipped and adequately compensated conventional armed forces; and tight control over Pentagon procurements. I support carefully designed strategic forces such as Trident submarine, Stear bomber and Midgeman ICB. I oppose SDI. It's technologically questionable; gives false sense of security.

5. The best social program is a job. We must create jobs by modernizing our industry, reducing imports and expanding exports. Investment in research and development—to discover new product and in education—to train new workers, must be a priority. Reducing school dropouts and improving vocational education is necessary.

6. Citizens have the right to know and be heard about health and environmental hazards. To protect our coastline and Bay, I fought:

—against ocean incineration off Ocean City;

—for $2 million annually for coastal zone management;

—for federal funds to clean up the Bay;

—for strong Superfund legislation.

1. Cut spending. Establish spending priorities with military first, foreign policy next, and domestic last. Imperative to cut all three categories and to see that the United States obtains fair returns on all expenditures. I support Gramm-Rudman principle since Congress seems unwilling to reduce spending. No increases unless wartime.

2. Under "free trade," we have become debtor nation. This is ridiculous. I support protectionist legislation to rebuild our steel and textile industries immediately. This can be funded by placing an import tax on all foreign steel and fabrics coming into this country. These industries are vital to our national interest.

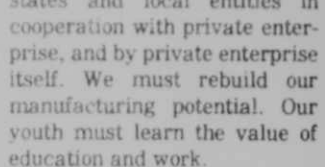

3. I want no more "outside interests" in Central America. Ortega wasted little time in going to Moscow with a shopping list declaring himself to be a Communist. I support economic and military aid to the Contras and wish to see non-communist governments in that area. No more Cubas!

4. Military spending is top priority. This country must justify its ability to exist in the world. I favor all military research and have only two questions—Will it work, and are we getting a fair shake on price. I believe that our armed forces should have the best of everything.

5. Jobs, jobs and jobs! Jobs can be created by the federal government in industries vital to the national interest, by states and local entities in cooperation with private enterprise, and by private enterprise itself. We must rebuild our manufacturing potential. Our youth must learn the value of education and work.

6. Clean air. Clean water. Discussions with Canada concerning acid rain. Together, and with each country enforcing its laws, the air can be improved. Industries must be informed that violations of clean air and water laws will be met with stiff punishment. Continued publicity on the serious environmental problems is necessary.

Encourage government employees to report abuses that can be corrected, so that government is run with common sense.

1. I favor an Emergency Economic mobilization modeled on FDR's 1939 program—low interest credit for the expansion of basic manufacturing and agriculture, thereby expanding our tax base. There is one immediate budget cut we CAN make—the payment of debt service to the banks—the only cut Gramm-Rudman is unwilling to make!

2. We must act to protect certain industries critical to vital national security interests. For instance, we cannot allow our oil industry to be brought down by OPEC's price war. I propose an oil-import tariff to prevent dumping. The alternative: a collapse of oil and related industries AND ECONOMIC CATASTROPHE.

3. We should join our allies in a formal declaration of war on drugs, and deploy our military forces in a manner appropriate to winning that war. Simultaneously, let's foster real economic development by withdrawing from the IMF, assisting in the orderly reorganization of their unpayable debt, and offering long-term, low-interest credit for development.

4. The Soviets are engaged in an unprecedented war mobilization. We must launch a $200 billion crash program like JFK's successful Apollo program, to give our nation a first generation anti-missile shield by 1988. The economic and technological payback would revolutionize every aspect of production AND we'd end the threat of thermonuclear annihilation.

5. If our proposals for an Emergency Economic Mobilization are implemented, we would foster a massive resurgence of our industrial and agricultural base. As we built our way out of the current economic depression, we'd have no shortage of jobs—only of skilled labor; necessitating massive training for our new workforce.

6. The most pressing environmental problem: AIDS! AIDS isn't a disease of gays and junkies, but one borne of economic breakdown. We require an emergency upgrading of collapsed sanitation, housing, and water systems. Indication that AIDS is transmitted by mosquitoes and other biting insects necessitates a massive mosquito and vermin eradication program.

1. Basically I support the Gramm-Rudman law to reduce the deficit gradually, over five to ten years to a balanced budget. I support the Senate version of the Tax Reform Bill with a 27 percent top income tax for individuals and 33 percent for corporations. Cuts in the annual "pork-barrel" projects and cuts in waste in federal programs should be top priority.

2. Tough tariffs should be imposed to protect selected U.S. industries. These include those important to national security such as the semiconductor industry, steel and automobiles where evidence of illegal foreign subsidies or "dumping" is clear. Then negotiations to assure access to closed markets such as Japan should occur, to produce really free trade.

3. We must take any action necessary to prevent the establishment of a Soviet satellite dictatorship in Nicaragua. In the spirit of the Monroe Doctrine, we must oppose Soviet colonization and military bases on the North American continent (barely 700 miles from our border) that would threaten friendly Central American nations and the Panama Canal. I support President Reagan's policies.

4. Unfortunately, in view of the massive and growing threat from the Soviet Union, we must strengthen our defenses to deter Soviet aggression. Spending for modern Air Force, Navy and SDI programs must be continued, as well as our nuclear weapons production, to keep the peace in a dangerous world. - However if verifiable agreements can be negotiated at Geneva, military spending could decrease substantially.

5. My proposals are:

a) Support for "enterprise zones" in the inner-cities to encourage private enterprise to locate there.

b) Using the money wasted on forced busing to improve inner-city schools, buying modern computers with school learning programs, etc.

c) Establish a new Civilian Conservation Corps.

d) Start a Youth Recreation Organization to give inner-city kids two weeks country vacations with computer training.

6. Improve research on disposal of toxic chemicals, and disposal of solid waste. Strengthen the Environmental Protection Agency's enforcement procedures against polluters. Introduce regulations and tax incentives to aid soil conservation in forests and agricultural land. Emphasize clean water and clean air laws and strengthen them. Use the military to stop drug imports.

1. The first step should be for Congress to accept its responsibility for the budget and make the hard decisions it tried to avoid in Gramm-Rudman.

Spending can be cut by eliminating unnecessary and wasteful programs and by privatizing government activities that would be more appropriately handled by the private sector.

2. Free trade, not protectionism, is in the best economic interests of the United States. Free trade, however, must be fair trade. Unfair trade practices cost American jobs. We must engage in tough negotiations to open foreign markets to American goods and when talks fail pressure must be applied with appropriate retaliation.

3. America has historically been a symbol of freedom around the world. As such we have a duty to help people in other countries who are fighting for freedom and democracy in their own land. Therefore, I fully support the President's requests for military and humanitarian aid to the Contras.

4. One of the highest priorities of any Senator should be keeping America strong militarily. We must maintain a level of military spending that will allow us to pursue SDI and other vital weapons programs. By cutting Pentagon waste we can assure that our defense budget will meet our security needs.

5. Youth unemployment, especially among minority youth, poses one of our most pressing urban problems. Urban enterprise zones to help create new business and jobs in the inner cities and a two tier minimum wage to help young people to get entry level jobs and work experience should be explored.

6. I strongly support the reauthorization of the superfund to clean up hazardous waste. As Marylanders, the clean up of the Chesapeake Bay must be a top priority, as well as maintaining awareness of emerging environmental problems such as radon gas.

3. Traditional Policy was to furnish economic/humanitarian support with occasional military intervention to implement political policy. With our new rapid deployment forces, our vital interests demand we commit them upon any early signs of involvement by Soviet/Cuban forces. U.S. "Choppers" supporting Bolivia's drug laboratories destruction is correct policy.

4. Military spending to protect our nation comes first. Weapon development, Stealth Bomber, SDI, Supercomputing Research Center (SRC) and completion of present programs with "high readiness" should all be funded with effective fraud/waste safeguards in place.

5. Inner-city youth lack: literacy, work ethic, religious training, manners, morals which lead to drink, dope and crime.

1. Education—We must strive for excellence in public education. Sufficient funding for public schools is of paramount importance. Economic Development—To meet Maryland's pressing needs we must attract new businesses, jobs and revenue. Human Services—Programs for senior citizens deserve support. The truly needy must also be cared for.

2. The present funding formula is too complex to discuss in 50 words. However, in addition to sufficient funding, we need to look to alternative resources in the communities. Fostering cooperation among business, community groups and school systems can result in innovative solutions that will not bankrupt our taxpayers.

3. We must look for new means to offer people a way up and out instead of lifelong dependency on welfare. Job training and placement for mothers with children over age six; day-care; and low interest loans for people to buy homes are programs I believe we should concentrate on.

4. The Chesapeake Bay is our most precious natural resource. The aquatic environment of the Bay and our other waterways must be preserved not only for the vital role they play in our economy, but also for the recreational opportunities they provide. Toxic waste disposal is also a major environmental concern.

5. For perpetrators of less serious crimes, the system should concentrate on rehabilitation. Hardened criminals must be punished swiftly and harshly. The parole and probation system needs more safeguards. More care must be taken in determining who should be released. Concerns of victims and their families must be given more consideration.

2. We were pre-eminent in international trade until 1980 when interest rates skyrocketed to 20%, Japanese products have supplanted ours because Japanese corporations can obtain loans largely derived from employees' savings (which result from employee profit sharing programs) that are 3% lower than the U.S. prime rate.

3. Our high interest charges for foreign loans have resulted in economic and political instability and the spread of Communism. By lowering these charges, we will enable the debtor nations to solve their economic and social problems themselves.

4. We should resist all Communist aggression while eroding Communism by encouraging Communist rulers to recognize free trade unions and permit establishment of funds which provide low interest loans to farmers (Walesa's Polish Fund) and home owners. We should encourage American corporations in foreign countries to establish employee profit sharing programs.

5. Depressions are caused by lack of sufficient consumer buying power to buy all the goods produced. In Japan, labor-employers agreements include profit-sharing programs. These provide 25% additional income to employees. As a result, Japan has virtually no unemployment. See New York Times, editorial, 4/25/86.

1. —Implement standard public health measures—testing and quarantining for AIDS. —Rebuild and expand Maryland's industrial base, providing new high paying employment and increased revenues by expanding the tax base.

—Restore moral leadership to state government, which we lost after immoral behavior of Steve Sachs and Harry Hughes in the S&L banking scandal.

2. Improve the QUALITY of public education—No tax increase. Raise additional revenues by expanding employment and increasing the state's taxable base. The hard job is improving what is taught. Children's minds must be stimulated—provoked to spark their powers of creative reason instead of the current boring drill and grill.

3. I oppose work-fare. Every person is entitled to live in a dignified manner, with a good paying job, an adequate diet and quality housing. We must face reality; we are in an economic depression. The state must provide each citizen with a productive job and subsidize only if there is no alternative.

4. We must clean up the environment making it safer for human life. Since AIDS is spread by mosquitos we need a massive eradication program. Maryland and especially Baltimore has several million rats who are prime carriers of deadly diseases. A few more nuclear power plants would help to clean up the air.

5. The intelligent action is to REDUCE crime. This means a REAL WAR ON DRUGS. Crime is also a product of poverty and cultural pessimism. We must create a real economic recovery and give people hope once again. Prisoner should be educated for employment, to make a contribution to society.

In State—productive capabilities are also key to budget problems—1) rebuild port & maritime industries, 2) rebuild heavy industries & industrial jobs, 3) stop farm foreclosures. 2. Aside from '60-'70's liberal "reforms" which destroyed educational content, the most devastating attack on education has come from the drug trade and drug culture. We must launch a ruthless war on drugs. Appropriately, I propose that assets of drug traffickers and money-laundering banks be seized and targeted for education.

3. With other States governments and LaRouche elected officials, I would lead a mass march of homeless and poor citizens, bankrupt businessmen, labor & farmers to Washington to force the federal government to drop its monetarist policies, and to rebuild the productive capabilities of this nation—thus putting America back to work.

4. Air and water must be clean, but also the cities must be beautiful. Flowers and trees must be planted and parks built. I propose we make Tuscany—home of Florence, Italy—our sister state and follow the Renaissance model for great architecture and art to inspire the population.

5. By eliminating narcotics trafficking I would curtail 85% of criminal activities, with the remaining prisoners I would overhaul the penal system, emphasizing scientific education and prepare our rehabilitated citizens to re-enter the work force.

Answers

1. I plan to implement more consolidated auditing and increase the efficiency of tax collection, building on our system of local field offices and our nationally recognized leadership. I plan to see that state agencies pay their bills on time and take advantage of discounts for timely payment to save tax dollars.

2. The Comptroller is the people's representative on the Board of Public Works. I have worked to make the Board an open forum for the people, to preserve Maryland's triple "A" rating for general obligation bond sales conducted by the Board and for competitive bidding in the award of state contracts.

performance, increase teacher's salaries extensive use of volunteers for tutoring and as teacher's aides. Provide schools with supplies, materials and services necessary for productivity. Implement a "Lead Teacher" program designed to promote leadership and high standards.

3. Promote "hand up" not "hand out" philosophy. Create program designed to provide job training, educational skills, day care, transportation needs for jobless. Similar to "ET" program in Massachusetts. Increase in AFDC and GPA grants, help for displaced homemakers and create more day care slots.

4. 1) Chesapeake Bay—maintenance of critical areas, hiring of more enforcement personnel, harsh treatment of chronic polluters. Coordinate with the Federal Government, D.C., Virginia and Pennsylvania to insure commitment to restoration of Bay. 2) Covered Trucks—actively support legislation mandating trucks carrying loose material (gravel) be covered on the highways.

5. Provide more job training and educational programs especially for women in prison. Increase drug abuse programs and counseling. Support alternatives to incarceration such as a "home bound" program for those who pose no threat to the community. Promote "the ability to read" as a positive consideration for parole.

Answers

1. Education—We must strive for excellence in public education. Sufficient funding for public schools is of paramount importance.

Economic Development—To meet Maryland's pressing needs we must attract new businesses, jobs and revenue.

Human Services—Programs for senior citizens deserve support. The truly needy must also be cared for.

2. The present funding formula is too complex to discuss in 50 words. However, in addition to sufficient funding, we need to look to alternative resources in the communities. Fostering cooperation among business, community groups and school systems can result in innovative solutions that will not bankrupt our taxpayers.

3. We must look for new means to offer people a way up and out instead of lifelong dependency on welfare. Job training and placement for mothers with children over age six; day-care; and low interest loans for people to buy homes are programs I believe we should concentrate on.

4. The Chesapeake Bay is our most precious natural resource. The aquatic environment of the Bay and our other waterways must be preserved not only for the vital role they play in our economy, but also for the recreational opportunities they provide. Toxic waste disposal is also a major environmental concern.

5. For perpetrators of less serious crimes, the system should concentrate on rehabilitation. Hardened criminals must be punished swiftly and harshly. The parole and probation system needs more safeguards. More care must be taken in determining who should be released. Concerns of victims and their families must be given more consideration.

Laboring For Maturity

Maturity. What is it? It's one of those words you can never get a handle on. It lends itself more to description than achievement; more to a lifestyle than an attainment.

Maturity may be defined more as a pilgrimage than an arrival; more a process than a possession.

The New Testament writer James properly describes maturity as "unswerving constancy" which he says leads to being "perfect, complete, lacking in nothing" (1:3,4).

That sounds not only foreboding, but impossible. Can a person ever be that? Experience that? No, not totally.

Maturity is knowing no one can ever be fully mature; yet, maturity is not stymied by that reality, but rather is stimulated to keep striving for it.

This was the Apostle Paul's commitment. I count not myself to have attained, but I press on to the mark of the prize of the high calling. (Phil. 3:13)

WHO'S IN CHARGE

Background Scripture: Daniel 7 through
Devotional Reading: Daniel 9:14-19.

When we were children, we probably never wondered about "Who's in charge?" We assumed someone was in charge of life and the universe, because that's the way the world seems to be.

But, as we get older, we may begin to wonder if our first impression was, in fact, on target. Is there someone or something in charge, and if so, who or what? Give this question enough thought and you will likely consider one or more of the following possible answers:

1. God's in charge.
2. Human beings are in charge.
3. Nature's in charge.
4. Fate's in charge.
5. Nothing is in charge.

Only answer number one is really satisfying to me. If people are in charge of the universe, that is, in light of our ingenious capacity for failure, very frightening indeed. Nor is it any more reassuring to think that "Nature" might be in charge, or "Fate" (for who's in charge of "Fate"?). Worst of all is the thought that

Casselman Valley Choral Society Will Not Perform

The Casselman Valley Choral Society will not perform in the 1986-87 concert season, according to John Yoder, conductor.

Yoder provided the following explanation, "It is my personal belief that one can ask and receive from God guidance about life's opportunities and responsibilities. In seeking such guidance it became clear that I should discontinue the Choral Society for at least this season—not because of any musical, organizations or personal frustrations (or other opportunities or job offers), but because I believe this is what God is asking of me. Sometimes the designs of God replace good and worthy designs of human understanding and preference."

Members of the choir received the news in a letter last week. Yoder indicated that by the end of August, 1987, it should be clear as to whether rehearsals will resume for the

Potomac Edison Notes Results Of Energy-Use Survey

The average residential customer in Potomac Edison's service area owns a single family home, is part of a household with 2.71 occupants, has a gross family income of between $15,000 and $24,999 and uses 10,961 kilowatt-hours of electricity a year.

Results were compiled from Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, the three states served by the electric utility, for the company's Residential Appliance Saturation Survey.

The survey is designed to construct a profile of typical residential customers, and the results provide a data base used in the company's forecast model for generation planning and to project residential megawatt-hour energy use.

The survey, conducted every two years, showed that the current saturation of electric heat among the 243,000 residential customers is 32.6 percent, while the saturation of oil and gas heating is 36.9 and 14.5 percent, respectively.

Approximately 79 percent of all PE customers have electric water heaters. Seventy-nine percent of residential customers use electric ranges, compared to 19 percent who use gas ranges. The saturation of the microwave oven, while nearly non-existent in 1975 (0.5 percent) is now 40 percent. Electric clothes dryers are in 67 percent of PE customers' homes, compared to 1.4 percent for gas dryers. Frostproof refrigerators outnumber standard refrigerators 70.6 percent to 35.3 percent and color televisions outnumber black and white models 85.3 percent to 32.4 percent.

Regarding conservation: 48.9 percent have over six inches of attic insulation; 57.5 percent have two inches or more of floor insulation; 80.6 percent have insulated exterior walls; 83.5 percent have double-pane or storm windows; and 19.9 percent have added insulation to their water heaters.

The survey randomly sampled some 1,500 customers

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) has introduced a resolution that calls for naming 1987 as 'The Year of the Reader' to bring attention to reading and to those dedicated to combating illiteracy.

Mathias, Chairman of the Joint Committee on the Library of Congress, also noted that the American Library Association, the International Reading Association, the American Booksellers Association, and the Task Force on the White Conference on Libraries and Information Science have endorsed the resolution and would plan conferences and programs in 1987 around the theme.

"I especially would like to commend the Washington County Free Library in Hagerstown for its support and for developing the logo for '1987—Year of the Reader,'" Mathias added.

Consumption Of Fuel In June Sets New Record

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reported that consumers used the largest amount of motor fuel ever in a single month during June, 1986. "The 202,705,025 gallons of gasoline and diesel fuel consumed during June, 1986 also marks the first time consumption rose above 200 million gallons in a single month," the comptroller said.

Goldstein noted that increased tourism in the state, stable gasoline prices and plentiful supplies are apparently responsible for the record.

The June fuel sales generate July tax revenue, which amounted to $28,901,347, a 10.8 percent increase over the $26,091,182 collected during July 1985.

The previous record of 197,548,996 gallons was set in August, 1985.

Area Hospital Offers Tests For Colorectal Cancer

In recognition of Colorectal Cancer Awareness Month, Frostburg Community Hospital is offering free stool blood tests for area residents. The test kit may be picked up at the Frostburg Community Health Education Department, located at 5

East Main Street, Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Colorectal cancer, the cancer which struck President Reagan last year, is the second most common cancer (after lung cancer). According to the American Cancer Society, there will be an estimated 140,000 new cases in 1986 and both men and women are equal victims. Almost half of the colorectal victims will die and many victims may require a colostomy.

When colorectal cancer is detected and treated in an early, localized stage, the five-year survival rate is 90% for colon cancer and 80% for rectal cancer, compared with 51% and 38%, respectively, after the cancer has spread to other parts of the body.

The American Cancer Society recommends a rectal examination performed by a physician yearly after age 40 and beginning at age 50, an annual stool blood test.

Causes of colorectal cancer are not definite, however, evidence points to a strong dietary role. Colorectal cancer is most prevalent in societies where the diet is high in fat and low in fiber. Obesity is also believed to be a factor. Persons with personal or family history of colon and rectum, polyps in the colon or rectum, or inflammatory bowel disease are at a higher risk.

For more information on colorectal cancer or the stool blood test, persons may call the Frostburg Community Health Education Office at 689-5222 or 689-5223.

CITIZENS, BUSINESSMEN AND PATRONS OF OAKLAND, MD.

Are you aware that as of August 12, 1986, that the town police started enforcing new traffic laws in Oakland? People can now only park on streets with parking meters for 2 hours, regardless of whether you have money in your meter or not. After 2 hours you are fined $10.00. This is a real nice way to show their appreciation for you coming to town to spend your money. The Mayor and Town Council obviously put this law into effect. People we voted into office.

We at VICK'S COIN SHOP feel this is very wrong. And we won't have our customers treated this way. As of September 30, 1986, we will no longer be located at 217 East Alder St.

Book On Poisonous Maryland Plants Now Available

Poisonings from plants in Maryland are rare. And deaths from plant poisonings are more rare. "But if you frequently pick plants from long walks in the woods, or if you have a garden and children or grandchildren, can you afford to take a chance that some loved one will not turn up as a statistic?" questions the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service.

One way, they say, persons can protect themselves and their families is with "100 Poisonous Plants of Maryland," a new publication from the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service.

The 55-page booklet is easy to read, uses common names, and it is fully illustrated, according to University Publications Office personnel. It contains complete descriptions of poisonous plants, where they are commonly found, why they are poisonous, and what kinds of symptoms might be expected.

The price of "100 Poisonous Plants of Maryland" is $3.75. To order a copy, a check or money order made payable to The University of Maryland may be sent to Publications Office, Cooperative Extension Service, The University of Maryland, College Park, MD 20742.

PUT IT IN WRITING

Try this situation on for size. In order to "Save" some money you decide to sell on your own. You advertise your house and a prospect drops by and tells you he wants the house at the price you're asking and—asks you to please take it off the market and hold it for him for a month. No papers signed, no earnest money down.

This is a disaster waiting to happen. One disagreement and the whole deal is off.

As a rule, agreements for the sale of real estate must be in writing to be enforceable. A sincere buyer (the kind a Realtor would bring you)

Youghiogheny Mountain News

An annual Labor Day weekend corn roast social will be held by the Youghiogheny Mountain Lake Property Owners Association beginning at 3 p.m. on Saturday, August 30. Club members and their minor children may attend free. Guests will be charged $1 admission.

Henry R. Adams, a member of the club's board of directors, has left Garrett County, establishing a new residence in Towson. During the August 9 meeting, Thomas N. Sampson was elected to replace Adams on the board.

It was agreed that the club would contribute $25 to the Mountain Lake Park-Oakland Lions Club. Private donations from attending club members brought the total donation to $50.

Garrett County Sheriff's Department Chief Deputy Harold Tichnell addressed the group at the August meeting. Club members gained new insight and appreciation of the duties and responsibilities of the law enforcement groups in the county through his talk.

He also reviewed various ways to increase safety and security in the home. Club members requested that the Sheriff's Department arrange to have a patrol car ride through the resort on a sporadic schedule.

The August 6 court hearing relating to litigation against Piney Mountain Corporation has been postponed until September 23. This delay should have little or no effect on a planned preliminary judgement decision hearing of the case that is scheduled for later this fall.

The Property Owners Association's Attorney is continuing to work with attorneys for both the past and present stockholders of Piney Mountain Corporation and the club's board of directors to draft a summary that can be presented to the court that will help resolve the different issues contained in the lawsuit.

The next scheduled meeting of the property owners will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, September 13, at the resort clubhouse. State's Attorney James Sherbin will be the guest speaker.

Teter To Present Art Exhibit

Allagany County artist, Lee Teter, will present an exhibit of his works Labor Day weekend at Crafty Critters Chalet on Route 219, north of Oakland. The exhibit will be in place Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. each day.

Teter's works include acrylic, charcoal, and pencil portraits. His "Norman Rockwell quality" shows people to be his strong feature.

should have no qualms about signing a written agreement which spells out the terms, date of closing and other specifications. Any hesitation to sign such an agreement would indicate that your prospect is not really a buyer in the first place.

In addition, the buyer should be willing to produce a substantial amount of earnest money to be held in trust until closing. This is the LEAST you can expect when you deal with a Realtor.

Maryland Concludes FY '86 With $14.3 Million Unobligated Surplus

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said the state of Maryland closed fiscal year 1986 on June 30, 1986, with an unobligated general fund surplus of $14,285,677. "The $14.3 million unobligated surplus means that Maryland is operating in the black, and that is good news for Maryland's citizens, taxpayers and the financial community," Goldstein said. "Especially strong lottery sales combined with good growth in sales and individual income taxes were the primary reasons for the surplus.

"This moderate surplus, together with Maryland's normal revenue growth, should mean that no tax increase is necessary. These factors also mean that Maryland taxpayers should receive some state tax relief as a result of the proposed federal tax reform.

"The amount and form of that relief, however, can only be determined after the real impact of the federal legislation can be measured," Goldstein said. "I appointed a task force of government and private sector experts who are studying the recent congressional conference committee report. Once the federal legislation is enacted and signed by the President, I have an obligation under Maryland law to report its impact on our state to the governor and the General Assembly within 60 days.

"Maryland's general fund revenues totaled $4.16 billion for fiscal year 1986, just $9 million more than estimated. That kind of estimating accuracy is outstanding in budgets as large as the state of Maryland's," Goldstein said.

The comptroller noted that more and more people "played to win" during fiscal year 1986. Net State lottery revenue, after prizes and expenses, totaled $323.4 million or $12.6 million more than estimated.

Goldstein said Maryland's surplus also resulted from a strong economy that produced retail sales and use tax revenue of $1,189,888,162, or $3.6 million more than estimated. "That's 8.3% over fiscal year 1985 sales tax collections at a time when most states are experiencing considerably lower growth rates," he said.

Individual and corporate income taxes produced $2,073,363,434 for the general funds, up 8.6% over fiscal year 1985 and $1.1 million more than the revenue estimate. The strong growth in individual income tax revenue reflects Maryland's employment growth and the state's high per capita income, currently approaching $16,000 and the sixth highest in the nation, according to the comptroller.

"The strong performance of Maryland's two largest sources of general fund revenue, income and sales taxes, continues to be a positive statement about Maryland's economy and financial health," Goldstein said. He noted that both the consumer and construction related categories of sales tax collections posted strong gains in fiscal year 1986.

Interest on investments yielded $29.7 million or $1.2 million less than anticipated, while hospital patient recovery and property transfer taxes each yielded less than anticipated.

Goldstein pointed out that the $14.3 million unobligated surplus was enough to operate the state for less than one day under the fiscal year 1987 state budget.

Two Associations Endorse Edwards' Re-Election Bid

Delegate George C. Edwards has received endorsements for his re-election to the Maryland House of Delegates from the Maryland Political Action Committee (Maryland PAC) and the Maryland & District of Columbia Rifle and Pistol Association, Inc.

Maryland PAC, a bi-partisan business political action committee made up of large and small Maryland businesses statewide, has endorsed Edwards in his re-election effort both in the primary and general elections this year.

The decision to endorse Edwards was made by a 22-member executive committee acting in accordance with PAC's objective, which is to support candidates who have taken a sound position on major issues affecting the free enterprise, business system in Maryland, according to chairman George W. Gephart.

Edwards has also received the endorsement of the Maryland & District of Columbia Rifle and Pistol Association, Inc., which is the official National Rifle Association's state association.

MET Explains Land-Easement Donation Policy

Now that a new federal tax simplification law appears certain, many landowners who have considered conservation easement donations in the past may decide that 1986 is the year to make the commitment. According to Maryland Environmental Trust (MET) Executive Director Robert Beckett, "Impending changes in federal tax brackets and other provisions may cause increases in charitable giving this year, and we at MET hope that landowners who have contemplated a conservation easement in the past will look carefully at the possibility of a 1986 easement donation."

The feeling within the environmental community is that the new federal tax structure will not be as financially conducive to the donation of land conservation easements as the present law.

The aim of the trust's 12-year old land conservation program is to secure the protection of important open areas in the state which benefit the public, without requiring government ownership of the land or direct access to it. Examples of such areas are farms and forest lands, wildlife habitat, shorelines, watersheds, historic sites, natural areas, and properties with scenic value.

Landowners who join the program sign binding agreements (easements) with the MET, pledging essentially to retain their properties in an open and natural condition. Upon signing a conservation easement, a landowner gives up the right to develop his land beyond a minimal level generally based on his own personal needs for residency and use.

Were it not for offsetting financial incentives, landowner donors would pay dearly for the charitable easement gifts they make to the state, an MET spokesman said. The estimated market value of development rights donated to the state through the MET is $2.5 million annually. Realistically, financial incentives are necessary in most cases to trigger the placement of easement restrictions on worthy properties. The easement program simply would not work at the current level were each and every landowner asked to absorb the full cost of giving away valuable development rights, the spokesman said.

The financial incentives that work in unison with the easement program strike a balance between how much "market value" the landowner is willing to give away without recovery, and how much public "environmental value" the federal, state and local governments are willing to purchase on private property through a variety of (mostly) tax inducements.

Gifts of conservation easements to MET are normally considered charitable contributions under federal income tax law. The value associated with any given easement depends upon a number of factors, including the size and location of the property and the character of the "development rights" given up.

Financial incentives available to landowners who con-plate an easement donation include partial or complete reimbursement for expenses such as appraisals or surveys and a new 15-year property tax credit on easement restricted property. The significant financial incentives available to landowners who participate in the trust's conservation easement program are:

Reimbursement (Mini-Grants) for Expenses—Partial MET reimbursement to easement donors for associated costs (appraisals, surveys, title searches). Associated costs not reimbursed are eligible income tax deductions.

Property Tax Credit—Landowner pays no property tax on unimproved easement restricted property for 15 consecutive years from date of donation (donations prior to July 1, 1986, not eligible for credit).

Federal and State Income Tax—Landowner may reduce federal taxable income by 30 percent each year until value of gift is exhausted (maximum six years). State taxable income reflects reduction in federal taxable income.

Federal and State Estate Taxes—Upon death of landowner, value of estate (for tax purposes) is reduced by prevailing value of easement. Easement may be in place at time of death or required by provisions of landowner's will.

State Inheritance Tax—Reduced inheritance (transfer) tax on inheritance of easement restricted property.

Federal and State Gift Taxes—Reduced gift tax on gift of easement restricted property.

Federal Capital Gain Tax—Reduced capital gain tax on sale of easement restricted property.

Contact the MET at (301) 659-6440 for more information about available financial incentives. Landowners interested in the conservation easement program are urged to contact MET by September 19 if a 1986 donation is being considered.

Bruce Dern is not at odds with his career

By Ian Harmer

Bruce Dern is one of those actors who has been around for so long and who has given so many first-rate performances that his failure to achieve stardom seems like a terrible stroke of bad luck.

Bruce Dern

But the actor doesn't see it that way. Dern says he enjoys the personal satisfaction he gets from small-budget films (such as his latest release, "On the Edge") more than if he held out for greater exposure. "On the Edge" is a sweet, simple movie about a middle-aged runner who strives to make a final comeback. In an era in which audiences make big demands for their box-office bucks, the film didn't fare well against its noisier competition. But "On the Edge" will soon move its way into cable territory, and Dern is confident that the film will finally find its audience.

"I don't have a quarrel with people wanting excitement, thrills and special effects," he says, "or with the industry wanting to give it to them. Movies wouldn't still be around as an entertainment medium if they hadn't kept changing to meet audience demand. But it is everyone's responsibility to make sure that there is a variety of films available, and that's why there will always be small productions to contrast the big-budget blockbusters."

Dern might have a higher professional profile if he acted more like a movie star, but he says he spends as little time in Hollywood as possible. His favorite relaxing spot is Lake Tahoe, a mountain resort on the California-Nevada border. He has a home in Tahoe, and plays blackjack for high stakes two nights a week, not as ostentatiously as Telly Savalas. Frank Sinatra and other show biz high rollers, but with the same degree of determination.

"I gamble enough with my acting career, so when I walk into a casino," Dern says, "it's strictly business. I don't play cards for fun or relaxation. I do it for the money, and I win a lot more than I lose."

"I couldn't be happier with where my career is at right now. If things were different, I wouldn't be able to spend so much time at the lake," he adds, "and I wouldn't want that."

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

Where can I write to "Family Ties" star Tina Yothers? What can you tell me about her? — T.S., Pleasant Hill, Ore.

Tina Yothers

Yothers, who plays Jennifer Keaton on the NBC sitcom, was born May 5, 1973. She is the youngest of five children and lives near Los Angeles. Along with her actor-producer father, Yothers spends several hours a week working with abused children. The 1-foot, 85-pound actress has also appeared in the 1982 film "Shoot the Moon." You can write to her c/o Paramount Studios, 5555 Melrose Ave., Los Angeles, CA 90038.

I only recently discovered the NBC series "Stingray" and its lovable hunk Nick Mun-cuso. Now my mother tells me the show will not be back next season. What's up? — S.S., St. Petersburg, Fla.

Stingray was initially canceled by NBC, and though it's not officially on the fall schedule, it has been given the green light as a mid-season replacement.

My boyfriend doesn't believe me when I tell him that Beverly Sills recorded a disco album many years ago. He tells me I'm mixing up Sills with Joan Sutherland. Help! — W.L.S., New York, N.Y.

Sorry, W.S., but you're both wrong. You're probably thinking of Ethel Merman, who recorded a disco album of Broadway favorites in 1979. The album, long out of print, is still highly sought by collectors.

Ethel Merman

Sean Connery portrays Federal District Marshal William T. O'Neil, the security head of a mining operation on one of Jupiter's moons, in "Outland," the 1981 adventure saga airing Friday, Sept. 5 on CBS.

From snow to soaps: Robert Thaler's saga

By Kimberly Redmond

What can you tell me about Robert Thaler, the actor who portrays Pearl on "Santa Barbara"? — C.B., Los Angeles, Calif.

Robert Thaler

Thaler was skiing in Lake Tahoe, Nev., when an actor-friend became ill and couldn't complete his run as Richard the Lion Hearted in "The Lion in Winter." So Thaler took over the part. The actor, who has a mathematics degree from the University of California at Berkeley, enrolled in acting classes after completing the engagement. He was later cast in a production of Harold Pinter's "The Caretaker." After spending time in New York City, where he appeared in the Tony-winning play "Puff," Thaler moved to Hollywood, where he landed a role in the ill-fated NBC police series "Renegades" (1983). The actor, who has also performed stand-up comedy, recently demonstrated his talents as an impressionist on

"Santa Barbara." As part of a story line in which Pearl spent time in a mental hospital, Thaler had the opportunity to impersonate "several" United States presidents.

Robert Scorpion, as played by Tristan Rogers, was always my favorite character on "General Hospital." What has the actor been doing since he left the ABC soap? — K.G., Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

It was Rogers' chance to exit "GH" last year on the heels of former "GH" 13-star Linda Starnes, who portrayed his TV wife. Holly Rogers will be returning to "GH" in mid-September, but only for a 13-week stint that will wrap up some loose ends in his story. Line Rogers has also taped an episode of "Hill," which will air this season.

Sorry, Michael J., but Kirk is the new TV fox

By Marc Minnelli

Kirk Cameron is hot. Real hot. The "Growing Pains" star is quickly replacing "Family Ties" star Michael J. Fox as television's hottest young hunk. He receives more than 4,000 fan letters a week and Cameron's beaming countenance graces the cover of almost every teen magazine. These publications, complete with such tantalizing headlines as "FANT FAX ON KIRK," "KIRK'S DREAM GIRL," and "THE QUOTABLE KIRK," are devoured by pre-pubescent females wanting to know about the actor's favorite clothes (faded blue jeans and T-shirts), school subjects (math and science) and way to spend a Friday night (taking a pizza with friends).

"When I look in the mirror, I don't see any extraordinary-looking guy," says Cameron, who plays mischievous Mike Seaver on the ABC sitcom. "I simply see me — a young kid who happens to be on a TV series. My friends in school still treat me like they always did. Of course," Cameron adds, "there are some kids who are jealous, but I simply don't bother with them."

Cameron became interested in acting when he was nine. His good friend actor Adam Rich ("Eight is Enough") suggested Cameron speak with his agent, who helped the budding thespian land his first TV commercial (Super Sugar Crisp). In 1981, Cameron made his TV-movie debut in "Goliath Awaits," an adventure saga starring Mark Harmon and Eddie Albert. Two years later, he won a role on the ill-fated ABC series "Two Marriages." Then came "Growing Pains."

Cameron claims he is surprised at the growing success of the show. "So many new shows fail," he explains, "and after 'Two Marriages,' I wondered if 'Growing Pains' would click."

Now, as he is about to begin a second season as ABC's resident heartthrob, the actor is still surprised by the mail he receives. "I don't get any brassieres and panties," he says, "a hint of laughter creeping into his voice." But I do get lots of stuffed animals, bracelets and necklaces. My mom and sister know all my fan mail on a computer, he adds. "If people are nice enough to write, I should be nice enough to answer."

Kirk Cameron

But nothing is the sudden rash of fame and fame obscurity to Cameron, and the 15-year-old actor quickly rejects his sex symbol status.

Laurie sees double in latest PBS offering

By Frank Luyere

For Laurie Anderson, Monday, Sept. 1, is the day of reckoning. That night, "What You Mean We?" her segment of the PBS series "Alive from Off Center," airs, and Anderson and producer Melinda Ward will be just as surprised as anyone else when they see the performance artist in action.

Anderson, with her tellers strapped off, is one of the best-known practitioners of that relatively new aesthetic called performance art. A trained musician who also received a fine-arts degree in sculpture, the Chicago native is an accomplished poet, mime and dancer.

Anderson has also been labeled a video artist, although she has made only a few works in that medium. And she's not a big fan of video-for-video's sake. "One thing I can't bear is video art, with these rectangles spinning around in space," Anderson says. "That's just showing off the technology you can do that on the network news. For me, video art has to tell a story, and not take over the story."

Ironically for such a visual performer, Anderson gained her cult following through such recent albums as "Big Science" and "United States." Equally ironically, that cult status may have trouble growing. While she's not yet Prince or Sean Penn, her associates tend to be overprotective.

"I'm not gonna complain about being recognized," Anderson says. "What right have I got to complain? I've made a lot of pictures of myself, and I've handed them out."

Laurie Anderson

Has Warren Beatty picked up manners?

By Cindy Adams

Warren Beatty has joined the control machine. Jackie Onassis, Elizabeth Taylor, Frank Sinatra and Jane Fonda (in howling, immortally David Thomson's mouth-traced, undulating bio, "American Beauty: The Public and Private Lives of Warren Beatty") has been ranked temporarily by Hollywood. The time was supposed to be for the stands in Hollywood, but it's done in Jan. 1987.

While Warren was filming "Poker-Addict" at Atlantic City's Resorts International, he was not only adored by everyone, but he was actually adored. The American beauty posed and smiled for picture-taking guests. And in case you're really into it, he was wearing white Reeboks, a white Miami Vice-like suit and — because it's the latest rage — two wristwatches.

Warren Beatty

Aaron Spelling's "Harry's Hong Kong" was on location in the Crown Colony for four weeks. The TV pilot will be unveiled this fall. If it's a success, this updated Occidental Charlie Chan-esque film, starring David Soul, David Hemmings and Julia Nickson (the Vietnamese beauty from "Rambo"), heads back East for nine months. At the Hong Kong Sheraton, Soul had the Presidential Suite. Hemmings had a plain suite. This will clue you as to who is the MVP.

Blanche Baker plays Arnold Schwarzenegger's wife in "Raw Deal." Shortly after the film opened, Blanche, a.k.a. Mrs. Bruce van Dusen, gave birth to her second child. In the hospital, a nurse told the actress, "One of the babies in the nursery is supposedly Arnold Schwarzenegger's illegitimate child." Sighs Carroll Baker's daughter. "That's how rumors get started."

Clockwise from top: Alan Thicke, Kirk Cameron, Jeremy Miller, Tracey Gold and Joanna Kerns measure up when it comes to comedy in "Growing Pains," the sitcom airing Tuesday, Sept. 2 on ABC.

David Soul

A kiss is just a kiss, a sigh is just a sigh, but a movie is not just a movie — especially when it's a movie like "The Man with Bogart's Face." Robert Sacchi stars as a private eye in the 1980 film airing Sunday, Aug. 31 on NBC.

Spoerleins Honored On 50th Event

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Spoerlein, Oakland, were honored on August 17 on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake. The event was hosted by the couple's daughter and family.

Carolyn and Buzz Updyke and children, Brenden and Christa. There were 125 in attendance from Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Florida, and Georgia.

They were married in Petersburg, Va., August 14, 1936. Mrs. Spoerlein is the former Alice Tucker, of Dinwiddie, Va., and had taught school in Virginia prior to their marriage.

Mr. Spoerlein retired from the Garrett County Board of Education after 43 years as a math teacher and guidance counselor at Oakland High School and then at Southern High School, followed by a number of years as supervisor of the Board of Education office.

The Spoerleins were also in the poultry business for a number of years, producing more than a million broilers and, at top production, also produced more than 2,000 eggs per day. Mr. Spoerlein says he now gets tired "even thinking about that work."

Mr. and Mrs. Spoerlein have been active in church and civic affairs. They helped organize the Church of the Brethren of Oakland and are two of the 26 charter members. Ernest has taught a Sunday School class for about 50 years. They both are graduates of Bridgewater College, where they met, and Ernest has been a trustee of the college for 35 years. They helped organize the 50-year club at the college (a club for people who graduated at least 50 years ago) and served as co-chairmen of the club in 1984-85.

Since retirement, they have been spending the winter months in Florida.

Weight Loss Clinic Offered At St. Ann's

Frostburg Community Hospital is offering a ten-week weight reduction clinic at St. Ann's Catholic Church in Grantsville, beginning Thursday, September 11. The Turn Around Workshop will be taught by Sue Willison, Director of FCH's Community Health Service.

Ms. Willison said that the Turn Around Workshop offers no easy ways to lose weight. It does stress behavior modification, sound nutrition and regular exercises. The course provides general nutrition information including menu plans, recipes and shopping hints. According to Ms. Willison, the program not only offers an uncomplicated diet plan and weekly weigh-ins, it allows the participants the chance to interact with and support each other. Participants will learn how to recognize unhealthy diets and how to deal with family sabotage.

Guest speakers for the Turn Around Clinic include registered dietitian, Amy Shuman, presenting "Tofu and You" and Jane Wagner, home economist, discussing "Dried Peas, Beans and Lentils Cookery."

The course will run from 10 to 11:30 a.m. every Thursday for 10 weeks. The cost is $25.00 and enrollment is limited to 40 participants. Anyone interested in registration or information may contact the Community Health Education Department, 5 East Main Street, Frostburg; telephone 689-5222 or 689-5223.
